Would Give Access to Middle Europe

LONDON, Sept. 19 (AP)—Foreign ministers of the Big Five nations said tonight they had reached substantial agreement on the troublesome Italo-Yugoslav boundary dispute and had turned over to their deputies the drawing of the actual boundary line.

A statement issued after two sessions of the Big Five council said it had been decided to make Trieste, now in Italian hands, an international port, and to give each nation sovereignty over peoples speaking its language.

Provisions will be made for international control of Trieste to assure port and transit facilities on equal terms for Yugoslavia, Italy, and the states of central Europe "as is customary in other free ports of the world."

On Molotov's Formula

This solution, giving Yugoslavia less than she had asked and taking from Italy more than she wanted to give up, apparently was in line with the formula proposed by Soviet Foreign Commissar Molotov yesterday.

"Territories which belong to Croats and Slovenes should be returned to them. Those which are Italian in character, it will be proper for Italy to take," Molotov told a press conference.

Today's statement said the new boundary would, in the main, be "the ethnic line, leaving a minimum under alien rule, on the understanding that appropriate investigations will be carried out on the spot before the final delimitation of the frontier."

Treaty Decisions Delayed

Final decision on all matters pertaining to the Italian peace treaty must be submitted to the united nations which declared war on Italy.

British newspapers expressed surprise at Molotov's statement yesterday indicating that Russia might like a hand in controling two of Italy's colonies, Eritrea and Tripolitania. It was, the conservative Daily Telegraph suggested, as tho "Great Britain should become trustee for Outer Mongolia."

Cairo dispatches reported that Arabs in Tripolitania opposed its return to Italy or its division among the big powers. They were quoted as demanding "recognition of the sovereignty of Tripolitania."

Deputies to Visit Trieste

[By Cable to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune]

LONDON, Sept. 19—Secretary of State Byrnes has requested John Foster Dulles, Republican, international lawyer and advisory member of the American delegation to the conference of foreign ministers, to tour eastern Europe and examine conditions to ascertain what the United States attitude should be in the complex discussions facing the peace makers.

The American delegation, apparently worried about difficult political questions, obtained general approval of the council that the five deputies to the foreign ministers should personally visit Istria and Trieste to study the situation there. Dulles will not be a member of the deputies' party. The assignment Byrnes suggested is far more general.

WINDSORS SHUT OFF FROM PUBLIC AT BRITISH PORT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Sept. 19—A security blackout is being imposed on the duke of Windsor's brief visit to Plymouth aboard the United States liner Argentina Friday evening, it was indicated today. It was reported that no contacts, either by the press or visitors, would be permitted while the Argentina spends several hours unloading mail and passengers before proceeding to Le Havre. The duke will not land at Plymouth but will go on to France with the duchess. He plans to return to Britain later.

10,000 Jam Los Angeles Church Area

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 19—While 10,000 persons jammed the streets outside, Shirley Temple, 18, became the bride of Sgt. John G. Agar, 24, at the Wilshire Methodist church here tonight.

After the ceremony, the crowd got out of control of the 75 policemen on duty. Hundreds of bobby soxers and even old men and women surged across the street, squealing and jumping up and down, trying to get a glimpse of the newly married couple, besieged by photographers in the church doorway. Shirley and her husband finally had to seek refuge by re-entering the church and leaving by a side entrance.

The ceremony itself was delayed a quarter of an hour until Gov. Earl Warren of California arrived. And it was concluded with the longest kiss I ever saw in a church.

Bridesmaids in 'Temple Blue'

The church itself was decked with pink roses and blue ribbon. The bridesmaids, dressed in gowns which Shirley's dressmaker described as "Temple blue," carried old fashioned bouquets of pink roses with a fringe of red roses on the outside.

The Rev. Willsie Martin tied the knot. He performed a like service for Deanna Durbin and Jeanette MacDonald.

Shirley's brother, Jack, and his wife were best man and matron of honor. The bridesmaids included Joyce Agar, the bridegroom's sister, and six of Shirley's school friends—Katharine Ferguson, Phoebe Hearst, Mary Lou Isleib [Shirley's former stand-in], Betty Jean Lail, Nancy Majors, and Constance Webb.

Brother Is Usher

Ushers were the bridegroom's brother James and Shirley's brother George Jr., and Thomas Gallagher, Ernest Greff, John McNeill, and Sgt. Frank Walker.

Sgt. Agar, son of the late John Agar, Chicago packer, formerly lived in Lake Forest, Ill.

Never in any picture has Shirley looked so much like the queen of the screen as she did when she walked down the aisle on her father's arm to take her vows. She was dressed in white with pearls at her throat and a lovely veil framing that piquant face.

The church was filled, but not star studded as most of our big marriages are. Shirley invited her friends. She doesn't know many of the big stars.

Big Stars Not There

As a matter of fact, I didn't see a single big star inside the church. The crowd included directors, grips, electricians, cameramen, make up men and hair dressers—all the people Shirley has come to know in her years in the movies. A colored woman dressed neatly in black with a corsage of red roses, apparently an old family servant, was the only person who wept as Shirley walked down the aisle.

Shirley's "something borrowed" was a sheer Belgian handkerchief; the "something blue," a tiny blue garter; and the "something old," a small cross worn inside her dress. The wedding ring she used for the "something new." And for good

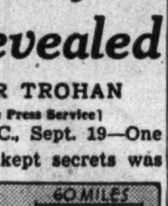
THE DEMOCRATS' ATOMIC BOMB

Secret F. D. R. Hideaway in Hills Revealed

BY WALTER TROHAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19—One of the war's best kept secrets was the private retreat of the late President Roosevelt, 65 miles from the capital in near-by Maryland.



Site of retreat [arrow]

Here at 1,700 feet above sea level in the heart of a mountainous 10,000 acres of National park, Roosevelt had a palatial retreat in which he plotted war strategy with Prime Minister Churchill and other allied leaders.

Altho the Catoctin recreation area was public property, the public was barred from the grounds during the war, whether the President was there or not, by a marine guard.

Lodge and Cabins Built

The retreat on which the park service spent large sums had a massive blockhouse lodge of heavy oak and chestnut, a number of smaller adjoining cabins, a swimming pool, and some of the world's finest trout streams. The streams, one of which emptied into an abandoned quarry near the lodge, were stocked with rainbow trout from government hatcheries.

The quarry was reportedly the favorite fishing spot for Mr. Roosevelt. When he felt the urge, the President's big limousine would come slowly down the mountain road from the main lodge to the quarry, and the President would cast for gamy rainbows from a rowboat manned by a sailor or a marine.

Others of the Presidential party would wade the trout streams, whipping the riffles and pools. Mr. Churchill, no fishing devotee, is said to have spent such intervals relaxing on the veranda.

Had Swimming Pool

Near the lodge federal workers constructed a swimming pool, reportedly especially for Mr. Roosevelt. A paved road was built to the lodge from neighboring Thurmont, population 1,300, four miles away. Thurmont villagers got many a thrill during the war years when a Presidential motor cavalcade would whizz thru en route to the hideaway. Often the traffic light at Church and Main sts. would hold up the party and secret service men would spring from other cars and surround the one in which the President was traveling.

The tract is officially known as the Catoctin Recreation area and contains 9,919 acres. It was assembled for the national park service in 1939 and 1940 thru the purchase of about 260 homesteads and farms. Before Pearl Harbor a considerable portion of the tract was used by the Maryland League for Crippled Children, which has a place farther up the mountain range.

Doors Open from Top

In the lodge itself, which cost $20,499.79, the doors of the President's bedroom opened from the top rather than from the side. The doors formed a ramp giving access for wheeling Roosevelt to the lodge grounds.

Often during hot weather Mr. Roosevelt fled the heat of the capital to find comfort at the mountain lodge which was always 10 to 20 degrees cooler than Washington.

The lodge may now revert to the American people altho park officials do not know when.

Churchill and Roosevelt reportedly met in the lodge five times. Nearby was the American home of Crown Princess Martha of Norway, a White House favorite of the Roosevelts.

Parts of the grounds of the hideaway were used in training officers for intelligence work.

U. S. 3D FLEET BEGINS VICTORIOUS JOURNEY HOME FROM TOKYO

TOKYO, Sept. 20 [Thursday]—(AP)—A large portion of the United States 3d fleet weighed anchor in Tokyo bay at 12:45 p. m. [10:45 p. m. Wednesday, Chicago time] and started on a victorious return to the United States.

Including such battleships as the Iowa, Alabama, Wisconsin, South Dakota, Colorado, and West Virginia, the fleet sailed for Okinawa. There it will pick up liberated prisoners of war to speed them home. There, too, the battleships Texas, Arkansas, and Nevada will join the fleet.

In charge was Rear Adm. John Shafroth. At Pearl Harbor, the fleet probably will pick up Adm. Halsey and perhaps Adm. Nimitz. From there, the fleet will go to San Francisco.

Others in the returning fleet include the aircraft carrier Ticonderoga and the cruisers Amsterdam, Vicksburg, and Tucson.

The battleship Missouri, Adm. Nimitz' flagship, preceded the fleet. It was announced that the blasted Jap battleship Nagato will be towed to San Francisco for war bond purposes.

Save Terrier That Starved for 2 Months

For more than two months, thru July and August, Dodie, an 8 year old female fox terrier, was imprisoned in an 11 foot deep hole in the abandoned ice house on Larrabee st. north of Chicago av. In all that time she had no food unless she caught a few rats and mice, and the only water she had to drink was that which seeped into the bottom of the pit after rains.

Dodie had fallen in the pit shoftly after she escaped from an express company truck on June 19 at the La Salle st. station while en route from Newport, R. I., to Los Angeles, Cal. On Aug. 26 John Zserdin of 849 Cambridge av., whose home is near the ice house, happened into the building and heard a faint moan.

Too Weak to Stand

Guided by the sound, Zserdin found the pit. The beam of his flashlight revealed the dog at the bottom. She was literally nothing but skin and bones and so weak she could not stand. But she looked up into the light, and her tail wagged feebly. Deep furrows gouged into the walls of the dog's prison attested her desperate efforts to escape.

Zserdin took the dog to the Anti-Cruelty society at 157 W. Grand av., and turned her over to Dr. W. A. Young, the director. A 1945 California license on the dog's collar dissuaded Dr. Young from destroying her, and the seemingly futile task of restoring Dodie to health was begun.

Slowly Responds to Treatment

She was spoon fed with warm milk and broth for 48 hours. Then she was given transfusions of dog blood plasma. Slowly the dog responded to the treatment, and began to lose her bony appearance.

"She came closer to starvation than any dog I ever saw," Dr. Young said. "Her recovery bordered on the miraculous."

Thru Los Angeles authorities Dr. Young learned that Dodie belonged to Sgt. and Mrs. John H. Ramsden of Yuba City, Cal. Ramsden is overseas, but his wife was desolated over the dog's loss.

Yesterday Dodie was placed in another crate and put aboard a train to complete her journey to Yuba City.

B-29s REACH WASHINGTON AFTER STOP HERE TO REPLENISH LOW FUEL SUPPLY

Failure to Reach Goal Charged to Heavy Winds

Out of an overcast sky at Chicago airport, the three Super Fortress bombers that left Japan Tuesday afternoon dropped down to perfect landings late yesterday after a 5,995 mile nonstop flight. Within two hours the planes were serviced and refueled and on their way to Washington, D. C., their original goal, not reached nonstop because gas supplies were reduced by strong head winds.

Each plane circled the airport for several minutes before landing from the northwest. Brig. Gen. Emmett O'Donnell brought his plane down at 4:43 p. m. Lt. Gen. Barney M. Giles landed at 5:30 p. m. Thirteen minutes later Maj. Gen. Curtis E. Le May's plane touched the runway.

Their Elapsed Time

Their elapsed times from Mazutani air field at Sapporo, the capital of Hokkaido, were:

O'Donnell, 25 hours, 43 minutes and 25 seconds.

Giles, 26 hours, 24 minutes and 55 seconds.

Lemay, 27 hours, and 30 seconds.

"We had a very nice flight," Gen. Giles said. "We followed the great circle course. Head winds 3,000 miles from here made it impossible for us to reach our goal of Washington, D. C."

When gasoline supplies ran low, the plane commanders considered landing at Minneapolis, Detroit, or Chicago. Commenting on their choice of Chicago, Gen. Giles said: "Chicago has a good airport and it's a great city."

Atomic Bomber in Crew

Members of the crews climbed out of the planes and drank coffee while waiting to resume the flight. One of them was Capt. Kermit Beahan, of Houston, Tex., bombardier of the Super Fortress that dropped the war's second atomic bomb on Nagasaki. Previously he had been an observer of the atomic bombing of Hiroshima.

"I was nervous because I knew what we had in the plane over Nagasaki," Beahan said. "I'll never forget that it was on Aug. 9, my 27th birthday."

One Plane Hesitates

Servicing of the planes was completed and crews were back at their positions shortly after 6 p. m. Motors were warmed up. For a few minutes it appeared Lemay's plane might be forced out because of trouble starting the right outboard engine.

The motor sputtered and coughed for 10 minutes as it was being turned over by battery. Then it caught and roared into full power.

Gen. Giles' plane took off at 6:36 p. m. The others followed at two minute intervals.

LIVE STOCK EAT POTATOES GIVEN FARMERS BY U. S.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 19 (AP)—Potatoes, retailing at around 50 cents a peck, are being given free to New York state farmers by the federal government for live stock feeding.

Leo F. Powers, assistant state marketing officer in the production and marketing administration of the United States department of agriculture, said today carloads of surplus government bought potatoes are being offered to farmers for live stock feed to prevent them from spoiling.

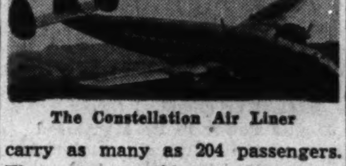
3 U. S. AIRLINES MAP SERVICE AT 300 M. P. H. SPEED

New York, Sept. 19 (AP)—The speed flight of three army B-29's from Japan to the United States coincided today with announcements by three commercial airlines that they hoped to step up passenger transportation to a 300-mile-an-hour level soon.

Transcontinental and Western said it hoped to become the first 300-mile-an-hour airline with a 14 hour New York to Europe service within a few weeks.

Pan American World Airways said it was adding 118 new flights to its Latin American division schedules and had plans for using 300-mile-an-hour craft that would carry as many as 204 passengers. The company said new planes now on order would make possible an 11 hour New York to London service. It said it was aiming at 400-mile-an-hour speeds.



The Constellation Air Liner

Eastern to Cut Time

Eastern Air Lines reported thru its president, Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, that it had signed contracts for 20 new four engined planes that would carry the company's passengers from New York to Washington and to Boston in less than an hour; New York to Miami in four and a half hours, and Chicago to Miami in five hours.

All three of the lines would use Lockheed Constellation air liners for their high speed flights.

[Merger of American Airlines and Mid-Continent Airlines planned if approved by civil aeronautics board. Story and map on page 29.]

Jack Frye, president of Transcontinental and Western, said his company's new fast service would be provided with a fleet of 36 Constellations, the first 12 of which were expected to be ready in the next two months.

Carry 51 Passengers

The new planes would carry 51 passengers, Frye said, and would schedule a 10 hour coast to coast domestic service.

Pan American reported that some of its proposed 118 additional schedules already had been started and that it expected its service to South America to be doubled in a few weeks. It plans four fleets of Super Clippers, with planes carrying 56, 108, 124, and 204 passengers.

Rickenbacker said that if Eastern Air Lines' requests for new routes are granted, they would fly from New York to Havana in six hours and New York to Mexico City in eight and a half hours.

ONE DAY HEAT WAVE ENDED BY THUNDERSTORM

A thunderstorm struck Chicago last night, presaged an end to the city's one day summer weather, during which the mercury rose to 84 degrees, 10 above normal.

The same storm earlier struck Rockford and sent the temperature from 82 to 61, and Milwaukee, Wis., with wind gusts there reaching 70 miles an hour at times. In West Chicago, Du Page county, hail accompanied the rain.

Forecaster G. E. Dunn said that today will be sunny and cooler, with maximum temperatures around 65, or 9 degrees below the normal 74 for this time. The next four or five days should be cool except for a one day rise, he said.

100 So. Africans Injured in Fight at Vets' Rally

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, Sept. 19 (AP)—One hundred persons were reported injured last night when Nationalist party members, who opposed South Africa's participation in the war, attempted to break up a meeting of ex-service men. Police used nightsticks. The veterans had met to demand that the government deal with South African Fascists as war criminals.

Brass Band Greets Crews on Arrival at Capital

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19 (AP)—Three army Super Fortresses reached the capital tonight from Japan after headwinds had forced them down at Chicago to refuel, 650 miles short of their 6,500 mile nonstop goal here.

High military and government dignitaries, plus a brass band, welcomed the flyers to Washington.

The leader of the flight, Lt. Gen. Barney M. Giles, commander of all army air forces in the Pacific, stepped out of his B-29 and told reporters the flight was "very fine."

It was valuable, he said, as an exploration flight along the great circle route and in the weather information gathered.

Flew 4 Miles Up

For the most part they held an altitude of approximately 20,000 feet—nearly four miles up.

The lead plane left Mazutani air field at Sapporo, the capital of Hokkaido, at 3:01 p. m., Chicago time, yesterday. It landed at National airport across the Potomac at 8:53 p. m. today, 29 hours and 52 minutes later.

Maj. Frederick B. Schaeffer of New Cumberland, Pa., a pilot in Giles' ship, was disappointed in the failure of the flight to go thru as scheduled.

"If it hadn't been for those damned headwinds we'd have made it," Schaeffer said. "We had planned things so we would arrive with a large gas reserve. But we used it nearly all up when the predicted tail winds failed to turn out and headwinds developed instead."

Met by Gen. Arnold

The other two ships were commanded by Maj. Gen. Curtis E. Le May and Brig. Gen. Emmett O'Donnell. All three planes were manufactured at the Boeing company's plant in Wichita, Kas.

The returning flyers were met by Gen. Arnold, chief of the army air forces; Gen. Spaatz, chief of strategic bombing forces in the Pacific; Maj. Gen. Lauris Norstad, chief of staff of the 20th air force, and others.

For nearly all of the trip, Maj. Schaeffer was at the controls of Giles' plane, except when he took time for cat naps and food. He was met here by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Grover C. Schaeffer.

"We had hot C rations, too," Schaeffer said. "We put them on the radar set and warmed them up."

Daughter Embraces Giles

A co-pilot on the lead plane, Lt. William H. P. Dolan Jr., Milwaukee, Ore., said he was "tickled" to be back after a year overseas and was looking forward to seeing his wife and year old daughter, Ann Marie, in Oroville, Cal.

Giles had an enthusiastic greeting from his daughter and son-in-law, Col. and Mrs. Robert H. Gardner, Chesterfield, S. C. Mrs. Gardner was so anxious to see her father she burst thru the crowd of photographers and reporters circled around the general and threw her arms around his neck.

"Not a Stunt."

Giles disclosed that they landed at Chicago with from 700 to 1,200 gallons of gasoline in their tanks, but had chosen not to take any chances with the big planes. "This was a practical test, not a stunt," he said.

The planes carried 10,000 gallons of gasoline each, which meant 30 tons of fuel in their wings and bomb bays.

Dozen on Each Plane

Each plane carried a dozen crewmen and passengers, combat veterans eligible for furloughs home or discharges.

They reached the half way point, the city of White Horse in the Yukon, about 19½ hours after leaving Japan. From there on their speed increased as the gasoline load lightened.

Off Kamchatka three Russian P-63 King Cobra fighters performed acrobatics around the ships. Over Fairbanks, Alaska, crewmen saw the northern lights. The temperatures outside were as low as 20 degrees below zero. The men inside the planes lolled in shirt sleeves, warmed by the plane heating systems.

Their flight fell short by 300 miles of a Russian nonstop jump from Moscow to California in 1937 and more than 1,100 miles short of the world record set by two British planes from Egypt to Australia in 1938.

PATH CLEARED FOR FILIPINO TRAITOR TRIALS

MANILA, Sept. 19 (AP)—With two of his own sons in jail as alleged collaborationists, Commonwealth President Sergio Osmena was prepared today to set up the legal machinery for the trials of Filipinos suspected of having coöperated with the Japanese invaders.

The president was armed with a law under which he can name special prosecutors from among civilian lawyers. The Philippine congress approved this provision Monday night prior to sine die adjournment. Osmena had demanded the provision.

The final bill creates a people's court to try the alleged collaborationists.

ATOM SECRECY CONDEMNED BY DR. GUSTAVSON

Chemist Says Reds May Surpass Us

Within a few years, Russia may be able to develop a better atomic bomb than the one America employed to blast the Japanese cities of Hiroshima and Nagasaki, Dr. Reuben G. Gustavson, vice president and dean of faculties of the University of Chicago, said yesterday. He addressed a luncheon meeting of the university's Citizen board in the Chicago club.

Basic science work that led to creation of the bomb is well known to nuclear physicists the world over, the internationally known chemist and former president of the University of Colorado told his audience of 300 business and professional men who heard him discuss "Atomic Energy—The Story Behind it and the Possibilities Ahead."

"No Safety in Secrecy"

"You can't keep the bomb a secret," said Dr. Gustavson. "The Russians or some other country within a year or longer may develop even a better one. There is no safety in secrecy."

To attempt a policy of concealment, Dr. Gustavson declared, "would be a tragedy," comparable with what he said was the mistake made by this country after World War I., in trying to stifle American research in nitrates because great strides had been made in their use as explosives.

The discovery of radioactive substances, Dr. Gustavson explained, caused science some time ago, to scrap its old views based on the Newtonian concept that matter is indestructible and that atoms could not be cracked by the greatest of mechanical or chemical forces.

Atomic Power to Be Harnessed

Given the strategic materials, nuclear physicists today have the ability, he maintained, to harness atomic power usefully, but whether the energy produced by such atomic installations could generate peace time by-products economically remains for future experimentation to determine, he declared.

In the new science of tomorrow, he said, he looked forward to the beneficial use of atomic power derivatives in the treatment of cancer and the investigation of heredity and the aging process.

Third of Draft Rejections Are Due to Mental Ills

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19 (AP)—More than a third of rejections for military service sprang from mental ills or deficiencies, Draft Chief Hershey told congress today. This cause figured in 1,767,000 cases of a total of 4,800,000 men turned down, the general testified before a house interstate subcommittee considering a bill to coördinate study, treatment, and prevention of mental disorders.

FRENCH-CHINESE TROOP DISPUTE BELIEVED ENDED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, Sept. 19—The Franco-Chinese dispute over the question of a French military mission entering Indo-China was believed to have ended after conversations between Gen. de Gaulle and Dr. T. V. Soong, Chinese prime minister, who arrived in Paris by plane today.

Stressing that the conversations were "particularly cordial," an official bulletin said a whole range of subjects of interest to the two countries had been thoroly discussed.

Further evidence that France intends to return to its rich, far eastern colony at the earliest opportunity was seen in the continued departure of ships bearing troops bound for Indo-China. No further news has been received in Paris regarding Gen. Marcel Alessandri, head of the French military mission, who presumably still is waiting in Kunming for permission from Gen. Lou Han, commander of Chinese troops in Hanoi, to cross into Indo-China.

Stimson Will Go to His Long Island Home to Rest

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19 (AP)—Henry L. Stimson tonight began laying aside the final duties of what he described as a "rather long career in public life." He bade farewell to the press at a final news conference, said his resignation as war secretary would become effective on Friday, and that he was going to his home on Long Island to rest.

JAPAN'S RUSTICS SLOWLY REALIZE WAR'S BEEN LOST

BY HAROLD SMITH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

TOKYO, Sept. 19—Japan's occupation by its late enemy is spreading slowly into the consciousness of the nation's teeming millions. This correspondent has just completed a two day automobile journey 75 miles into the interior in the wildly beautiful region of Fujiyama, the main island's gargantuan volcano and landmark, where our party gave thousands of villagers their first sight of their conquerors.

Our equipage, a 1937 sedan, protested on every hill, stiffly taking curves hung precariously on sheer cliffs. Japan's country roads are mostly one way trails, deep rutted by the upcountry rainfall. They branch frequently, and are not marked for tourist travel. The few pedestrian middle of the roaders who use them apparently would rather die than look back and often almost do.

Getting directions from these blank faced rustics is high adventure in incomprehension. Upon understanding it is Fujisan you are seeking, they point triumphantly to the cloud wreathed monster and then plod onward, leaving you to work out the details of getting there.

Scamper Into Hiding

Narrow village streets fill instantly with awed faces at each stop but they are blank to all questions. Between towns children and young women, imbued with war time propaganda against the Americans, scamper like quail into roadside thickets. On one long, steep hill we passed a girl riding a bicycle. Just beyond her our car failed and rolled backward. Panic stricken, the girl reversed her course and lost altitude like a dive bomber.

For a long distance the road followed a river bed marked every few miles with hydroelectric plants, near many of which burned ruins told a mute story of our recent air campaign to cripple the nation industrially. Japan harnesses the water, trickling it down terraces of rice fields, shooting it thru turbines, and cascading it beneath many old fashioned mill wheels.

Inspect Jap Guns

We stayed overnight with the 2d battalion of the 150th New York infantry, quartered at the Fuji heavy artillery school, where thousands of Nip soldiers learned the workings of huge field pieces and self-propelled guns that were never to be used.

Here we inspected several artillery and vehicle types never before encountered. Most interesting of the guns were 10 inch and 12 inch howitzers of ancient lineage and because of their great weight adaptable only for defense.

Also observed were a 150 mm. mortar on a self-propelled mount, and Jap versions of our jeep and command car. Our soldiers, driving the pseudo jeep with two wheel drive and a two cylinder, air cooled motor, were contemptuous of its performance. The command car was unsubstantial and underpowered. One version had a four wheel drive but it was of flimsy construction thruout, its performance lagging far behind our prototype.

No Road Leads to Fujiyama

We saw conventional Jap army trucks by the dozen, rear drive 1½ tonners, all lacking repairs despite huge near-by stockpiles of spare parts.

Leaving the town of Fujishido, we hailed the driver of an army jeep to ask the way. A civilian in shorts and with a deep, disfiguring scar across the right side of his face leaped out and sprinted into a near-by Jap house to ask the natives for us. While he was gone the jeep driver informed us he was Lt. Gen. Alfred Kretschmer, German military attache to the Jap government during the last four and one-half years, and now on our war criminal list. "He's a pretty good Joe, tho," our informant added.

We departed from the region doubly defeated. No road, we learned, goes within several miles of the summit of Fujiyama, eight hours from our automobile jumping off place. Also for the entire two days dark clouds kept Fuji's jagged crest hidden from our view, only once thinning enough to suggest the outlines of a stupendous mass of upthrust volcanic rock.

AIR GENERAL TELLS HOW EYES OF RADAR HELPED SHORTEN WAR

Radar played a vital role in ending the nazi submarine menace, in speeding the collapse of Germany thru radar pilotage and bombing thru overcast, and in bringing Japan to its knees by radar-aimed bombs from B-29s, Maj. Gen. Roger B. Colton told members of the Chicago Association of Commerce at a luncheon meeting yesterday in the Palmer House. Gen. Colton had charge of the army air forces radar research and development program until Aug. 1 and is currently in charge of electronic equipment for the air forces supply division.

Maj. Gen. Roger B. Colton

Thruout the B-29 raids against Japan, more than 97,000 tons of bombs dropped were aimed by radar, Gen. Colton said, and more than 15,000 B-29 flights bombed blind, using radar.

"I think you are familiar with the results," Gen Colton commented. "Victory proved easier because we had more and better radio and radar than our enemies."

Gen. Colton said radar guided many crippled American planes safely to base, eyed every square mile of the Atlantic for U-boats, and increased, by means of blind bombing, the number of bombing missions over Europe by 150 per cent.

Move 700 Sunken Ships, Open Rhine to Duisburg

BERLIN, Sept. 19 (AP)—The Rhine river has been cleared of 700 sunken vessels and 15 bridges and is open for navigation from Duisburg to the sea, army headquarters said tonight. Coal and grain for liberated Europe are moving daily over the waterway.

20% of Viennese May Die This Winter, Official Says

VIENNA, Sept. 19 (AP)—A high Austrial official predicted today that 20 per cent of Vienna's citizens might die from exposure this winter due to lack of adequate shelter and clothing. He said hundreds still are starving despite allied efforts to increase the food ration.

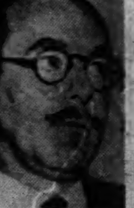
ACHESON WARNS M'ARTHUR CAN'T SET U.S. POLICY

Vows Surrender Terms Will Be Followed

BY WILLIAM STRAND
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington D. C., Sept. 19—The state department, thru Acting Secretary Acheson, today took sharp issue with Gen. MacArthur's announcement that he expects to need the services of only 200,000 United States troops for the occupation of Japan and Korea. Acheson, in a pungent statement, said MacArthur is in Japan to carry out allied occupation policy, not to make that policy.



Dean Acheson

President Truman indicated at his press conference yesterday that he was gratified by the scaling down of MacArthur's preliminary estimates of 400,000 to 500,000 for the Japanese garrison. However, the controversy took another bewildering turn today when the White House issued a formal statement by the President in which he asserted that the "size or makeup" of the armies of occupation cannot be accurately determined until next spring.

Plans Social Revolution

At his press conference today, Acheson replied bitterly to the forecast of the supreme allied commander that his needs for occupation forces in Japan will be halved in the next six months. He declared the state department policy is for a social and economic revolution in Japan regardless of what MacArthur says about slashing the army of occupation.

"The occupation forces are the instruments of policy and not the determinants of policy," Acheson declared in an authorized quotation. "I am surprised that any one can foresee at this time what number of forces will be necessary in Japan. That may come from my inadequate knowledge of the military field, however, and it is not very important.

"The important thing is that the policy in regard to Japan is the same policy which has always been held by this government and is still held so far as I know—and I think I know.

Policy to Be Carried Out

"The policy is and has been that the surrender of Japan will be carried out—that Japan will be put in a position where it cannot renew aggressive warfare, that the present economic and social system of Japan, which makes for war, will be changed so that that will to war will not continue, and whatever it takes to carry this out will be used to carry it out."

He added that a state, war and navy department committee still is functioning to coördinate American policy in the Japanese occupation.

Critics of Gen. MacArthur were denounced today from the house floor by Rep. Reed [R., N. Y.], who asserted the general is being made the victim of abuse simply because his opinion of the number of men he needs is at variance with that of an influential group in the government who are trying to delay demobilization. He compared the present attempts being made in some quarters to belittle MacArthur with the abuse that was heaped upon Brig. Gen. Billy Mitchell after the last war when he spoke out in opposition to military theories held by army and navy leaders.

Vows Speedy Release

Mr. Truman's pronouncements did little to dispel the confusion in capitol circles over where administration leaders stand in relation to MacArthur's occupation plans and future man power needs in the far east.

In his statement handed out today, the President said he wanted to make one thing clear—that the speed of demobilization is not governed by "our future needs for occupation and other forces."

"The army's plans call for the return to their homes of more than 2,000,000 soldiers between V-J day and Christmas, 1945," the President said. "Between now and Christmas the discharge rate will rise steadily from the present daily figure of 15,200 to not less than 22,000 per day and by January, 1946, to more than 25,000 per day."

He added that the services are carrying on demobilization as rapidly as they can and "we shall not really face the problem of the size or makeup of the occupation forces until next spring."

EXPERT PRAISES GEN. M'ARTHUR'S POLICY IN KOREA

Far East Authority Raps Critics

BY CHARLES GOTTHART
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

New York, Sept. 19—Praising Gen. MacArthur for wise handling of an explosive situation, one of America's best informed authorities on the far east said today that criticism of the supreme allied commander's policy in Korea was ill advised and based on a misunderstanding of oriental history.

Maj. Gen. F. McCoy

Maj. Gen. Frank Ross McCoy, president of the Foreign Policy association and a distinguished soldier and diplomat, asserted in an interview that the commander "can be depended upon to oust the Japs from Korea the moment they are no longer useful to American occupation forces."

Critics of Gen. MacArthur's policy have protested the use of Japs by the American military government in Korea, altho the commander, President Truman, and others have given assurance that there will be no "kid glove" treatment of Japan. Top ranking Japs already have been ejected from Korean government jobs.

Studied Manchurian Incident

Gen. McCoy's knowledge of the far east was gained thru military service dating from the Spanish-American war and diplomatic assignments including the American post on the league of nations commission that investigated the "Manchurian incident" 15 years ago.

"The critics fail to realize that Koreans have had no part in their own government since 1905, and that the last government of which they had control was one of the most corrupt in history," Gen. McCoy said.

"In their 40 years of exploitation by the Japs, who never succeeded in getting the slightest Korean loyalty, they had no opportunity to develop government leaders.

"Conscious of this 40 year vacuum of government officials, it was wisely agreed at the Cairo conference that the Koreans would be given their independence 'in due course.'

Faces Many Problems

"Gen. MacArthur, who understands the far east, realizes that for all these years every Korean government and civilian position of the slightest importance has been held by Japs. Never before in history has there been a case in which an occupying power has stepped in to a country with no framework of its own.

"He will have a Gordian knot to cut every other day. There are Korean groups in China and this country who claim to represent their homeland, and do in a patriotic resistance sense.

"The Koreans require a period of tutelage in creating an economy and a government of their own. They'll accept our assistance because of the fine work of American teachers and missionaries there. China and Russia will coöperate.

Aggression Temptation

"The American military government will get rid of the Japs as soon as possible. Eventually, Korean tutelage should be the responsibility of the united nations organization. Unless the country is adequately protected, it will remain a great temptation for foreign aggression."

Asked to comment on the theory that the league's failure to stop Japan at that time inspired Mussolini to invade Ethiopia and Hitler to plot his conquest of Europe, Gen. McCoy said:

"The only thing that would have stopped the Jap fanatics would have been the assembly of British and American fleets at Singapore. Diplomatic pressure was not enough. The league found Japan guilty in Manchuria, but Japan walked out of the league."

Jilted; Takes Life

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 19 (AP)—A pilot light on a gas refrigerator ignited fumes escaping from a stove and blew out the side of a house while a jilted suitor was committing suicide by gas, Detective George Marker said today.

Charles G. Littleton, 28, was found dead on the floor of his two room apartment by Marker, who was called to investigate the blast last night. The detective said an autopsy will be made to determine whether death was caused by gas or the explosion.

Marker said Littleton's girl friend had broken off their engagement a short time before.

PEPPER RANKS STALIN AMONG HISTORY'S GREAT

LONDON, Sept. 19 (AP)—Sen. Claude Pepper [D., Fla.] in a broadcast at Moscow tonight described Generalissimo Stalin as "one of the greatest men in the history of the world" and said America and Russia could make the world "a more peaceful and prosperous world than we have now."

Calling his visit to the soviet union a great privilege, Pepper remarked: "The people of America and good men and women everywhere owe a great debt to Generalissimo Stalin, to the Red army, and to the people of the soviet union for their magnificent part in turning back and destroying the evil nazis, for their blows against the Japanese, and for all that this great generalissimo, this mighty army and this heroic people have done for the restoration of freedom and independence in this world."

People of the United States "want to continue to walk side by side with the people of the soviet union," Pepper said, adding: "I am sure that the Russian people have the same desire. People everywhere are looking prayerfully toward us and are counting on us to fulfill our great mission to mankind."

THREE-FOURTHS OF JAPAN'S HOME ARMY DISBANDED

TOKYO, Sept. 20 [Thursday]—(AP)—Three-fourths of the Japanese army under arms in the home islands in mid-August have been demobilized—within half the two months time allotted by allied occupation authorities—Gen. MacArthur announced today.

Demobilization has continued at the rate of 50,000 men daily, he said. There were 2,253,000 Japanese under arms in the homeland islands Aug. 15.

A Japanese war department report disclosed 1,645,000 servicemen had been demobilized as of Sept. 17, with 607,500 remaining to be released by the Oct. 15 deadline.

Up to Sept. 2, some 670,200 had been demobilized, with 359,000 more released within the next five days.

Demobilization Rate Higher

An additional 616,000 were released in the 10 day period ending Sept. 17, the report said.

The homeland army demobilization has been 72 per cent completed, the report stated. Several of the figures cited varied from earlier compilations, but the report explained that prior statistics had been of a preliminary nature.

Occupation authorities said they regard the present report as a "fairly accurate" account of home island demobilization progress.

The Japanese cabinet will soon clean out more of its war time leaders, reliable informants predicted, in keeping with the hardfisted allied occupation controls which temporarily shut down another Tokyo newspaper.

These sources placed Vice Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye's name at the head of the list. Konoye, twice premier, headed the government when Japan invaded China in 1937.

Others mentioned were Lt. Gen. Toshishiro Obata and Taketora Ogata, ministers without portfolio. Ogata, also chief cabinet secretary, was among members of the jingoist Black Dragon society listed in Gen. MacArthur's selection of suspected war criminals.

Oppose Smooth Relations

Konoye and the others were described as opposed to attempts to smooth relations between the Japanese and American governments.

American army censorship authorities clamped down on the Tokyo English language newspaper Nippon Times, forbidding it to publish this morning's edition because it had failed to submit an editorial for the censor's scrutiny. The editorial dealt with the change of foreign ministers, which brought Shigeru Yoshida, a peace advocate, into the cabinet of Premier Prince Higashi-Kuni to replace Mamoru Shigemitsu, who was in two of Japan's war cabinets.

Lt. Gen. Eichelberger, commander of the United States 8th army received an official call from Gen. Kenji Doihara, new commander of the 1st Japanese general army. Headquarters said Doihara appeared "courteous and coöperative" and promised full coöperation to facilitate the occupation. Gen. Doihara is known as Japan's "Lawrence of Manchuria."

U.S. ARMY SETS UP ECONOMIC UNIT FOR JAP BUSINESS

TOKYO, Sept. 19 (AP)—The United States army in Japan has established a branch to advise on allied policies affecting economic, industrial, financial, mining, and scientific problems in the empire and in Korea. The new unit, headed by Raymond C. Kramer, will be known as the army's economic and scientific section.

It will recommend operation or nonoperation of economic and scientific activities, exports, imports, use of transportation and public utilities, conversion of Japanese facilities to production of civilian goods, maximum production and distribution of essential goods.

It will also coördinate activities of scientific and economic missions from the United States and other nations. Its approval must be obtained before industrial enterprises can be dismantled or removed, and before machinery, nonmilitary records, products or money, securities and bullion can be transferred into or out of Japan.

CZECHS PROTEST DELAY OF U. S. IN GIVING UP TISO

WIESBADEN, Germany, Sept. 19 (AP)—A Czechoslovak spokesman protested today at the delay in the extradition of Dr. Josep Tiso, who is in American custody.

Tiso, a Catholic priest, was president of the puppet Slovak government during German occupation. The Czechoslovaks list him as their leading war criminal and want to try him as a traitor. The spokesman said he had been trying for three months to have Tiso returned.

The priest and virtually all his cabinet fled into American lines to escape the approaching Russians near the end of the war. The Czechoslovak spokesman charged that Tiso was at least indirectly responsible for the deaths of 1,900 Slovaks killed by the Gestapo and for the deportation of from 30,000 to 40,000 Jews.

'CO-PROSPERITY' OF JAPS LEAVES INDIES STARVING

BY HARRY HOOGENDOORN
[Associated Press resident correspondent who was in Java during the Japanese occupation.]

BATAVIA, Java, Sept. 19 (AP)—Hunger, poverty, and humiliation are the Netherlands East Indies' legacies from more than three years under the Japanese "co-prosperity sphere."

The Japanese administration was chaotic, currupt, and maintained by terror.

Robbed and Looted

Food became scarce, prices soared, and black markets flourished. The Japanese robbed banks, looted museums, burned archives. Sanitation was neglected.

While they were the masters, the invaders told white persons they were "worse than pigs" and "not worthy to lick Japanese boots."

Civilians as well as soldiers were herded behind the barbed wire of concentration camps. Women, regardless of age, were flogged or shaven bald for trifling offenses. Invalids, nuns, and clergymen were not spared.

Victims of Hunger

Many of the whites who survived captivity in filthy, overcrowded native prisons are suffering from malnutrition and vitamin deficiency diseases.

An allied air fleet landed medical supplies Monday to supplement those brought by ships and evacuation of American, British, and Dutch prisoners of war and internees is expected to start at once.

Among the 100 or so Americans are air force men, members of the 131st field artillery, and survivors of the U. S. S. Pope, Perch, and Langley.

Unrest Grows in Java

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 19 (AP)—The Netherlands news agency Aneta, in a dispatch today from Batavia, reported increasing unrest among Java's natives, especially the Nationalists. Aneta said even the Japanese garrison of some 41,000 men "appears eager to wash its hands of the situation and concentrate in strength in prescribed areas."

Glare Blocked Out by German Car Headlight

PARIS, Sept. 19—Infra red ray automobile headlights, which permitted easy blackout driving and may solve the problem of peace time headlight glare, were developed by German scientists as the war ended, the 9th air force air disarmament division reported today. The device consists of a filter which blocks off glaring light, allowing only the infra red to pass thru. A converter just in front of the driver's head enables him to see the infra red rays as ordinary white light. The driver can thus see the road ahead clearly.

7TH FLEET SAILS UP WHANGPOO TO SHANGHAI BUND

Sailors of 100 Ships Ready to Take Over Docks

SHANGHAI, Sept. 19 (AP)—The American navy today returned in force to Shanghai for the first time in eight years and thousands of Chinese lined the Bund, cheering and waving flags.

Warships of Adm. Kinkaid's 7th fleet steamed 15 miles up the muddy Whangpoo and anchored in midstream. The first major warship to penetrate the Whangpoo, which only yesterday was declared free of mines, was the Rocky Mountain, a communications ship much like a large transport. It is Kinkaid's flagship.

A few minutes later came the light cruiser Nashville, flagship of Rear Adm. Clarence T. Joy, Washington, D. C., commander of the Yangtze patrol force of 60 ships. The British cruisers Glasgow and Belfast followed, along with several British destroyers attached to the 7th fleet.

Sailors Ashore Soon

In all some 100 ships, large and small, will occupy the Whangpoo docks within a few days and tens of thousands of American sailors will be going ashore.

As in pre-war days scores of sampans and junks crowded about the warships, pleading for money and selling cheap merchandise until they became so bothersome some ships cleared them away with fire hoses.

Kinkaid, who had made a trip ashore two days ago in a mine sweeper thru waters still unsafe for large ships, stepped onto the customs jetty at noon from the Rocky Mountain.

Lt. Gen. Wedemeyer, commanding general of American forces in the China theater, also arrived in Shanghai for a short visit preparatory to establishing headquarters.

Clean Job of Looting

CHUNGKING, Sept. 19 (AP)—The Japanese did an excellent job of clearing Shanghai of everything remotely useful to their war effort, but the final touch came after Japan gave up.

From Aug. 15 to the time American and Chinese forces arrived the Japanese sold most of their military supplies to Chinese at a fraction of cost.

Long before the surrender, looters had ransacked allied owned residences which had not been allotted to Japanese. Everything was removed, including beams, flooring, windows, tiles, and bricks.

Factories owned by allied nationals were looted completely, down to the last wheel shaft.

Surgeons at the Belmont hospital yesterday amputated the left leg of Roy Heidemann, 10, of 6601 Schorsch st., after he had been injured in the gears of a merry-go-round at a carnival at Addison st. and New England av. Witnesses told police that the boy climbed to the top of the canopy of the wheel before the carnival opened and caught his foot in the machinery. At the same time, the witnesses said, several boys on the ground pushed the merry-go-round ,working the gears above and the boy's leg was crushed.

SHOP OWNER HELD UP

William Goldstein, proprietor of a lingerie shop at 104 E. 47th st., told police yesterday that a Negro carrying a revolver robbed him of $75 in the store.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

Sept. 20—The Rock of Chickamauga

EIGHTY-TWO years ago today Gen. George H. Thomas won his title of "The Rock of Chickamauga" by withstanding with his outnumbered Union forces the furious, hour after hour onslaught of Gen. Braxton Bragg's great Confederate army.

Thomas was not officially in command at Chickamauga, but on the afternoon of the battle's second day, Sept. 20, 1863, it was up to him to rally the broken Union army after the ranking officer, Gen. William S. Rosecrans, had left the field in the mistaken belief that all had been lost and that it was his duty to return to Chattanooga to prepare to receive the fleeing Union troops.

Thomas concentrated his men in horseshoe formation on a rocky hillock and rode up and down behind the lines offering cool words of encouragement. The Confederates dashed themselves vainly against the Union position. When Thomas finally withdrew, the enemy had become exhausted and had suffered tremendous losses. A pursuit was not attempted and the Union defeat at Chickamauga did not become a rout.

The battle had started on Sept. 19 and the first day had not gone badly for Rosecrans' army. On the 20th, however, the commander was misinformed as to the existence of a gap in his line and ordered another division to change its position. This did open a gap, and the brigades of Gen. James Longstreet, shouting the rebel yell, came piling thru.

Thomas found himself under assault from both front and rear. Only his coolness and superb generalship saved the day.

The battle was fought near Chickamauga creek, just over the Georgia line from Chattagnooga, Tenn. The Indian word "Chickamauga" means "river of death," and the stream probably was so called because of some ancient battle. It received new meaning on Sept. 19 and 20, 1863, for the two armies lost a total of about 28,000 men in killed and wounded.

JAPS LASH U. S. FLYER TO CROSS, SHOOT HIM DEAD

Victim Is First Given Mock Trial

HONG KONG, Sept. 19 (AP)—Liberated prisoners from Camp Stanley reported today that an American airman who parachuted at Hong Kong last January was lashed to a wooden cross and shot dead after a mock trial by Japanese who charged him with indiscriminate bombing. The former prisoners said they witnessed the shooting on April 6.

An American military commission is in Hong Kong investigating reported war crimes against Americans.

86 to Be Last Liberated

TOKYO, Sept. 19 (AP)—Eighty-six allied prisoners of war who voluntarily remained in 21 hated Osaka prison camps to help evacuate 7,217 others will come out tomorrow—the last men to be cleared from the United States 8th army area.

The prisoners to be honored here for their volunteer work include: Corp. Chester C. Alderman, Flora, Ill.; Corp. Harry Rodenburg, Hazel Crest, Ill.; Yeoman Richard D. Bliss, Kalamazoo, Mich.; Pvt. 1st Class John Mucciacciaro, Clear Lake, Wis.; Quartermaster Emilio Lavia, Des Moines, Ia.

Mukden Camps Cleared

KUNMING, China [Delayed]—Announcement that all Jap prisons in the Mukden area have been cleared of all allied prisoners of war and civilian internees was made today by Maj. Gen. H. S. Aurand, commanding general, service of supply, China theater. He is in charge of the welfare of liberated personnel.

The air borne unit which brought the survivors out and saw that they were fed, housed and received medical care and clothing was headed by Lt. Col. James F. Donovan, New York City. Among those who assisted him in this emergency mission was Capt. Lester L. Pierson, Toulon, Ill., adjutant.

Chicagoan Tells Captivity

Flight officer Paul M. Clark, 1909 W. 65th st., Chicago, one of nine surviving the loss of a China-based Super Fort in the first daylight raid on Yawata Aug. 20, 1944, said he had been kept in solitary confinement in Tokyo for two months, then in solitary confinement on half rations at Omori for six months. He said the Japanese forced him to bury the plane's co-pilot, who was killed by Japanese plane fire.

GEN. M'ARTHUR'S AIR HONOR GUARD LANDS ON FIELD NEAR TOKYO

TOKYO, Sept. 19 (AP)—After nearly four years of fighting in Pacific campaigns all the way up from New Guinea, the United States 49th fighter group landed its P-38s on Atsugi air field near Tokyo today.

The 49th was the first fighter group to leave the United States for the Pacific. Its record of 678 enemy planes destroyed in aerial combat is believed to be unsurpassed in the Pacific war theater. It has been designated as Gen. MacArthur's air honor guard.

Aces of the 49th included Maj. Richard I. Bong, who had 40 Japanese planes to his credit when he was killed in a plane accident in the United States; Maj. Thomas B. McGuire, killed in action after downing 38 enemy aircraft, and Col. Gerald R. Johnson, who shot down 24.

BERLIN, Sept. 19 (AP)—Marlene Dietrich, the actress, returned to Berlin today for the first time since 1931. She will entertain troops at shows for a week. Her mother, Mrs. Josephine von Loch, met her at the airport. It was their first meeting since 1938 in Switzerland.

JAPANESE TOLD BEING PRISONER IS NO DISGRACE

TOKYO, Sept. 19 (AP)—The army of occupation is busy trying to convince the Japanese people that they should welcome with open arms their sons, husbands, and sweethearts who fell prisoners to American forces in the Pacific war.

The belief that capture was a disgrace beyond redemption was pounded into the people by the Japanese propaganda machine thruout the war. They were told that every Japanese on Saipan, Iwo, Okinawa, and other battlefields died rather than be taken—and that there were no prisoners.

"Now we are going to sell the Japanese the idea that there is no difference between a prisoner of war and any other Japanese—that when the nation capitulated every one of its 70 million persons technically surrendered to us," explained Lt. Col. J. Woodall Greene, St. Petersburg, Fla., executive officer of the allied information dissemination section.

Some Parents Overjoyed

"We are out to convince the people that it was the soldiers who suffered the real hardships, that they fought bravely, and that it was allied might rather than the fault of the individual Japanese that led to his capture."

In several test interviews, Greene said, parents who had believed their sons dead appeared to be overjoyed at news they were alive. He said 25 Japanese prisoners are coöperating with the United States army psychological warfare branch at Manila in preparing other prisoners to take up a useful life in Japan when they are released.

Can Help Rebuild Japan

"It is important that they not be ostracized—which might make them a discordant group in this occupied country," Greene said. "Released prisoners also can have great effect on the Japanese nation at large by telling how they were overwhelmed and helpless before American might, and how well they were treated after their capture. Furthermore, they are young men; they can be useful in rebuilding Japan along lines within allied limitations."

The captured Nipponese in the United States, Australia, the Philippines, and other areas will be returned home as soon as ships can be made available, he added.

GLOOMY FINNS MARK CLOSE OF YEAR OF PEACE

Goods Pour Out to Reds; Prices Soar

BY HAL FOUST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

HELSINKI, Finland, Sept. 19—The first anniversary of Finland's armistice with Russia and Great Britain was observed here tonight in a ceremony that was not a celebration. Premier Juho K. Paasikivi, in a public address reviewing the last 12 months and outlining the country's outlook, found only one consolation: Russia, he said, could have destroyed Finland's "independence."

The head of the new leftist government pridefully said Finland had paid its first year's indemnity to the soviets in circumstances indicating that blood really can be squeezed from a turnip. In the same period Finland maintained its reputation of being the only European country to make a payment on its debt to the United States.

Exports Pour Out to Russia

Russia received goods valued at [illegible],000,000 at [illegible]8 prices. This was from a country of 3,800,000 population that lost 75,000 lives in fighting the soviets. It also lost 1/10th of its area, causing 400,000 persons to become refugees.

Paasikivi extolled "our great neighbor, the soviet union," and "its great leader, Generalissimo Stalin."

Three members of the Finnish cabinet are Communists and a fourth has applied for party membership. Four of the cabinet of 18 served pre-war prison terms for illegal communistic activities.

Finland's economic predicament, Paasikivi said, is illustrated by the foreign trade outlook. He said annual imports valued at $100,000,000 at 1938 prices were imperative but that exports, aside from war indemnities, would not rise to more than $45,000,000 in 1945 or 1946.

Six Apples Cost $3.32

Inflation is plaguing a Finnish population that receives about half the food United States public health authorities deem essential.

I paid the equivalent of $3.32 for six scaley apples, but refused to pay $15 for a single bunch of grapes. I was told that my American cigarets would sell for $15 a pack on the black market and that my two weeks' supply of coffee, brought from Stockholm, Sweden, would bring $65. The legal rate for taxicabs, all burning wood or charcoal fuel, is three times what the meter reads.

Paasikivi said seven and a half times as much paper money was in circulation as there was before the war. And there is little that can be bought. Neutral observers say the labor unions, with their power in the government, have kited wage rates and that this has contributed to inflation as much as Russia's appropriation of the bulk of exportables.

They Labor for Soviets

Finland is not a duchy of Russia as it was before World War I., but it could not give Stalin more were it one of the soviet republics.

Finnish newspapers utter not a word against the country's conqueror. They are censored by Finns under the department of interior, which is headed by a Finn Communist.

The Finns have substituted Russian for German for study in the public schools. But men on the street ask how to get to America.

The Joseph E. Davies movie, "Mission to Moscow," is showing to many vacant seats in a theater here. "Its propaganda is too thick even for us, accustomed to thick nazi propaganda," said a Finn as he left the theater.

COUNTESS GETS 52 DAYS FOR GOERING THEFT

SALZBURG, Germany, Sept. 19 (AP)—After a tearful hour on the witness stand, blonde Polish Countess Therese Platerzyberk, 23, was found guilty by a military government court tonight and must serve 52 days of a two year sentence in jail for looting Hermann Goering's summer place of several hundred thousand dollars worth of furnishings and art. The rest of the sentence was suspended. Her 41 year old husband, Count Henry, accused jointly with her, was acquitted.

The countess, Goering's housekeeper, previously told interviewers she was waiting for an American army officer, whom she identified as "the man I love," to get her out of her trouble.

Maj. Robert M. Woodward of 224 E. Pearson st., Chicago, read the verdict. Woodward, a former Illinois state legislator, said the court was influenced by "special factors," including the fact that the defendant was Polish, and that the loot included Polish museum articles from "Reichsmarshal Goering, arch enemy and despoiler of her native land, who has offended all ideals of civilization."

24,000 GIs in Egyptian Theater Will Return Soon

CAIRO, Egypt, Sept. 19 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Benjamin F. Giles, commanding general in the African-middle east theater, today said about 24,000 United States troops, including all WAC units in the theater, would become eligible for return to the United States from Egypt by Nov. 1. He said the figure comprised about two-thirds of the overall American strength in the theater.

U. S. ABOLISHES JAP OPPRESSION LAWS IN KOREA

SEOUL, Korea, Sept. 19 (AP)—The task of helping Korea prepare for independence moved ahead steadily today.

American occupation authorities rescinded several Japanese oppression laws and inducted 400 Koreans into the police force.

Maj. Gen. A. V. Arnold, commander of occupation forces, outlined progress already made, including establishment of lower courts conducted by Koreans. American officers stood aside as Korean judges meted out justice for the first time in decades.

Gen. Arnold announced that as military governor of southern Korea he had rescinded the Japanese "shrine" law which had required the setting aside of large sections of land and exacted tithes for shinto shrines.

Abolish Other Laws

The general also abolished other laws. One gave the Nipponese the right to re-imprison political prisoners after they had served their original sentences. Another was a two-year surveillance act in the case of political prisoners. A third had required Koreans to register if they wanted to write a book or edit a volume.

Arnold is pursuing a policy of letting the Koreans recommend abolition of Japanese written laws. He acts after consideration of such recommendations by his staff of 109 trained military government officers.

The Americans have dealt a blow to the rice black market. Arnold reported that the black market price for 330 pounds of the grain has dropped from 2,000 yen to 800.

Inflation Still Apparent

There have been many minor disorders in southern Korea as native factions attempt to rid the ancient kingdom of the Japanese.

One of the most acute problems facing the finance department of the military government is inflation which is apparent in some degree despite persistent efforts to stem it.

Gen. Arnold plans to keep in force part of the Japanese tax system. He is wiping out a number of Japanese oppression taxes.

So that Koreans may know what the military government is doing, Arnold is establishing an information bureau. It will keep the natives advised thru newspapers, the radio and by word of mouth.

Japanese police are being weeded out rapidly. Two thousand were "fired" by the general on Sept. 17.

The 8 p. m. curfew was liberalized today. The hour now is 10 p. m.

An American military commission will try Fukuzo Soda, director of the Japanese bureau of justice in Korea who burned Nipponese documents prior to the American occupation.

Ask Egypt to Open Talks for Obtaining Freedom

CAIRO, Egypt., Sept. 19 (AP)—The Egyptian lawyers' syndicate, comprising the nation's leading practicing attorneys, today asked that the government immediately begin negotiations with Britain for "complete political and economic independence." "This is the time to rescue our necks from slavery," the syndicate said in a note to King Farouk.

China Asks U. S. for Help in Disarming Jap Troops

CHUNGKING, China, Sept. 19 (AP)—P. H. Chang, a government spokesman and counselor of the executive yuan, today said the United States had been invited to send troops to Shanghai, Nanking, Peiping, and Tientsin for the purpose of helping disarm the Japanese. The invitation by the Chinese government, he said, was on the understanding that it was a temporary measure.

'DRAGON LADY' CLEARS 100 MILES OF CHINA COAST

SHANGHAI, Sept. 19 (AP)—One hundred miles of the China coast and many offshore islands were cleared of Japanese and patroled mainly by seagoing junks preparatory to the expected American landing—thru the efforts of a Chinese woman guerrilla leader and a former Shanghai policeman.

The identity of the woman still was a secret today but she is known familiarly as Dragon Lady.

The man is Army Lt. Phillip Bradfield of Nashville, Tenn., who knew Chinese, having served with the Shanghai police force from 1925 to 1929.

The Dragon Lady decided seven years ago she could never live at peace with the Japanese in her native section in Chekiang province. She had no weapons but she did have strength and intelligence.

With two men friends she entered a Japanese town and knifed the sentries to obtain their guns. When she had a few weapons she acquired more friends who were willing to fight. Soon she had guerrillas operating on a wide scale in the Kiangnan plain.

Japs Must Do All Work on Requisitioned Buildings

TOKYO, Sept. 19 (AP)—The Japanese government must put every administrative building or billet requisitioned by the army of occupation into good condition with its own men and tools by a specified deadline, Maj. Gen. Hugh J. Casey, chief of engineers, said today. "Not a single army engineer is lifting a tool," Casey said. "We will make suggestions and oversee, but the Japanese must supply the labor and do the job."

CHARGE SOVIET DICTATORSHIP OF YUGOSLAVIA

Forms Own Strong Arm Forces, Exiles Say

BY WILLIAM FULTON
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Sept. 19—"Exiled" leaders of Yugoslav political parties today charged that Yugoslavia is ruled by a communist dictatorship. They charged that the regime had nothing in common with the great aims expressed by the allies to bring about "democracy and freedom."

The communist minority, according to the exiles' statement, is forming its own political armed force, now called the "Yugoslav army" and its own police force, the "O. Z. N. A." By pressure these two agencies of the Communists are aimed at perpetuating the dictatorship in the forthcoming elections called by Marshal Tito, who is backed by Moscow, the Yugoslav leaders charged.

It was pointed out that everybody in Yugoslavia depends upon the government for existence, so if the elections are held under the present circumstances the result will be 100 per cent for the ruling party.

Reorganization Urged

The noncommunist Yugoslav leaders urged immediate reorganization of the government to include all democratic parties including the Communists. The next step would be free, unfettered elections, they said. In order to implement this policy they recommended that allied military civil missions be sent to Yugoslavia to form a nonpolitical army and police force.

"The great allies no doubt acted in good faith," the statement said, "and were inspired by the highest ideals when they maintained the formal legality of the royal Yugoslav government and advised King Peter to accept Dr. Ivan Subasic as prime minister. Unfortunately, Subasic, who did not represent anybody in our country, concluded agreements with only one part of our resistance movement and, ignoring the others, established an illegal regency government entirely dominated by Communists.

"Allies Terribly Deceived"

"The expectations of our great allies and our people have been terribly deceived. There is no more reason to continue the recognition of the present dictatorial government. To continue the recognition means recognition of a totalitarian regime and the complete frustration of the common war aims and ideals."

One More Post for Tito

LONDON, Sept. 19 [Reuters]—Marshal Tito is to add the duties of Yugoslav foreign minister to those of his present offices of prime minister and war minister during the illness of Ivan Subasic, Belgrade radio reported tonight. Subasic had an attack of apoplexy last Saturday and is seriously ill, the radio added.

PARADERS ASK END OF PERON'S ARGENTINE RULE

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Sept. 19 (AP)—Thousands of Argentines marched thru this capital's streets today in a gigantic demonstration for "constitution and liberty" and shouted defiance of Col. Juan Peron's military government.

Shouts of "down with Peron," "down with despotism" and "death to dictatorship" arose frequently from the crowd but, up to midafternoon, the "disorders and perhaps a struggle" that Peron had predicted last night had not occurred. Peron is vice president and strong man of the government.

A threat of trouble was averted when armed police, acting on the complaint of two anti-Peron lawyers, raided headquarters of the progovernment Nationalist Youth alliance just before the parade started and emerged with rifles, hand grenades, and powder.

Trieste Gets International Status

ITALIAN PRESS ASSAILS REDS' STAND ON SLAVS

Compares Trieste with 'Error of Danzig'

BY P. E. BRIQUET
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

CHIASSO, Switzerlnd, Sept. 19—The Italian press and almost all parties today began using strong language in favor of Italy's position as opposed to that of Yugoslavia. It was the first time the press dared to denounce Russia's anti-Italian stand and Italian Communists who are supporting the soviet viewpoint on Yugoslavia. Observers believe the press would not use such strong language unless it had the support of the United States and Britain.

The Democratic Cristian Il Popolo, reported to be the organ of the foreign ministry, wrote:

The internationalization of Trieste "would amount to repetition of the fatal error of Danzig, with the further aggravation that Trieste would be a bone of contention not between two nations, but four. Should Antwerp or Rotterdam be internationalized because the hinterland is neither Belgian nor Dutch?"

Claim 35,000 Italians Slain

Milan editorials asserted there is a strong Italian majority in Trieste and claimed Italian character for all Istrian towns.

The Corriere Lombardo asserted that 35,000 Italians lost their lives in mass executions at the hands of Yugoslavs in caves in the vicinity of Trieste in the last three months.

All Italian newspapers not belonging to the Socialist-Communist alliance assailed the "renunciatory attitude" ascribed to Palmiro Togliatti, head of the Italian Communist party and justice minister.

Regarding the soviet demand that Italy be stripped of her colonies, while claiming the Red sea harbor of Massaua, Eritrea, for Russia and a measure of control in Tripolitania, Libya, Togliatti yesterday wrote in Unita:

"Colonies twice cost Italy the loss of her liberty, establishment of the fascist tyranny, 60 years of adventure, and the loss of a considerable part of the national revenue. Without colonies, we would today be one of the richest European nations, redeeming our fallow lands for the peasants. We Communists condemn colonialism."

No Mandates for Italy

However, Togliatti opposed the colonies "going into the hands of countries already gorged with colonies." Togliatti also opposed the return to Italy of the colonies in the indirect form of a mandate—which Russia also opposes—asserting the greatness of Italian democracy can only be shown by the "concession of liberty to the old colonies, thus developing profitable exchange of goods. Italy has nothing to lose and all to gain by becoming the vanguard of the emancipation of colonial peoples."

The Milan Liberta assailed the Communists' "conscienceless campaign" to belittle the problem of Italian boundaries, charging that Togliatti "is driven by the Muscovite spirit of limitless hegemony at a time when the aggressor's attitude is entirely pan-Slav."

For the first time since the fall of fascism Russia is openly blamed for "annexing territories belonging to other nations despite the will of the inhabitants, from East Prussia to Chinese Outer Mongolia and from the Baltic republics to the distant Kurile Islands," Liberta said.

U. S., BRITAIN, FRANCE URGE HOLDING GREEK ELECTIONS THIS YEAR

LONDON, Sept. 19 (AP)—Britain, the United States, and France expressed hope today that Greek elections for a provisionary assembly could be held "before the end of the year," and announced they had "agreed to send observers to Greece for the elections."

In a joint statement, they suggested the elections should be held before any plebiscite to determine whether King George II. would return to his throne.

The statement said the three powers had conferred "on all subjects concerning Greece" with Archbishop Damaskinos, Greek regent who came here during the Big Five foreign ministers' conference.

The declaration expressed the "firm opinion" that elections for the assembly should be held as soon as possible, and said that a government would be formed in Greece "based on the wishes of the people and the parliament."

SENATE VOTES UNANIMOUSLY TO APPROVE BURTON

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19 (AP)—The senate today unanimously confirmed the appointment of Sen. Burton [R., O.] to be a Supreme court justice. On the motion of Chairman McCarran [D., Nev.] of the judiciary committee, the senate suspended its rules to approve the nomination less than 24 hours after it was sent to the senate.

SOLDIER TELLS OF 'RAILROADING' FOR PRESS TALK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19—Testimony of an army private, who told the senate military committee he was being "railroaded" by the army because he had told newspaper men soldiers at his post were ordered to cut grass with bayonets to kill time, highlighted today's congressional furor over demobilization policies.

The GI witness was Pvt. George L. Mark, 37, Cleveland, O., who followed a week-long procession of generals and admirals who have been outlining army and navy demobilization plans before the senate group. Chairman Thomas [D., Utah] of the committee told Mark that if he was "unjustly treated," the war secretary and chief of staff would hear from the senate.

Seek to Free Fathers

Other demobilization developments in congress included:

1. Introduction of a bill by Sen. Shipstead [R., Minn.] under which all fathers in military and naval service would be discharged.

2. A decision by the house Republican steering committee that service men who are fathers or who have two years' service should be discharged.

3. Introduction of a bill by Rep. Rankin [R., Mass.] to discharge "without delay" any man who has been in service 18 months, or who has a wife or other dependents, or whose education was interrupted by the war.

4. Introduction of a bill by Rep. Burch [D., Va.] to suspend all draft inductions for 90 days.

5. A statement by Sen. Robertson [R., Wyo.] that public opinion has turned against the draft and that war department "failure" to evolve a workable demobilization plan has crippled any plan for increased voluntary enlistments.

Mark, a balding soldier with four months service who said he was a barber supply salesman before the war, told the committee that after telling Washington newspapers about the grass cutting episode, he received orders to Camp Shelby, Miss. He is now stationed at Ft. Belvoir, Va.

Convinced of 'Railroading'

The soldier said he was convinced he was being "railroaded" for telling the story and for urging other soldiers to tell their woes to their congressman. "After all, the high command would hardly tell me," he said.

"It takes a long time for an enlisted man to know the high command," suggested Thomas.

"I've only been in the army four months, but I sure am getting in contact with them," Mark said, as senators, spectators, and waiting officer witnesses roared with laughter.

Sen. Johnson [D., Colo.] said Mark's transfer did not look like an accident to him. "Nor will it look like an accident to other soldiers," Johnson said. "They will be very careful hereafter about contacting their senators or representatives."

"Goose Was Cooked"

"If anyone treats you unjustly as a result of your testimony," Thomas told Mark, "I'll speak to the secretary of war and the chief of staff. If you have been criticized for speaking to members of congress, it is unjustified."

Mark said he knew his "goose was cooked" but that he wanted the committee to know the facts about how soldiers awaiting discharge spend their time and how, he said, men with large families cannot get "hardship" discharges.

Asked if he could supply the names of "hardship cases" at Ft. Belvoir, Mark supplied a list of names. Included was Pvt. Wates Harvell, 36, Crystal Lake, Ill., who, Wark said, has eight dependents but has been refused an army discharge.

Adm. R. R. Waesche, coast guard commandant, testifying after Mark said the coast guard plans to discharge men at the rate of 800 officers and 13,00 enlisted men a month for the next 10 months. He said, however, that many coast guardsmen are assigned to army and navy vessels transporting troops home from overseas and that their discharges may be delayed.

Brig. Gen. Gerald Thomas of the marine corps told the committee the marine corps plans to release 7,845 officers and 102,765 men in the last quarter of 1945 and that by Sept. 1, 1946, the corps' size will be reduced to about 100,000. There are now 427,032 marines in service, he said.

LONDON, Sept. 19 (AP)—The Luxembourg radio tonight said Russsian authorities in Germany had ordered the Russian language taught in German schools in the Russian occupied zone. Compulsory study of Russian will extend to the elementary schools, said the broadcast which quoted Dr. Ernst Hadermann, chief of education in the soviet zone.

LORD HAW HAW TO HANG; GIVES HITLER SALUTE

Nazis' Radio Announcer Branded Traitor

LONDON, Sept. 19 (AP) — William Joyce, the scar-faced little Lord Haw Haw who broadcast nazi propaganda to the British thruout the war, was convicted of treason in Old Bailey today and sentenced to be hanged.

William Joyce

Not a flicker of expression crossed the ruddy face of the thin lipped defendant as Frederick Tucker, the presiding judge, had a black cap placed on his wig and pronounced the sentence.

As he descended to his cell, however, Joyce, who is 5 feet 4 inches tall, turned toward acquaintances in the courtroom and gave a nazi-type salute. The defendant's brother, Edward, a British government worker, made the sign of the cross and knelt in prayer.

Crowd Cheers News

A crowd waiting outside the bomb-scarred law courts cheered the news. It took the jury of 10 men and two women, who had listened for three days to arguments over Joyce's nationality, only 20 minutes to reach a verdict.

The blond defendant, whose face is scarred from mouth to ear as the result of a street brawl, sought to evade punishment by claiming American citizenship on grounds that he was born in Brooklyn, N. Y., 39 years ago.

"Wrapped in Union Jack"

Justice Tucker ruled today, however, that Joyce owed allegiance to the British crown when he went to Germany "wrapped up in the union jack"—under the protection of a British passport obtained by posing as a British subject—just before the war broke out.

Defense lawyers, whose contention that Joyce was an American citizen won dismissal of two other counts, said they would appeal. The appeal probably will be heard before the court of criminal appeal next month.

HUNGARY PLANS ELECTION, SAYS MOSCOW AGENCY

MOSCOW, Sept. 19 (AP)—A Tass dispatch from Budapest today said Hungary planned to hold general elections on a date to be announced by the minister of internal affairs. All war and political criminals will be eligible to vote, and all non-Fascist parties may participate.

The voting age was reduced to 18 for persons who battled the Germans, the dispatch continued, and the new election law will have no property, educational, or residential restrictions.

Hungary will elect 400 deputies to parliament. The elections presumably will be held about mid-November. A general state committee will pass upon the legality of parties which may present candidates, Tass said.

POLES TO GET BIGGER AREA NEAR STETTIN

BERLIN, Sept. 19 (AP)—Marshal Zhukov notified Polish emissaries in Berlin today upon his return from Moscow that a new western frontier of their country includes several hundred additional square miles of territory west of Stettin on the lower Oder.

A map dated Sept. 14 shows the line running from Ahlbeck, three miles northwest of Swinemuende on the Baltic, in a straight southeasterly direction to the western bank of the Oder opposite Greifenhagen.

This line replaces one announced by Zhukov on July 10 which gave the Poles Stettin but not its harbor nor any appreciable area to the west.

Okinawa Women Given Vote by U. S. Authorities

OKINAWA, Sept. 19 (AP)—Suffrage has come to the women of Okinawa. A native council noted that many families lacked representation because adult males had been killed or were in Japanese hands. The problem was presented to Col. Charles L. Murray, marine corps deputy commander for military government of the island. Now women over 25 years of age, as well as men, can vote.

Crash Landing in France Perils Ex-Elmwood Man

PARIS, Sept. 19—An American transport airplane en route to the United States made a crash landing at Brest yesterday but no one was seriously injured. Nelson Dean Jay, a native of Elmwood, Ill., director of the Paris banking house of J. P. Morgan & Co., was aboard but was not hurt.

TELLS OF 40,000 DENIED MEDICAL CARE IN BELSEN

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LUENEBURG, Germany, Sept. 19—Brig. Hugh Glyn Hughes completed testimony today before a British military court trying 45 as war criminals. Hughes told what he had found at the Belsen concentration camp, stating emphatically that the Germans had ample food and medical resources within easy reach of Belsen to take care of the needs of the 40,000 prisoners they were systematically starving to death while their captors allowed contagious diseases to spread.

An affidavit by Col. James Johnston, who was senior medical officer in the Belsen camp after the British took it over, was read. It stated that on April 17 the British had counted 13,000 dead in the camp and that after the British entered the camp another 13,099 died because they were too weak to respond to treatment.

Affidavit Is Translated

The long affidavit was translated into German and Polish with the accused men taking copious notes while the women sat motionless, only occasionally scrutinizing the face of their leader, Joseph Kramer.

A second witness was Capt. Derek Sington, a British intelligence officer, who entered Belsen on April 15 on a sound truck with instructions to issue a proclamation to the prisoners and bring them news of their liberation. He described how the accused Kramer tried to tell him and other Britishers that the prisoners in the camp were all "habitual criminals, felons, and homosexuals," but finally admitted some prisoners were in "protective custody" as political prisoners.

Later in the day the defense tried to trap the witness into describing the scenes of turmoil which he saw when liberation was announced, as "unrest which could be quelled only with force," but Sington denied this.

Cheers Turn to Weeping

Cheers of enthusiasm over their liberation turned into loud weeping and laughter in the women's section, which could be heard from long distances, the captain said. He also said he saw internees to whom the Germans had delegated police authority as "camp seniors or block seniors or so-called Kappos or camp police, run about striking inmates with flat pieces of wood from packing cases and other clubs. The blows made sickening noises. I saw one inmate who had fallen on the ground and who was still being struck while lying on her back. There was no need for this treatment. It was perfectly possible to control the prisoners without the use of force as we found out in administering the camp."

When the defense asked Sington if he had seen any acts of revenge he stated he saw seven corpses in the camp, two on the day after Belsen was seized, and it was assumed they were killed by the inmates.

This Year's Champagne Excellent and Expensive

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, Sept. 19—Wine tasters in Reims reported today that the quality of 1945 champagne equals that of any vintage of this century. The probability is, however, that this year's champagne will be expensive since the quantity is unusually small. First reports from Macon in Burgundy and the Beaujolais district in the Rhone valley indicate that the product of these great wine producing regions also will be of exceptionally high quality this year.

BRITISH PROMISE TO PUT INDIA ON ROAD TO LIBERTY

LONDON, Sept. 19 (AP)—Prime Minister Atlee told the people of India tonight that positive steps would be taken immediately after the forthcoming Indian elections to give them full self-government.

He spoke by radio to both India and Great Britain, amplifying an earlier broadcast by Viceroy Wavell of India, who recently returned to New Delhi after conferences with the British cabinet.

Elections of central and provincial legislators this winter, Attlee said, will be followed by "positive steps to set up a constituent assembly of Indian elected representatives charged with the task of framing a new constitution."

Wants Democratic Setup

"The first step necessary," he said, "is to get, as soon as may be, as democratic a representation of the Indian peoples as possible."

Attlee said his new Labor governmen was following the spirit and intention of the self-government proposal which Stafford Cripps made to India in 1942, and which India rejected.

Cripps' proposal was that a new Indian union be established, constituting a dominion equal in every respect to other British dominions, and that steps be taken after the war to set up an elective body charged with framing a constitution.

Wavell, speaking from New Delhi on the All-India radio, said he had been authorized to confer with representatives of provincial assemblies to find out whether the Cripps offer was acceptable now "or whether some alternative or modified scheme is preferred."

Executive Council Authorized

As a preliminary measure, Wavell said, the British government has authorized him to create an executive council, having the support of the chief Indian political parties, immediately after the elections.

REDS STILL SNAP UP WRIST WATCHES; GI'S FATTEN BANK ROLLS

BERLIN, Sept. 19 (AP)—American soldiers sent home more money in August than they drew in the pay line, despite official action to put brakes on Berlin's booming black market, which centers chiefly in the sale of wristwatches to Russians.

Figures published today by the Berlin district finance office showed that $3,044,224 was paid in August to occupation troops, who invested $3,153,517 in money orders, personal transfer accounts, war bonds, and soldiers' deposits.

The $3,153,517 was slightly less than the total eligible to be sent home and was less by several hundred thousand dollars than soldiers would have sent home if the army had not prohibited the soldiers from transmitting more than 110 per cent of the cash they drew.

Drop Adultery Charge When Couple Are Wed

Circuit Judge Ralph J. Dady of Lake county yesterday nolle prossed adultery indictments against Mrs. Alma E. Vanderspool, 35, and Herman Bittner, 33, both formerly of Waukegan, after Assistant State's Atty. Wilber Brazell informed him the couple had been married Aug. 16. Eight days earlier Mrs. Vanderspool's husband, Theodore, a sailor, had been granted a divorce on adultery grounds by Judge Dady.

TRUMAN SIGNS ORDER SHIFTING WLB AND WMC

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19 (AP)—President Truman today signed the executive order giving Labor Secretary Schwellenbach broad new authority to deal with labor problems.

The President formally turned over to his labor secretary the war labor board, war man power commission, and United States employment service, but stipulated that WLB decisions are to be final and are not to be subject to Schwellenbach's review.

Administration of unemployment compensation, the order made it plain, will remain under the social security board, but functions previously performed for the states and the social security agency are shifted to the labor department.

Edgar L. Warren, former chairman of the Chicago regional war labor board, appointed yesterday by Schwellenbach as head of the United States conciliation service, conferred today with Schwellenbach and Howard T. Colvin, acting director of the service who now reverts to his previous position as assistant director.

POLICE READY TO PROTECT MEN DEFYING STRIKE

Test at Gas Range Plant to Come Today

More than 50 policemen will be assigned this morning to the Cribben & Sexton company plant, 700 N. Sacramento blvd., to protect workers who wish to enter the strike bound factory, Capt. George Barnes of the police labor detail said yesterday.

The company, which manufactures gas range appliances, has served an ultimatum on 500 striking members of the independent United Stove Workers' union that if they do not return to work this morning they "will be assumed to have resigned."

Union Threatens to Picket

Frank Powers, president of the union, countered the ultimatum at a massmeeting of the union by asserting the strikers would picket the plant "to show the company that everybody on strike will stay on strike."

Company officials said more than 100 strikers had offered to return to work if they were given police protection. Capt. Barnes then said: "Every one who wants to go back to work will have police protection."

The strike started Aug. 27 when the union refused to accept as members four demoted foremen. The war labor board had ruled that the company could retain them as nonunionists. The union has a closed shop contract with the company.

Wage Increase Denied

The company discharged Powers and five other union officials for calling the strike. A WLB directive issued yesterday denied a wage increase demanded by the union, and also the company's request for removal of the union shop and check-off provision from the union's contract.

The plants of 10 other Chicago employers were still affected by strikes that barred 2,982 employes from reconversion work.

Thirteen hundred employes of the Ingalls-Shepard division of the Wyman Gordon corporation, manufacturers of drop forgings in Harvey, agreed last night to return to work tomorrow, the company announced. The company granted wage increases in each department, the exact amounts to be determined later. The strike started Monday.

Steel Cranemen Strike

Twenty-seven cranemen of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation, 3426 E. 89th st., struck on two shifts and made 75 other employes idle. The strikers, dissatisfied over an incentive plan, are members of local 65, United Steel Workers' union [CIO].

The Globe company, 4000 Princeton av., manufacturers of meat packing equipment, wanted a wage increase and 313 employes on strike since Sept. 7 agreed to return. They are members of local 284, United Packinghouse Workers' union [CIO].

CAA INSPECTION SHORTAGE HITS AVIATION BOOM

Continuation of the last year's tremendous increase in civil flying is running into a bottleneck because of the limited staff of the general inspection division of the civil aeronautics administration, it was learned yesterday.

Certifications of commercial pilots alone have been multiplied by 21: The CAA issued certificates in June, 1945, to 6,664 commercial pilots, compared to 315 in July, 1944; 1,355 private pilots, compared to 733, and 6,733 student pilots, compared to 1,390.

The Chicago metropolitan office of CAA during June issued certificates to 136 commercial pilots, 122 private pilots, and 262 student pilots.

The staff of CAA inspectors was not increased during the year. The result is that there still are thousands awaiting CAA inspectors at the nation's airports, CAA officials said. Some relief came from recent permission to appoint qualified persons outside the CAA to flight-test applicants for private pilot certificates.

Soldier Granted Divorce on Charges of Adultery

Pvt. Chauncey Trulock, 28, of 528 Cummings av., Waukegan, yesterday won a divorce before Circuit Judge Ralph J. Dady of Lake county from Sarah Louise, 25, of 3010 S. Genesee st., Waukegan, whom he charged with adultery. He testified that his wife was keeping company with sailors while he was overseas.

REPORT BRITAIN REJECTS JEWS' PALESTINE PLEA

Officials Kill Story Passed by Censors

JERUSALEM, Sept. 19 [Reuters]—A report from London giving what were believed to be the main proposals of the cabinet subcommittee on future British policy in Palestine has been stopped by higher authority here, after having first been passed by the censorship.

The chief features of these proposals were stated to be:

FIRST—Jewish claims for complete abrogation of the 1939 white paper and for free immigration under Jewish control and for the establishment of a Jewish state were not accepted.

SECOND—Future policy should be based on the white paper, with some modifications.

THIRD—The establishment of a legislative council with powers limited to internal affairs only is envisaged.

Instead of the complete stoppage of Jewish immigration after exhaustion [now imminent] of the quota of 75,000 provided for in the white paper, limited immigration would continue for the time being, with a monthly maximum of 1,500.

Another modification would provide that the ban on Jewish land acquisition and settlement in most parts of Palestine should continue, but that slight changes should be introduced in the delimitation of the free, regulated, and prohibited zones.

Foreign affairs, defense and security, major economic policy and immigration would remain as before within the exclusive purview of the British authorities.

GIVEN 100 YEARS AS SLAYER; WINS NEW TRIAL BID

A new trial was ordered by the Illinois Supreme court yesterday for Coy Thompson, now 46, of Louisville, Ky., who was sentenced to 100 years in prison in 1931 for the murder of James Casey, a Chicago policeman. The Supreme court, reversing the Cook county Criminal court conviction, ruled that Thompson had been denied due process of law.

Thompson, who was described as a two gun jail breaker from Kentucky, shot Casey when the policeman attempted to arrest him on the complaint of a young woman that Thompson had annoyed her. In one day, evidence was presented to the grand jury, Thompson was indicted, tried, found guilty by Judge Joseph Sabath, sentenced, and taken to prison. He was removed from Stateville in May, 1945, to the psychiatric branch at Menard.

The Supreme court affirmed the sentence of Joseph Kadlecek, 27, of Chicago, in 1939 of 60 years in the penitentiary for the murder of Miss Ella Pehrson, a blonde perfume saleswoman, and the life sentence under the habitual criminal act in 1938 of Lester Harris, 24, formerly of 1421 Farwell av., who had a record of robbery convictions.

ERIC JOHNSTON SUCCEEDS HAYS AS MOVIE CZAR

New York, Sept. 19 (AP)—Eric A. Johnston, 48 year old head of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, today was elected president of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc., succeeding Will Hays.

Hays, 65, resigned after serving nearly 24 years in the post, during which time he became known as the "movie czar." He will continue to advise the film organization.

While there was no official statement as to salaries involved, it was reported that Johnston's five year contract called for $150,000 yearly and Hays would receive $100,000 annually as a consultant.

Hays Lauds Successor

In accepting the post, Johnston said:

"I have been attracted to the motion picture industry because it offers unlimited opportunities to work for peace and prosperity at home and abroad."

Hays said:

"Eric Johnston needs no praise of mine. His ability shines in the light of his accomplishments. Sure of his capabilities for both leadership and service, we of the industry are confident and content to place in his hands the throttle and the brake."

Continues in C. of C.

The two men made the statements at the offices of the organization here.

Johnston will assume his new post immediately and also will remain as chamber of commerce president until his term expires.

He said motion pictures must continue to be America's "greatest salesmen, her most natural and convincing ambassadors of good will."

Johnston was asked if he would be a candidate for reëlection as president of the chamber of commerce next spring.

"I have no objections to it and I believe I could hold both jobs," he replied. He added that he thought the Hays job "has to be remodeled and changed."

UNWANTED BABY IS AWARDED TO GRANDMOTHER

Circuit Judge Elmer J. Schnackenberg yesterday awarded custody of Patricia Hemmerle, 7 months old, to her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Kathryn Sorensen, 46, of 4656 Kasson av.

The court's action terminated a three cornered fight for Patricia, who was unwanted by her estranged teen-age parents, Kathryn, 17, and William Hemmerle, 19, a discharged soldier. Vying with Mrs. Sorensen were Mrs. Jean Hemmerle, 4825 N. Oakley blvd., the soldier's mother, and Mrs. Esther Stone of 728 S. Jackson st., Aurora, into whose care the child had been placed by her mother.

The battle for the baby's custody developed in a hearing last week in which the younger Mrs. Hemmerle sought $100 which she charged her husband owed in back support payments. Her attorneys, Joseph H. and Norman Becker, told the court that Mrs. Sorensen wanted the baby, and that Mrs. Kathryn Hemmerle wanted her to have Patricia.

Mrs. Stone's appeal was ruled out by the court because she was not a relative of the baby; Mrs. Jean Hemmerle's when the court said an investigation had disclosed her husband opposed taking the child into their home.

DAVIS RESIGNS; TRUMAN EASES REBUKE STING

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19 (AP)—President Truman tonight accepted William H. Davis' resignation as economic stabilization director in a letter which took the sting out of the President's indirect criticism of Davis yesterday.

At his news conference yesterday a reporter asked the President about a statement attributed to Davis that the administration favored an increase of 50 per cent in wages without any accompanying rise in prices. The President said Davis was not speaking for the administration.

In his letter to Davis, made public by the White House late in the day, after Davis had paid a call there earlier, Mr. Truman said:

"The transcript of your recent press conference, accounts of which occasioned some misunderstanding, shows that the true purport of your discussion was to express the hope that the economic policies already adopted by the government would lead the country to a high level of production and distribution. About that aim there never has been any conflicts of views. The transcript further shows that no new government policy was enunciated, but that you expressed a personal view that this high level economy can well be attained within five years."

Potato Dealer Consents to OPA $6,250 Judgment

The office of price administration obtained a consent judgment for $6,250.65 and an injunction against M. W. Frissell and company, 1425 S. Racine av., from Judge William J. Campbell in federal District court yesterday. The company was accused of overceiling sales on potatoes last spring.

NASH'S KENOSHA PLANT SHUT BY WILDCAT STRIKE

2,600 Made Idle by CIO Union's Walkout

Kenosha, Wis., Sept. 19 [Special]—A wildcat strike of CIO unionists this afternoon closed the Nash Kelvinator company's automobile plant here, forced 2,600 workers into idleness, and halted the factory's recently resumed production of cars.

Officials of both the company and the CIO United Automobile Workers termed the strike "wildcat and unauthorized." The company said it was informed by the union shop committee that union officials would make every effort to get the strikers back to work, but Joseph Lourigan, president of the PAW local involved, denied that any such promise was made.

WLB Has Wage Demand

The strike was launched by 300 maintenance workers whose demands for a 7-cents an hour wage increase have been before the war labor board since last December.

Upon reporting for duty this morning, the maintenance employes refused to work, and later returned home. At 4 p. m. the remaining 2,300 employes in the plant went home. Altho the 2,300 are seeking wage adjustments, their demands have not reached the dispute stage.

"The inevitable result of the strike," said a company statement, "is a delay in the progress of automobile reconversion and the reëmployment of thousands of Nash workers."

Others Face Idleness

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 19 (AP)—Labor troubles of the nation's automotive capital mounted today as the CIO United Automobile Workers continued preparations for a collision with the car industry over a 30 per cent wage increase demand.

Threatening to add to the 80,000 already made idle in the area by work stoppages and shutdowns was a curtailment of electrical equipment to three divisions of General Motors corporation.

Industrial circles heard reports that as many as 25,000 workers in the Chevrolet, Buick, and Oldsmobile divisions of General Motors might be forced into idleness this week-end by a CIO union strike at the Warren, O., plant of the Packard Electrical company. The company supplies wiring systems for the three General Motors divisions.

Reports Progress

The new threats to the automobile industry's reconversion efforts came as Richard T. Frankenstein, UAW vice president and candidate for mayor of Detroit at the November election, reported progress in personal efforts to get 4,500 Kelsey-Hayes Wheel company employes back to work. The Kelsey-Hayes strike, begun Aug. 23, precipitated the closing of the Ford plants and the laying off of 50,000 workers.

While management maintained its policy of silence concerning the 30 per cent wage demands, word came from the UAW-CIO that its petitions to the national labor relations board for a strike vote among 325,000 employes in General Motors' 135 plants might be filed this week.

It previously had been announced that a similar petition would be filed on behalf of upwards of 80,000 Chrysler corporation employes by Sept. 25, and that the UAW national Ford council would consider like action on behalf of 109,000 Ford workers at a meeting here Sept. 29 and 30.

APPROVE CUT IN PRESS WIRELESS RATES TO EUROPE

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19 (AP)—The federal communications commission today authorized Press Wireless, Inc., to reduce its rates for press message, program transmission, and radiophoto services between the United States and certain European countries, effective Oct. 1.

Press Wireless proposed in its application to:

1. Establish urgent and ordinary press message rates of 6 cents and 4 cents a word, respectively, between New York City and France, Switzerland, Germany, and Czechoslovakia. Existing rates are 8 cents and 5 cents.
2. Reduce the urgent press message rate between New York City and Russia from 8 cents to 6 cents a word. The present effective ordinary press message rates between New York City and Russia is 4 cents a word.
3. Reduce program transmission rates from $50 to $40 for the first 10 minutes, and from $5 to $4 for each additional minute, between New York City and Germany, France, and Russia.
4. Reduce radiophoto rates between New York City and Russia, Germany, and France by 50 per cent.

FIND COMMON COLD SHORTENED BY PENICILLIN

Highly concentrated solutions of penicillin inhaled as a mist have brought complete relief to persons suffering from several respiratory infections, a medical investigator reported yesterday in the current journal of the American Medical association.

Dr. Herbert N. Vermilye of Forest Hills, N. Y., said in the publication that he had used the treatment successfully on more than 200 patients afflicted with inflammation of the lung, tonsilitis, sinus trouble, sore throat, and bacterial asthma.

A form of the drug known as aerosol penicillin, he said, inhaled thru a mouthpiece or oxygen mask, has shortened the duration of colds by halting secondary infections.

City-Wide Transfer Plan Extended for 6 Months

The Illinois commerce commission yesterday ordered the present transfer arrangements of the elevated, surface lines, and motor coach companies continued in force for another six months. The city-wide transfer plan has been in effect for two years.

CIO SHUTS MORE REFINERIES, BUT BIGGEST IS OPEN

Strike action by the CIO Oil Workers union closed two more major refineries in the Chicago area yesterday. At the same time, the independent union representing workers in the Standard Oil plant in Whiting, producer of about half the oil refined in the Chicago area, reaffirmed its pledge to continue a flow of oil to middlewestern industry and transportation.

The CIO union pulled more than 1,800 workers out of the huge Sinclair Refining company plant and more than 100 workers out of the Shell Oil company plant. Both works are located in East Chicago, Ind. The two plants, and the two closed earlier in the week by strike action, employed a total of 3,000 workers and produced about 2 million gallons of gasoline a day.

Directors to Act on Wages

Celestin P. Clark, president of the independent Standard Oil Employes' union, met with A. W. Peake, president of the company, on the union's demand for a 30 per cent wage increase. Peake said the company's directors would reach a decision in a day or two.

Peake said Clark promised the union's members will not strike if the demand is refused, but will arbitrate the matter. Peake also announced police protection would be asked if the CIO tries to keep Standard employes from working.

After a meeting of more than 2,000 strikers in Oil Workers hall in Hammond, Benjamin Shafer, international representative of the CIO union, said strikers would gather at the gates of the Standard Oil company today "in a friendly mood" to distribute pamphlets "explaining our position."

Phillips Refinery Picketed

Trouble was hinted, however, by a shoulder to shoulder picket line around the Phillips Petroleum bulk plant at 400 E. Columbus dr., East Chicago.

The union said the line was established because of reports that the Socony-Vacuum Oil company, one of those closed earlier in the week, was delivering gasoline to the Phillips plant, which has an AFL union and is not closed, for trans-shipment in Phillips' trucks to Socony retailers. Both companies denied this.

CIO union officials said that the pickets were instructed to stop trucks from entering the bulk station, but not to bother any Phillips workers.

Shutdowns Spread Nationally

The CIO's campaign for a 30 per cent pay increase thru a step by step strike continued to spread nationally. In Port Arthur, Tex., strikes shut the Pure Oil company's Nederland plant and the Texas company plant. The two plants employ about 8,000 workers.

In Toledo, O., 600 employes walked out of the Standard Oil plant and 400 left the Pure Oil company plant. In Detroit, Mich., the Socony-Vacuum company plant and the Refiners Transport and Terminal company were closed.

Chicago retail dealers reported a two or three day supply on hand and about a 10 day supply left in bulk stations.

LABOR DIVISION BOND CAMPAIGN TO BEGIN TODAY

Volunteers of the 8th war bond campaign's labor campaign will attend a luncheon at noon today in the Hotel Sherman to start their drive. George D. Moore, former secretary of the Building Trades council of Chicago, is manager of the division, and Jacob Mitchell, president of local 39 of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, is assistant manager. Luncheon speakers will include Renslow Sherer, state chairman of the Illinois war finance committee; George Spaulding, vice president of the Northern Trust company and chairman of the drive; Patrick Sullivan, president of the Building Trades council of Illinois; Samuel Levin, president of the Illinois state department of the congress of industrial organizations, and Earl McMahan, secretary of the Illinois State Building Trades council.

STRIKING PUPILS SEEK OFFICIAL TO HEAR PLAINT

A delegation named at a meeting of nearly 1,000 students of Froebel school in Gary yesterday was seeking some city or school official to whom a report of student complaints could be voiced.

The delegation was named at a mass meeting called for the Gary armory but which was adjourned to Tyler park when the pupils were informed they could not assemble on federal property. The delegation was instructed to visit Mayor Joe E. Finerty, but found the mayor absent. School officials also were unavailable. The mayor previously had expressed his disapproval of the students' action.

The students walked out of their classes Tuesday after a fight between a Negro and a white student at the Froebel-Horace Mann football game Saturday night. Principal demand of the students is that the 850 Negro students in the 12 grades of Froebel school be removed and placed in a separate school.

3 Years Prison Sentence Imposed in Policy Fraud

George Bennis, 42, of New York, a cripple, was sentenced to three years in federal prison yesterday by Federal Judge John P. Barnes after he pleaded guilty to a charge of using the mails to defraud by purporting to sell tips on policy number rackets. Assistant United States Atty. Jack Arnold Welfeld said Bennis began operating the fraud in May, 1942, from an office at 11 S. La Salle st., and obtained $20,000.

NAVY PROPOSES 1,082 SHIPS FOR POST-WAR FLEET

Urges 8,000 Planes for Its Air Force

BY LAURENCE BURD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19—Navy chiefs today laid before congress plans for a post-war two ocean fleet exceeding the combined navies of the world and capable of "delivering atomic bomb attacks" or other strikes from the western Atlantic to the far corners of the Pacific ocean.

Navy Secretary Forrestal, appearing before the house naval committee, said the proposed fleet of 1,082 major combat ships, 5,000 minor vessels, and 8,000 planes would cost the nation roughly 3 to 4 billion dollars a year.

Both Forrestal and Fleet Adm. King said the navy wants permanent major island bases along the Atlantic seaboard and all the way across the Pacific to the Philippines. King further proposed an American base off the west coast of Africa in the "vicinity of Dakar."

Disclose Lend-Lease Aid

Testimony at the day-long hearing disclosed that the United States contributed to allies via lend-lease 133 combat vessels and 1,601 minor craft. The combat ships were one "old light cruiser," 35 converted aircraft carriers, 80 destroyer escorts, and 17 unidentified ships that were sunk during the war. Recipient nations included Great Britain, France, Russia, the Netherlands, and Norway.

Committee Chairman Vinson [D., Ga.] placed in the record figures on war naval losses, showing 155 major ships and 6,303 planes were lost in combat. The ship losses included two battleships, seven heavy cruisers, three light cruisers, four aircraft carriers, six escort carriers, 70 destroyers, 11 destroyer escorts, and 52 submarines.

Forrestal and King, testifying on proposed legislation to fix the size of the peace time fleet, laid out this pattern for the post-war navy:

The war time fleet of 1,304 major ships will be reduced to 1,082 by scrapping or otherwise disposing of 222 vessels, including six battleships, 11 cruisers, and three aircraft carriers. [The pre-Pearl Harbor navy had 234 major ships.]

300 on Active Duty

In the fleet will be about 300 ships on active duty, with another 100 kept in the "ready reserve" manned by nucleus crews and available for action on 30 days' notice. About 680 ships would be laid up and left out of commission, but would be kept in good condition.

Here is the proposed lineup:

	Active or in ready reserve	Inactive	Disposable
Battleships	11	7	6
Cruisers	49	33	11
Carriers	15	22	3
Escort carriers	21	58	1
Destroyers	176	191	78
Destr. escorts	40	260	63
Submarines	90	109	60
Totals	402	680	222

Adm. King said the proposed fleet would have a total of 6,084 ships, including 5,002 minor craft, compared with a war time navy of 11,596 vessels, and a total of 1,557 at the time of Pearl Harbor.

The proposed naval air strength, he said, calls for 7,928 planes on active duty, plus 3,752 spares. The war time peak was 37,735 planes, and the pre-war figure was 3,991.

The admiral said a force of 500,000 enlisted men and 58,000 officers would be needed to man the active fleet of 300 ships and the planes. Another 815,000 would be required to man the full available fleet, he explained.

Urges Major Bases

The navy secretary suggested establishment or retention of these major fleet bases:

In the Pacific: Kodiak and Adak in the Aleutians, Hawaii, Balboa in the Canal Zone, Guam, Saipan, and Tinian in the Marianas; the Bonin-Volcano Islands, perhaps the Ryukyus, Manus in the Admiralties ["if Australia will grant us the right to a base there"], and the Philippines.

In the Atlantic: Argentia in Newfoundland, Bermuda, San Juan, Guantanamo, Coco Solo, and Trinidad.

Nuts, Says U. S. Bureau, Will Be Cheaper in Fall

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19 (AP)—The agriculture department today said nuts will be more plentiful—and cheaper—this fall and winter. A record crop of more than 23,000 tons of California almonds is forecast. Last year's production was 21,000 tons. The walnut crop is expected to be 14 per cent above average. Pecans will be available in bumper quantities.

GI Gets Children

Yesterday was eventful for Pvt. Kenneth H. Miller, 26, of 3313 Kenmore av. He received his discharge from the army, a divorce from his wife, custody of his two children, and his old job back.

The divorce was granted by Judge Edwin A. Robson in Superior court, where Miller charged his wife, Ruth, 24, with adultery. Neighbors testified for Miller. Mrs. Ruth Hessler, who lives above the Miller apartment, said that men often stayed in the Miller apartment overnight while the soldier was overseas.

The Millers were married Feb. 11, 1939, and separated Oct. 16, 1944. Their two children are Harold, 5, and Joyce, 3.

PARATROOPER'S WIFE CLEARED OF ADULTERY

Judge William V. Daly in Municipal court yesterday dismissed a charge of adultery brought against Mrs. Trudy Ernst, 28, of 1412 S. Albany av., by her husband, John, 32, a paratrooper. He was wounded four times in Europe and returned home in July.

Mrs. Ernst was arrested May 1 with a married man in the Ansonia hotel, 2700 Washington blvd., on a charge, later dismissed, of embezzlement of $1,300 from a Goldblatt Brothers department store where she was a cashier.

"There is not a scintilla of evidence of adultery," Judge Daly said. Out of court, Ernst, now living with his mother at 113 N. Francisco av., said, "I want a divorce."

SHIRLEY TEMPLE MARRIES HER SOLDIER BOY

luck, Shirley tucked away a penny in her shoe.

The former child actress met her husband two years ago at a house party given by her neighbor, Zasu Pitts.

After the ceremony it was an hour's ride to the wedding reception, held in a huge tent on the family grounds at Brentwood. And I'd like to add, it was the first big party the Temples ever gave. Shirley used to have small birthday parties, anniversary celebrations, and the Fox studio gave many parties for her, but she and her family lived a quiet home life—never splurged. But this didn't prevent them from knowing how to give a big party. And their reception will long be remembered.

After the reception, the couple left on an automobile trip to an undisclosed destination. In 10 days, Sgt. Agar, a tall, blond, handsome young fellow, must return to duty. Shirley will go to her parents' home to await his return from the army.

Worth 2 Millions

Shirley's worth around $2,000,000, all of which she earned herself.

She's been protected from the time she was 4. She's been surrounded by bodyguards, maids, school teachers, French teachers, music teachers, and dancing teachers. She never went anywhere without being recognized. Most men who've come near Shirley have been investigated by J. Edgar Hoover's FBI men, and when she lunched here with Hoover some years ago they had 12 bodyguards.

In 1936 Shirley and her parents went into the wide open spaces of Canada for some fishing. The party was in two cars—one for the bodyguards. They ended up in Victoria, B. C., because they'd been told that was a quiet place, but there wasn't a single night when they came down for dinner that there wasn't a crowd of 3,000 outside the hotel trying to get a glimpse of Shirley. I'll say this for Mrs. Temple, Shirley was never taken thru the back door. Her mother always said, "These people are your fans, they built you up, and if they want to look at you, that's their right." And they always got the opportunity.

And now she's Mrs. John Agar, alone at last with one man, and a man few of us know. They may be spending their first night at the Bel Air hotel because Shirley took the precaution to reserve rooms there in case they couldn't get out of town.

Shirley's 18—not 17. In the beginning the publicity people made a mistake of one year, and later on the family was stuck with that story and stayed with it. But at 18, Shirley by experience, intelligence, and education is the equal of any woman of 30. At Fox studio alone she made 12 feature pictures in three years, and never lost a day on account of sickness or temperament. One year she turned down $285,000 for 40 weeks of radio. She didn't need the money, and the exhibitors didn't like it.

Another time her mother was offered $3,500 a week on the air if she'd go on and talk about Shirley. But it was pointed out to her that 50 per cent of all women listeners would think she was boasting about her daughter, while the other 50 per cent would be jealous. So she wisely turned it down.

EX-CHICAGOAN'S TRIAL OPENS IN CLUB SLAYING

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 19 [Special]—Prosecution of Rubin Shetsky, alias Wayne Saunders, former Chicagoan, charged with second degree murder in the slaying of Al Schneider, AFL teamsters' union organizer, was launched today with County Atty. M. J. Dillon telling a Circuit court jury that at least two more bullets were fired into his body after he had been fatally shot.

Schneider was killed the night of July 27 in the Casablanca night club, of which Shetsky is manager. At the time of the shooting it was reported the two men quarreled over the "closed town" policies of Mayor Hubert Humphrey.

In his opening statement, Prosecutor Dillon declared testimony would show that Schneider was on his way out of the night club when he was shot four times. The foundation of the case was established today by the testimony of medical and police witnesses.

FOOD EXPERTS TO STUDY MEALS AT SANITARIUM

Acting on the suggestion of Mayor Kelly and in response to an invitation from Dr. Frederick Tice, president of the board of the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium, the Chicago Restaurant association will appoint a committee of food experts within the next few days to make a thoro study of meals served at the sanitarium.

Donald F. Kiesau, executive vice president of the association, said Marion W. Isbell, president of the association, will appoint the committee as soon as he has consulted with his board of directors.

Dr. Tice's invitation to the association followed a letter from Mayor Kelly to the sanitarium board in which he took cognizance of increasing complaints of the quality of food served at the sanitarium and suggested that the association be asked to name an impartial committee of food experts to make a thoro study and offer constructive suggestions and recommendations.

At an executive meeting last night the Women's City club voted to instruct its public health committee, of which Mrs. T. H. Ludlow is chairman, to investigate food conditions at the sanitarium and make recommendations.

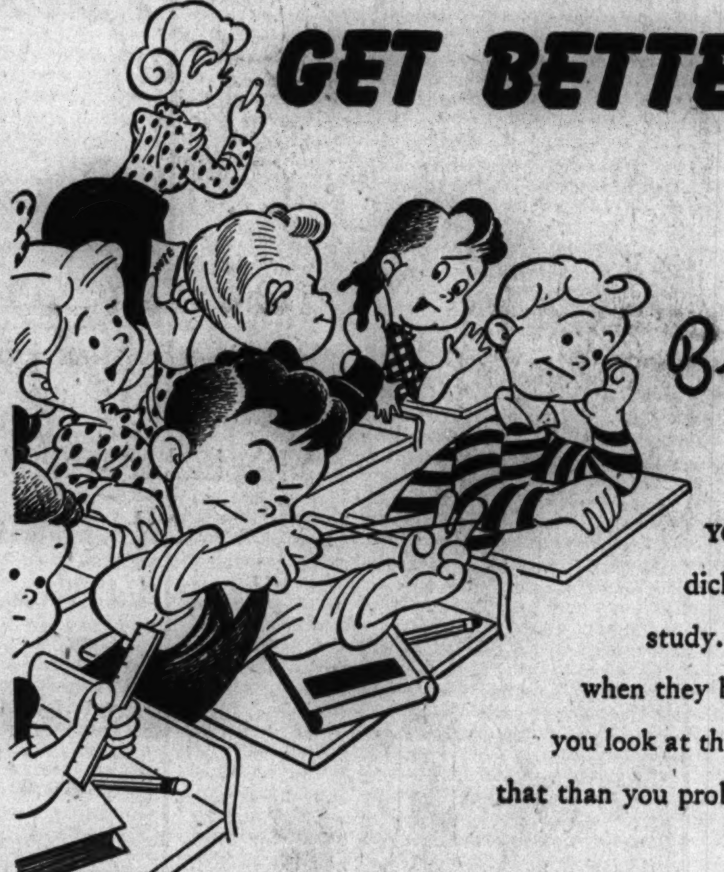
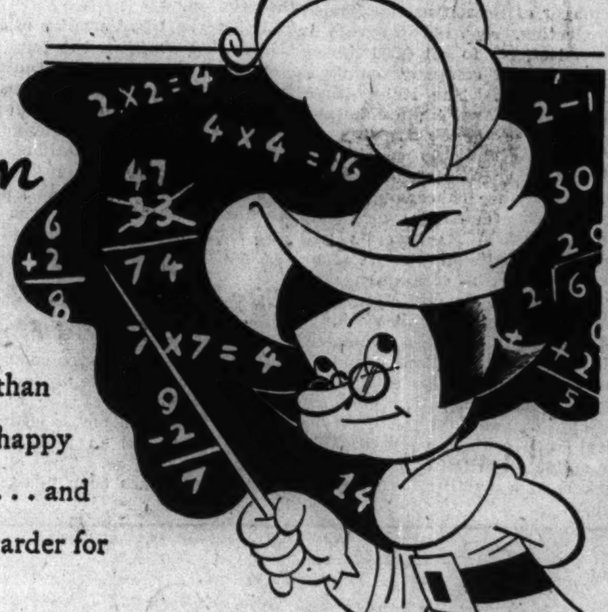
HOW TO HELP YOUR YOUNGSTERS GET BETTER MARKS AT SCHOOL

YOURS SINCERELY

Bud Bowman

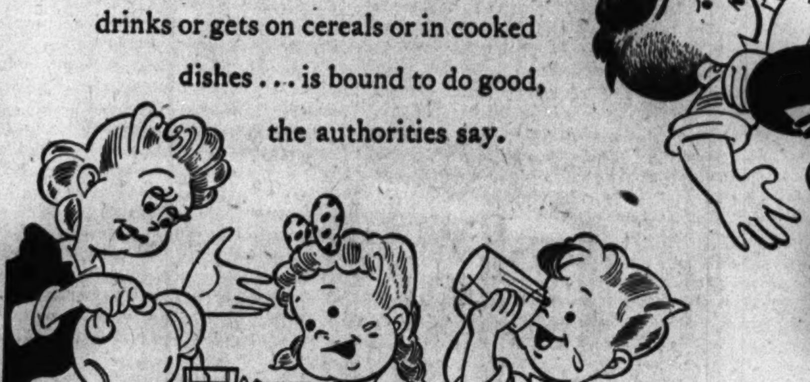




YOUNGSTERS DO raise a lot of dickens and they'd rather play than study. But they're also proud and happy when they bring home their report cards ... and you look at the marks and smile. They try harder for that than you probably think they do.

IT'S BECAUSE milk is such a complete food and is richer than other foods in calcium and riboflavin . . . "which American dietaries most need". Four glasses every day . . . that a child drinks or gets on cereals or in cooked dishes . . . is bound to do good, the authorities say.

IT ISN'T MY OWN IDEA that you can actually help them get better marks just by feeding 'em right. Experts have found that children who eat plenty of all the ordinary things are better off, physically and mentally, when they get more milk. Nothing else works like extra milk in making good meals better.



WE HOPE you'll take seriously this more-milk-better-marks plan, even if you're not one of our customers. But I'd like to mention that the most popular milk hereabouts ... the milk that's 10 times tested for richness, purity and flavor ... is Bowman Milk. You can get it from our milkmen or at the better grocery stores.

● Four glasses of milk every day will help speed a child's mental as well as physical development, authorities say.

APPROVE BILL TO LET TRUMAN REVAMP BUREAUS

Similar Power Denied to Roosevelt

BY WILLARD EDWARDS
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19—Sweeping powers to reorganize the government structure, many of them denied to the late President Roosevelt by congress in 1939, were granted to President Truman in a bill reported unanimously today by the 13 Democrats and 8 Republicans of the house committee on executive department expenditures.

Whereas Mr. Roosevelt had been banned from interference with 21 government agencies, the committee flatly exempted only three agencies from Mr. Truman's authority. These are the interstate commerce commission, federal trade commission, and securities and exchange commission.

Politically significant was the date of July 1, 1948, fixed as the expiration date for the President's power to submit reorganization plans to congress. The committee was apparently unwilling to recommend permanent legislation benefiting Mr. Truman's successor in the event he is not reëlected in November, 1948.

100 Agencies Involved

Chairman Manasco [D., Ala.] also noted that 1948 is a campaign year. He voiced a fear that politics might enter into any reorganization proposal advanced after the major party conventions had selected their candidates for the Presidency.

Manasco said it was considered particularly desirable by the committee to "keep politics out."

Approximately 100 agencies and their functions may be reorganized, consolidated or abolished by the President under the bill. His recommendations take effect 60 days after submission to congress unless both houses express disapproval by a concurrent resolution which requires a simple majority.

A qualified limitation was placed upon plans affecting the civil service commission, federal communications commission, United States tariff commission, and veterans' administration. Presidential proposals to revamp these four agencies must be sent up separately, not as part of a general reorganization plan.

Nor may the civil functions of the engineer corps of the United States army be transferred outside of the war department, the bill provides. Both interior department and agriculture department have been seeking to take over the engineer corps which maps plans for rivers and harbors and flood control.

Agencies Affected

Since the controler general and the general accounting office, "watchdog of the treasury," are part of the legislative branch, not the executive branch, they are also exempt from any reorganization plan. The President had already acknowledged this in his message.

Among the larger agencies which President Truman may reorganize, abolish, consolidate, or strip of functions are:

Office of price administration, bureau of the budget, war man power commission, alien property custodian, committee on fair employment practice, foreign economic administration, office of defense transportation, war production board, war shipping administration, office of war mobilization, surplus property board, petroleum administration, internal revenue bureau, federal bureau of investigation, civil aeronautics administration, rural electrification administration, Commodity Credit corporation, farm security administration, Federal Deposit Insurance corporation, federal loan agency, Reconstruction Finance corporation, federal power commission, federal reserve system, social security board, federal works agency, maritime commission, railroad retirement board, tariff commission, and the Tennessee valley authority.

Bowles Fears New 'Boom and Bust' Cycle

BY ROBERT YOUNG
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19—Price Administrator Bowles said today in a statement that he will ask congress to pass a law setting price ceilings on newly built homes, old houses offered for sale, and residential real estate. He said that soaring prices in recent months have forced him to seek such legislation, which he considers necessary "if we are to avoid a serious inflationary boom in this field."

Bowles said that by residential real estate he meant vacant lots for home sites.

Bowles predicted that if inflation does not wreck the market, residential construction and allied industries can provide 4½ million jobs, and that as many as 1½ million homes can be built annually for the next 10 years.

He warned, however, that if the prices of new and old homes are not held down to reasonable levels, the potential building boom will collapse and the present demand for millions of new homes will be killed. This would mean the loss of jobs for construction workers and the loss of new homes for millions of families, he said.

Control Limited

The price administrator explained at a news conference that at present the office of price administration can control only the cost of building materials and contractors' fees thru price ceilings. This protects persons who are "custom" building their own homes, he said, but does not cover sales of old houses or speculators and development firms who build houses for resale.

In view of the housing shortage and the pent-up demand for new homes, sellers will be able to charge "what the traffic will bear" if ceilings are not fixed, Bowles said. Calling attention to the fact that war time restrictions on residential construction will be lifted Oct. 15, he asserted that in the field of home building, home owning, and rent control "we face a highly explosive situation."

Bowles said that the proposed ceilings would be at "about" current price levels and would not be rolled back to the levels of prior years. He admitted that fixing such maximums will be complicated and difficult and that details still are to be worked out.

'Reasonable' Profit

As far as possible, he disclosed, house ceilings will be based on regional and local wage rates and material costs. He promised that if congress approves the ceilings, they would allow sellers a reasonable margin of profit.

A bill providing for residential price ceilings will be introduced in congress within a few days, Bowles said. The proposed controls would continue at least until next June 30, when the price control act expires. He added, however, that if the ceilings lasted only until next June, they would accomplish little in curbing soaring prices, since most home building begins in the spring.

Asked how long he wanted the proposed ceilings to continue, Bowles said they should remain in effect until the inflation threat in the housing field is ended. He said it was first thought that the ceilings could be embodied in an amendment to the price control act, but he is now considering separate legislation, which could remain in force after the OPA is dissolved.

No Workable Formula Yet

Bowles said that his housing ceilings have the support of Reconversion Director Snyder. Altho he disclosed that Snyder has agreed such controls are necessary, the price administrator refused to explain why they were not included in Snyder's six point national housing program announced yesterday.

It was learned, however, that Snyder left the proposed ceilings out of the program for the time being because Bowles and members of his OPA staff have not arrived at a workable formula for fixing and administering the ceilings.

Bowles asserted, in line with Snyder's program to expand residential construction and fight inflated prices, that the OPA will tighten its controls over prices of building materials and home fixtures. The OPA, in addition, will impose more rigid controls on such services as painting, papering, roofing, plumbing, and excavating, as well as on contractors' profit margins, he said. Rent controls will be continued until the danger of general increases is past.

SENATE REJECTS $25 WEEKLY PAY TO UNEMPLOYED

BY PHILIP DODD
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19—The administration lost the first two rounds in the fight over unemployment compensation today when the senate defeated a proposal to raise benefits to a maximum of $25 for 26 weeks and voted to return employment service personnel and property to the states.

The senate acted while 600 CIO delegates from New York were meeting with New York congressmen and hearing an attack from CIO President Philip Murray on the administration and the Democratic leadership in congress for not showing "sufficient exertion" on employment legislation urged by President Truman.

Day's Developments

Developments in reconversion employment legislation today were:

1. A coalition of Republican and southern Democratic senators defeated, by a 51 to 29 vote, an amendment offered by Majority Leader Barkley [D., Ky.] restoring proposed maximum benefits of $25 weekly for 26 weeks to the unemployment compensation bill.

2. "States' rights" Democrats joined with Republicans to pass, 56 to 23, an amendment offered by Sen. Lucas [D., Ill.] returning federal employment facilities to the states 90 days after the bill's enactment. Only yesterday President Truman had transferred the United States employment service to the labor department.

3. The senate banking committee toned down the so-called "full employment" bill by adopting, 10 to 9, an amendment by Sen. Fulbright [D., Ark.] which would state "all Americans are entitled" to job opportunities. Previously, the bill had stated all persons "have a right" to job opportunities and that the federal government is responsible for providing them.

As the unemployment compensation bill stood when the senate adjourned tonight, with a final vote still to be had, the federal government would provide funds to extend the duration of benefits paid by states, the extended payments to be at existing state rates. The bill also would provide benefits for federal workers and maritime workers, and transportation home for war workers who migrated during the war.

The federal government would provide the extended coverage only upon the written application of a governor. This provision will be debated tomorrow. Sen. Kilgore [D., W. Va.], author of the original bill, today offered an amendment striking out the section.

Kilgore's first bill, which was rewritten in the senate finance committee, made acceptance of the $25 26-week benefits mandatory on all states. However, 26 states have notified the committee they could not accept the federal aid without special sessions of their legislatures.

Vote on Lucas Plan First

The first vote in the senate today came on the Lucas amendment, following debate in which Lucas and Senators Taft [R., O.] and Hoey [D., N. C.] argued the return of state employment service facilities, loaned to the federal government early in the war, was necessary to streamline unemployment compensation machinery.

After waging a losing verbal battle against the Lucas amendment, Barkley then proposed restoring the $25 26-week provision to the bill. He said benefit rates should be uniform thruout the country, but Sen. George [D., Ga.] asserted the Barkley proposal would "make a bad matter worse" because of the states which could not accept the increased funds. Discrepancies in state benefits then would be even greater than now, George said.

CIO Demands Action

When Barkley's amendment was voted down, Kilgore offered a similar proposal, but it was shouted down in a voice vote. Sen. Brooks [R., Ill.] voted against the proposals.

The New York CIO delegation demanded action by New York congressional members on employment legislation.

The Murray message, read to the group by Robert Lamb, CIO steel workers union official, said the three primary measures called for by the President in his recent measure to congress were the unemployment compensation, the full employment, and the 65 cent minimum wage bills

"If these three measures are not passed in substantially the same form asked for by the President," Murray said, "it will represent a body blow to post-war recovery."

★ TWA WILL BE FIRST TO FLY CONSTELLATIONS ACROSS THE ATLANTIC

Soon TWA will take delivery of the first commercial Constellations to come out of the great Lockheed plant — the first of a new 30 million dollar fleet.

Before long, TWA will begin the first Constellation service across the Atlantic, and soon half way round the world to India.

The Constellation, developed orginally for TWA, has been released by TWA for sale to other airlines. Eventually it will be flown by many of the leading airlines of the world.

★ TRANSATLANTIC FLYING TIME WILL BE CUT

Today it requires about a day to fly across the Atlantic. Using Constellations, TWA will cut this time nearly ten hours. Note the illustrations of time-savings in the next column —

New York To	Present Time	TWA Time	Time Saved
Foynes, Eire	23 hrs. 25 mins.	13 hrs. 50 mins.	9 hrs. 35 mins.
Lisbon, Portugal	29 hrs. 30 mins.	18 hrs. 10 mins.	11 hrs. 20 mins.

★ TRANSATLANTIC FARES WILL BE CUT TO REASONABLE LEVELS

The air fare from the United States to Foynes, Eire during 1939 was $337.00. After the war broke out, this fare was raised to $625.00. Today it is $525.00.

This North-Atlantic fare of over 17¢ per mile is nearly four times the rate charged by competing airlines for travel in the United States. TWA will establish reasonable fares for transatlantic traffic.

★ TRANSATLANTIC SERVICE WILL HAVE THE SAFETY AND COMFORT OF OVER-WEATHER FLYING

The super-charged cabins of TWA's Constellations are air conditioned for high-altitude flying. This means that you can fly over the bad weather in the smooth upper air for greater safety and comfort.

Service on TWA's Trans World Airline will begin soon.

Schedules will be announced and supplied to your travel agent shortly.

'MOTTLED FACE' SUSPECT HELD IN POLICE KILLINGS

Fits Description Given by Slain Detective

Willard Barnstable, "the man with the mottled face," sought for more than a week in connection with slaying of Detectives Charles Brady and George Hellstern at Clark st. and Lunt av. the night of Sept. 2, was arrested yesterday in Cincinnati, O., where he was living under the name of Frank Willard.

Barnstable, a Detroit ex-convict, is a known pal of Douglas M. Anderson, 32, arrested last week in Detroit in connection with a series of holdups there and also considered for a time as a suspect in the Chicago slaying.

Anderson was closely questioned about the shooting of the two detectives here because a pair of black rubber gloves was found on his person.

Black Gloves Worn by Slayer

Detective Brady, before his death in St. Francis hospital, told police that the man who shot him and Hellstern when the two detectives sought to question him, wore a black rubber glove on his left hand.

Anderson's description was at variance with that given of the slayer by Detective Brady, and test bullets fired from a .38 caliber revolver found in his possession did not correspond with the bullets taken from the bodies of the two detectives.

In questioning Anderson, however, Detroit police learned that Barnstable was an accomplice in some of Anderson's Detroit crimes. Barnstable, they say, closely answers the description of the Chicago slayer.

Detroit police recall particularly that he has a mottled face, one of the characteristics of the slayer specifically mentioned by Brady. It is also his habit, they said, to wear a slouch hat, similar to that reported worn by the slayer of the two detectives.

Faces Chicago Questioning

Detroit police immediately sent two detectives to Cincinnati to return Barnstable to Detroit for questioning. When he arrives there, he also will be questioned by Detectives Richard Martin and George Shannon of the East Chicago av. station, who left for Detroit yesterday to make sure that Anderson is not the slayer of the two detectives here.

Barnstable told Cincinnati officers who arrested him that he went to Cincinnati last Thursday from Detroit after Anderson's arrest. He said he knew Anderson only casually.

After arriving in Cincinnati, Barnstable sent a message to Detroit asking that his clothing be sent to him. Detroit police intercepted the message, and Barnstable's arrest followed.

Parcel Delivery Driver Arrested on Rape Charge

George Pappas of 1249 Fry st., a driver for a parcel delivery company, was arrested yesterday by Shakespeare av. police on the complaint of a north side girl that he had raped her on Aug. 2. The girl told police, they said, that Pappas called at her home to deliver a coat she had ordered and attacked her.

"O, there's lots of reasons for learning all this stuff. Maybe you'll find yourself on a radio quiz program some day."

FRESNO POLICE PRESS DRIVE TO HALT SEX CRIMES

Fresno, Cal., Sept. 19 [Special]—Mayor Z. C. Leymal and Police Chief Raymond T. Wallace today ordered extra duty for all patrolmen in a move to stop a growing wave of sex crimes by men wearing zoot suits.

The chief said three zoot suited hoodlums last night forced two girls, 17 and 13, into an automobile and drove them to a lonely road where the younger girl was raped by one of the men.

Civilian and military authorities pressed without success their search for six zoot suiters who abducted and raped two married WACs from Hammer field last week-end. Wallace said police have instructions to detain and question all persons wearing zoot suits.

"While wearing the kind of clothes they do is not in itself against the law, that's all we have to go on," Wallace said. "All of them are under suspicion until those responsible for the attacks are found."

FATHER KILLED FLEEING COURT WITH DAUGHTER

Memphis, Tenn., Sept. 19 (AP)—C. D. Winston Griffin, 31, died in a hospital early today, 36 hours after he was felled by a deputy's bullets as he sought to flee Chancery court with a young daughter whose custody he had lost to his divorced wife, Mrs. P. E. Flodin.

Griffin was shot twice by Deputy Sheriff Mark Humes after he grabbed his screaming 7 year old daughter, Mary Jo, and backed into the courthouse corridor with gun in hand.

Griffin, a former war plant worker, had just heard Chancellor John E. Swepston give his divorced wife custody of Mary Jo and another daughter 5. Police Inspector A. O. Clark said Griffin was shot by Humes after the deputy failed in efforts to kick the gun from Griffin's hands. Humes was absolved of blame.

VOTE TO INDICT UNION AID FOR MAYHEM IN MECHANIC'S BEATING

Frank Carroll, business agent of Local 701 of the Auto Mechanics' union [AFL], was reported named by the grand jury yesterday in a true bill charging him with conspiracy to commit mayhem. Carroll has been sought by police since Sept. 8, when Carter Olsen, 30, a mechanic, identified him as one of four men who slugged and beat him in an alley at Augusta blvd. and Kostner av.

Atty. George R. Bieber, who was retained by the AFL union for Carroll, on Tuesday said that when the indictment is returned he will bring in Carroll and post his bond. The indictment is expected to be returned today or tomorrow.

The three unidentified assailants who accompanied Carroll in the alleged attack have not been identified. Police Capt. Barnes, head of the labor detail, holds two warrants for Carroll and the other three sought, charging each with mayhem, a felony, and assault and battery.

Olsen, who lives at 2500 N. Washtenaw av., is employed at the Greyhound Motor and Supply company, 916 N. Kilbourn av. The union has accused him of circulating a petition in which the signers notified the AFL union that after October, when the union's contract with the company would expire, they no longer wanted to be represented by the AFL union.

Slugging and Robbery Suspects Held to Jury

Ezell Pearson, 22, of 3621 State st., and Willie H. Kinsey, 24, of 3339 Rhodes av., Negroes, accused of stealing $1,661 from the Terrace restaurant, 55 W. Washington st., Sept. 2, after slugging the manager, Vincent D'Ascanis, were ordered held to the grand jury in bonds of $30,000 each yesterday by Judge Matthew D. Hartigan in Felony court. Pearson faces one charge of robbery and two of burglary. Kinsey was held on three charges of burglary.

COUNTY NABS 10 AT EVANSTON IN CRIME ROUNDUP

While Evanston authorities were rejecting an offer of state assistance as unnecessary, county highway police sent into the suburb by Sheriff Mulcahy arrested 10 Negroes yesterday for questioning in connection with a recent series of sex crimes and attacks on women. Evanston police arrested an 11th suspect.

A mass meeting of Evanston citizens, aroused by failure of the city's police to stop the attacks, was called for 7:30 p. m. today at 137 Custer av., in the suburb. A resolution demanding a reorganization of the police department will be considered.

Other Proposals to Be Made

The resolution also will urge reestablishment of the Evanston detective bureau, abolished six months ago; improved street lighting, more patrolmen walking beats, restoration of the department to pre-war strength, and the appointment of a committee of citizens "to study the problem confronting police."

Supt. Harry A. Ash of the state department of public safety's crime prevention division sent Inspector Charles R. Hussey to offer the division's aid to Mayor Samuel G. Ingraham and Police Chief Carl Ekman, but he was rebuffed.

Mayor Ingraham told Hussey he was grateful for the offer, but that he had complete confidence in the Evanston police. The mayor said that in the event state aid should appear desirable, he would communicate with T. P. Sullivan, the state department's head.

Chief Hits at "Outsiders"

Chief Ekman reiterated confidence in the ability of his policemen to cope with the situation. He said he considered that the presence of outsiders would only "confuse matters," since such men would be unfamiliar with the city and its various districts.

Shortly before Hussey's offer a hatless Negro was frightened away when he attempted to hold up Mrs. Sadie Bogan, 1310 Hinman av., in the Salvation Army shop of which she is manager at 520 Dempster st.

BELIEVES GI WAS 'INSANE' WHEN HE SHOT 2 OFFICERS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19 (AP)—A cousin who visited Pvt. Robert A. Colby in Germany where the Geetingsville, Ind., soldier is under a death sentence, believes "it is impossible that he was in his right mind" when he shot and killed two superior officers last June.

In a letter made public today by Rep. Ludlow [D., Ind.], Tech. 5th Grade Victor Colby now stationed in Paris said his cousin "was given a preliminary examination by a psychiatrist who expressed the opinion that he was insane at the time of the shooting."

He added that altho a second psychiatrist overruled the theory Pvt. Colby "says that since he has been in the stockade, he is sure that he has been insane at times."

Pvt. Colby, 22, was convicted by a general court martial of fatally shooting Capt. Richard J. Brown of Buffalo, N. Y., and 1st Lieut. Donald H. Wade of Woodworth, Wis. The death sentence was confirmed by Gen. Eisenhower, but execution has been held in suspension pending receipt of clemency appeals.

STATE TO TRY TO PROVE EPES POISONED WIFE

Columbia, S. C., Sept. 19 [Special]—Legal maneuvers in the murder trial of Army Lt. Samuel C. Epes today narrowed the state's case to an attempt to prove poisoning by the use of sleeping tablets.

Epes, 27, and a member of a prominent Richmond, Va., family, is accused of murdering his wife, Mary Lee, 26, in their apartment here last Jan. 27 and burying the body in a foxhole near Fort Jackson.

The warrant on which Epes was brought to trial charged he killed her by poison and suffocation and by mangling, beating and bruising her. The phrases relative to mangling, beating and bruises were stricken today by court order after prosecutors admitted the warrant was drawn before receipt of an autopsy report on Mrs. Epes body.

The autopsy report, introduced in court, disclosed that the body, exhumed Feb. 14 from its foxhole grave, was badly decomposed but showed no marks of violence. The charge of causing death by suffocation remained technically in the warrant, but no evidence to support a suffocation theory has been offered by the state.

OLD ADAM; NEW ATOM

A good many people in this country, appalled by the destructive power of the atomic bomb, are saying queer things. Some of them are demanding a law restricting further research into nuclear physics. To them Vice President Gustavson of the University of Chicago makes the sensible reply that the uses of the new agent for destruction are now well known. Restrictions on research in this country can only prevent mankind from realizing the benefits that our nuclear scientists may have to offer in such fields as the treatment of cancer.

Some people have been urging our government to turn over its formulas to the new league of nations to be locked up forever. It may be that Prof. M. E. Oliphant, a physicist at Birmingham university, England, had this suggestion in mind when he said the other day that the principles on which the atomic bomb is constructed are familiar to physicists the world over. That is, of course, true. He predicted that any industrial nation which was determined to have the new weapons in its arsenal could supply itself with them in a couple of years. That seems to be an inescapable conclusion, particularly in view of the fact that no nation will be discouraged from the search by doubt that the goal is attainable. There are perhaps half a dozen nations in the world today with the scientists, the wealth, and the industrial experience to turn the trick.

What all this means is that the secret cannot be bottled up. America cannot expect to enjoy a permanent monopoly. It seems probable that we have a substantial lead over other nations on the theoretical side and undoubtedly we have accumulated a much longer lead in solving the practical, industrial problems of production. We start with these advantages and we can reasonably expect to remain well in advance of the procession if we do not make the mistake of discouraging further investigation.

There are people who say that civilization everywhere, including the United States, cannot survive if wars persist, now that the atomic bomb is known. If this is true the outlook is black, indeed, because there is nothing in the record of mankind to suggest that the invention of a new weapon, more destructive by far than any known before, has ever persuaded men to keep the peace. The world has known a succession of such weapons and a succession of wars. If the mounting fury of war were a preventive of war the conflicts which have just ended never would have been started. We wish it were otherwise, but the historical evidence doesn't give much ground for hope that mankind can be terrified into the paths of peace.

In the new era the safety of the United States may be assured in part by the knowledge abroad that this country is well supplied with the new bombs and with the means of making them and delivering them upon the heads of enemies who seek to destroy us. There are only a few nations sufficiently advanced in science and industry to be considered as threatening our safety and we must make sure that they are in possession of no islands off our shores from which atomic attacks on us could be launched. The atomic bomb should give a new impetus to the American determination to solve the island problem promptly in our interest.

We must plan to survive in a world of atomic bombs and in doing so we should recognize that this is not the first weapon which has revolutionized warfare. Now, as always, the world is dominated by the nations most advanced in science and industry. Their relative strength is now enhanced. Such countries have always been on top, not because of their monopoly of the military virtues, but because of the superiority of their weapons.

Rome ruled the world because Roman engineers were the world's best in their day. They gave the Roman ships the corvus, the boarding device by means of which Rome won her naval victories. They gave the Roman infantryman the steel sword which was the supreme weapon of the day. Frederick the Great was a brilliant tactician, but his victories can be attributed as much to the Prussian musket which fired three times to the enemy's two as to his generalship. British naval victories in the 18th and early 19th centuries owed a great deal to the superior cannon produced by English iron works. In our Civil war the industrial north had a tremendous advantage over the agrarian south. Military history is a long record of new and terrible weapons produced by industrially advanced nations to maintain their superiority.

Gunpowder didn't put an end to warring. Neither did the airplane and the development of explosive and incendiary bombs, of which the atomic bomb is only the latest and most terrible. One of the new weapons can do as much damage as can be wrought with thousands of tons of TNT and incendiaries, but all that means is that one airplane and one bomb now can do as much damage as formerly required hundreds of planes and persistent attacks over a period of weeks or months. In the end the result is the same. In Japan the damage achieved by the atomic bombs is a small part of the aggregate of destruction which our planes delivered.

It is still true that the country which can produce the best weapons and use them with the greatest skill has the best chance for survival. That is as true today as it was the hour before the attack on Hiroshima. We must make very sure that we have the most atom bombs and the best airplanes in which to deliver them. If we are so armed we can face the new era without dread.

ALL RIGHT, LET'S GO

Gov. Green says he thinks the Douglas airport is the best site available for Chicago's post-war expansion as an air traffic center. Mayor Kelly has already indorsed it. Air lines operating into Chicago have advised the mayor's airport selection board that it should be acquired.

That's fine. Every one agrees. But when do we get some action?

CRIME IN EVANSTON

A number of Evanston citizens have expressed their indignation over the failure of their police department to deal adequately with crimes of violence. We think this is a justified complaint. A police department which really wants to protect life and property can do so. All that is required is ordinary intelligence in the department, plus persistence in the pursuit of criminals and freedom from political interference. It may be taken as axiomatic that if rape and robbery flourish in a community the fault lies with the police, the local government, or both. No excuses should be accepted. Criminals avoid the places where law enforcement is effective. They operate where they know they aren't likely to be caught.

CLEVER POLITICS

President Truman's appointments of Undersecretary of War Patterson to succeed Secretary Stimson, and of Sen. Burton of Ohio to the Supreme court are clever politics.

Patterson went into the war department with his sponsor, Stimson. His appointment, like those of Stimson and the late Secretary Knox, was part of the successful plot to control the Republican national convention of 1940, in order to prevent any organized opposition to Mr. Roosevelt's project to take this country into war.

Burton has always belonged to the Roosevelt give-away-America faction in the Republican party. Justices of the Supreme court are supposed to refrain from partisan political activity, but, with the example of Associate Justice Frankfurter before him, there is reason to fear that Mr. Burton will observe this honorable tradition. Mr. Truman is a practical politician. It is expectable that his Republican appointee to the Supreme court will work to control the Republican national convention of 1948, just as Mr. Roosevelt's Republican appointees to the cabinet and sub-cabinet worked to control the convention of 1940.

Wall street has pulled the strings of the Republican party for eight years and bids fair to do it in the next campaign. This means that Mr. Truman will control his opposition, because Wall street is the principal beneficiary in this country of his proposals to put England, Russia, and the rest of the world on the dole at the expense of the American taxpayer. Mr. Truman is doing everything within his considerable power to deny the voters of the country any real alternative to his policy when they go to the polls three years from now.

The senate in considering Mr. Patterson's fitness for the job should keep two things in mind aside from his competence, which is considerable.

Under his senile predecessor he has actually been the secretary of war for a long time. As such he was a principal advocate of extending the power of the military over every phase of civilian affairs, and of inflicting on the American people, thru the so-called labor draft, the same sort of industrial slavery that Hitler and Stalin imposed. Also, he was a member of the inner circle whose members still have to clear their skirts of responsibility for the Pearl Harbor disaster. If it votes to confirm him, the senate should do so with full recognition that Secretary Patterson will undoubtedly do all in his power to suppress the truth about Pearl Harbor as long as that is possible.

WHEN DOES ELLIOTT PAY?

John Hartford, the A. & P. groceryman, lent $200,000 to Elliott Roosevelt. Elliott welshed and Jesse Jones settled the debt by paying Hartford $4,000 from his own pocket. The bureau of internal revenue now says that Hartford can take an income tax deduction on the $196,000 he lost.

What about Elliott? A loan which is compromised has been considered by the revenue bureau, in other cases, to be income, taxable as such. When is the bureau going to back tax him on the $200,000—$196,000 from Hartford and $4,000 from Jones?

If it fails to do so, after granting Hartford his deduction, it puts the other income tax payers of the United States in the position of paying the private debts of the Roosevelt family.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U. S. Pat. Office

NOW IT CAN BE TOLD

When the American invaders of Italy were at the gates of Rome and the Germans were withdrawing lickety-split, Gen. Mark Clark gathered the war correspondents around him and briefed them, thus:

"This is the first time in history that Rome has been taken from the south."

His announcement promptly went out to the wide, wide world by all possible means of communication.

This column, with almost equal promptitude, printed a rebuttal in the interests of historical accuracy. We pointed to the campaign of Belisarius, a general of the Eastern Roman empire, against the Goths. He moved northward from the ankle of the Italian boot along the terrain of World War II. [without the Anzio beachhead], and took the Holy City in Gen. Clark style while the Goths were sneaking out like their 20th century descendants.

Now it happened, by a pretty coincidence, that Seymour Korman, Tribune correspondent, had in his luggage at the moment of Gen. Clark's claim a historical novel by Robert Graves which deals quite faithfully with the life and military achievements of Belisarius. He had picked up a Tauchnitz [German] edition of the book in English at Naples, but hadn't found time to open it. After settling down in Rome he discovered, in a few evenings of pleasure reading, that he, and Gen. Clark, and the rest of the Yanks had been following in the footsteps of Belisarius.

Mr. Korman, who is also keen for accuracy, set out for headquarters forthwith to introduce Gen. Clark to a famous general he ought to know. He didn't find him, so he broke the news to the chief of staff. Well, it seems that this officer did not receive the correction with any degree of pleasure—an attitude which slightly irked the scholarly correspondent, who closed the conversation with words that in other days would have been called a Parthian shot. Thus spake Mr. Korman to the brass hat:

"Yes, Belisarius took Rome from the south about 14 centuries ago—and he didn't get hung up at Monte Cassino, either."

THE SHIPS COME BACK

We saw the great gray ships slip from our gaze,
Like homeless ghosts foredoomed to endless flight,
And as they disappeared in ocean haze
We knew the fear of venomed sea and night
And turned away, nor trusted smile or word,
For all who lined the rail, these silent men,
Were sons and brothers, and our eyes new-blurred
Dared not to ask when they might come again.
But now at last the selfsame ships return
Their precious cargo to our grateful shore,
We pray the welcome that their hearts discern—
The flags' gay ripple and the harbor's roar—
May somehow tell the things we cannot say;
How much we missed them these long years away!

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks will answer questions of service men, veterans, and their dependents by mail if stamped envelope is sent to 435 N. Michigan av. The Tribune's veterans' bureau, 1 S. Dearborn st., Superior 0200, gives personal interviews.]

P. W. writes: "A man served in the merchant marines for seven years, made three trips during war time, was aboard five ships that were torpedoed, and took part in four invasions. For the last eight months he has been stationed at an air base in the United States and has only eight points toward discharge. Isn't he entitled to point credit for his merchant marine service, and who can he see in the army air forces about getting out?"

The merchant marine does not have military status, and no time spent therein counts toward point credit for release from the army. Members of the merchant marine have the status of civilians, and the only benefit given to them for war service is the right to reinstatement to former jobs. This right is conferred by the selective service and training act. There is no one to whom this man may appeal for credit for discharge points after only eight months in service.

H. D. O. writes: "We understand that a veteran may establish his own business and that if the proceeds are not enough to live on the government will supply the additional amount of money up to a certain maximum. Where can this regulation be found and how much can the veteran get?"

Veterans operating their own businesses may obtain up to $100 a month if self-employed and their businesses do not net $100 a month. The veterans' administrator makes the payments under Sec. 902 of public law 346—the GI bill.

PNEUMONIA NO LONGER A KILLER

JOHN BUNYAN once characterized consumption as the "captain of the men of death," but statistics do not support his contention. The title should have gone to pneumonia, for it carried a higher mortality.

Times are changing and we are not as fearful of this malady as were our fathers. In 1913 there were 83,778 deaths reported in the United States, but in 1940 the number was reduced to 33,169. The decrease is probably even more startling because in those days not all the cases were recorded.

Just what the level will be in 1945 I cannot predict, but in the last five years we have added improved sulfonamides and penicillin to our bag of tricks. An idea can be obtained from some army figures which show that the mortality rate from pneumonia among soldiers of World War I. was 28 per cent and, during the recent conflict, 0.7 per cent.

The disorder is usually classified into two main types: broncho and lobar. In the former, the involvement is patchy; in the latter, it is confined to part or the entire lobe and is more solid in consistency. The trend during the past few years has been to discourage this grouping and use the name of the causative germ as a prefix. Hence the terms virus, pneumococcus, or streptococcus pneumonia are in vogue. We now search for the offending organism and use the medication most capable of destroying it.

Pneumonia is more prone to attack the young and the old. As with other respiratory infections, it is most frequent during the winter and spring months. The ailment may strike suddenly an individual who has been exposed to cold or rain. Others develop the disease subsequent to sore throat or bronchitis. It may also complicate an attack of influenza, measles, diphtheria, or scarlet fever.

As a rule, the onset is abrupt with chills and fever. Within a few hours there may be pain in the side and a short, dry, painful cough. At this stage, the patient feels miserable, is warm and flushed, and respiration is rapid. Children may even grunt with each breath.

These are considered typical symptoms but variations are common. Some victims have no more discomfort than is encountered in ordinary bronchitis. In the army I saw cases of so-called walking pneumonia. A soldier, believing that he had only a cold, continued on duty without the slightest idea that the illness existed. Were it not for a routine X-ray prior to an overseas assignment, no one would have been the wiser.

In the past, the condition lasted seven to 10 days, during which time the patient was desperately ill. This was usually followed by a crisis, in which fever fell rapidly. Since the introduction of the sulfonamides and penicillin, the temperature begins to drop within 24 hours and may be entirely normal on the third or fourth day. A recent article described equally good effects in those treated with penicillin and sulfadiazine. Of the 225 cases studied, all recovered. These results speak for themselves.

CHEST PAIN

Mrs. E. P. writes: Does heart pain indicate a weak heart or heart trouble?

REPLY

Distress in the chest may have no connection with the heart itself. In angina pectoris, however, the blood vessels in the muscle of the pumping organ may not deliver enough blood, resulting in breast pang.

INACTIVE LESIONS

B. S. writes: Do scarred tissues of the lungs have to be watched after healing?

REPLY

Not literally. Such individuals should be somewhat more careful of their health, particularly if the lesions are the aftermath of tuberculosis.

RETAINER

G. L. writes: What is meant by excess fluid in the system?

REPLY

The cells of some individuals retain fluid if too much salt is ingested. The disorder may also be associated with kidney disease, heart trouble, glandular disturbances, or incompetent veins.

CHILDHOOD AILMENT

F. H. writes: Do many adults develop whooping cough?

REPLY

The disease is infrequent after the 10th year. Most cases occur during the first two years of life.

[Note: Last summer, when a poetry famine in A Line o' Type or Two drove Dr. Collins to despair and a vacation, leaving this itinerant substitute to sink or swim, it was Mr. Jinks who burned his midnight 100-watter to save the day. He wrote so many poems that we had one left over at the end, with nary a column to print it in. So here it is.]

When they take us from the water,
  limp and soggy,
And they haul us with a grapnel
  up the bank,
And observers are remarking, "It was here that we were parking,
And we saw the bubbles rising
  where they sank"—

When they search us for identifying papers,
And they photograph the trade-
  marks in our shoes,
We've no chance [so give up trying] to find any fun in dying
If it doesn't put our pictures in the news.

But if only we could rate a triple
  stickful,
If they'd print our pretty pans across a page—
"Here's the Jane he thought so much of and whose lips he loved the touch of,
And the motive, method, address, weight and age"—

Yes, I'd die a death or two to make a headline—wouldn't you?—
But of course it's your demise as well as mine,
So let's try a drier way to be immortal. Ask D. A.
If he'll only squeeze our poem in

JINKS

So Clever, Those Japs

Quoting Lt. Col. John M. Williams, New South Wales, recently liberated from the Siamese prison camp where the incidents occurred:

The Japanese army made a propaganda film at an allied prisoner of war camp in Siam in May, 1943. Its cruelty, deceitfulness, and stupidity give it undisputed Japanese authorship. The film unit was set up outside the prisoners' canteen. Men filed past the camera receiving fruit, eggs, Red Cross parcels, and mail. Japanese guards took these from the prisoners at the end of each performance and re-issued them for further shots.

Other scenes were photographed showing men reading letters. They were Japanese army correspondence lent for the occasion. There was also a background of Red Cross boxes. All were empty. Canteen scenes showed the men sitting at the tables piled high with fruit, eggs, meat, and vegetables. At the word "go" the men were ordered to start eating. The camera recorded for two or three minutes, then the men were told to stop eating and were marched from the canteen. Japanese officers took their place at the tables.

The finale arranged by the enterprising Jap film director was to have the men marching down the road whistling and singing a popular English tune. The tune chosen was "Bless 'em All." Our men sang the army version, and the sound recorder was delighted but innocent. This was the one bright moment of three and a half years of hell.

Right In the Iris

Studying "nucleonics" [as you call it] in a pre-war issue of the Satevepost, I learned that one of the surprise products when atom splitters first got the knack, was a bit of barium. Well, that might satisfy some investigators, but not me. Last week when I was reading "Atoms in Action" [at your recommendation] I learned [p. 165] that "the irises of the eyes of cattle more than 3 years old yield an ash which contains more than 50 per cent barium, a fact true of no other animal." Isn't that cheaper than spending 2 billion dollars to split atoms? Of course it does cost something to feed a cow until she's 3 years old. G. G. G.

Say "Ah," Please, Fujiyama

Glad the war's over, of course, but what would have happened if a bomber had looked right down the throat of Fujiyama and dropped an atom. D. A.

Evanston, Ill., Sept. 14—During the winter many children must walk home from school in semi-darkness—total darkness if they have stayed for any after school activities. Year around daylight saving time would relieve the anxiety every mother must feel when she reads of criminal attacks on young people—and perhaps help prevent some such incidents. MRS. D. F. SHEAHAN

Chicago, Sept. 14—Today's TRIBUNE offers readers a convenient plan to vote on the question of daylight saving time. I hope the mothers and fathers especially will take advantage of this opportunity to do away with daylight time. It will go a long way to curb the wave of crime that has been sweeping the large cities and also keep our children off the streets in the dark hours of the cold winter mornings.

WHAT THE ARMY CALLS "ESSENTIAL"

Pratt, Kas., Sept. 14—A bright officer was out on his inspection tour. With the officer was another man. He took pictures of the cigaret butts at a cost of $2 or more each time he used a flash bulb. Here is a copy of the report as we received it. All names have been withheld just in case some one may happen to know one of these officers and would like to rib them.

Subject: Police of area inspection report.
To: OIC, 3d echelon shop, AAF, Pratt, Kas.

1. An inspection of your area conducted this date 8-21-45 revealed the unsatisfactory conditions listed below:
"Building: T-166.
North: Five pieces of scrap paper, one cigaret pack and some particles of fruit scraps.
South: Five cigaret butts.
East: Five pieces of scrap lumber.
West: Three pieces of scrap paper.

"2. You are directed to report in person to the base executive officer, prepared to state what specific action has been taken to correct the foregoing deficiencies, and to prevent their recurrence. Phone extention 2 for your appointment.

By order of Col. ...."

That, Mayor Kelly, is what we men at this base have to contend with, while you are worrying about a few trash cans for your alleys. CORPORAL

TRY HIS OWN MEDICINE

Chicago, Sept. 17—Our biggest serious problem in the post-war period is finding jobs for returning veterans and employment for war workers who will be forced to go back to their various pre-war trades. We haven't any time to waste on Lords Keynes and Halifax, trying to solve the economic problems of Britain. After such an economic program as Lord Keynes mapped out for America I would suggest that he and Halifax go home and administer those nostrums to sick and ailing old England. F. R. TWAY

ELLIOTT'S LOANS

Chicago, Sept. 15—Now that the loans made to Elliott Roosevelt are coming to light, one by one, could it be that Mr. Sewell Avery refused to loan him $200,000 of Montgomery Ward's money?

MRS. LILLIAN OSBORN

ANOTHER F. D. R. PROMISE

Chicago, Sept. 14—On the evening of Sept. 23, 1944, before the Teamsters' union at Washington, D. C., our late President said in reference to the statement of Gen. Hershey that it will be cheaper to keep the men in the army.

"For another example, I learned—much to my amazement—that the policy of this administration was to keep men in the army when the war was over, because there might not be jobs for them in civil life. Why, the very day that this fantastic charge was made, a formal plan for the method of speedy discharge from the army had already been announced by the war department—a plan based upon the wishes of the soldiers themselves.

"This callous and brazen falsehood about demobilization was an effort to stimulate fear among American mothers, wives, and sweethearts.

"Many months ago, this administration set up the necessary machinery for an orderly peace time demobilization—and with additional powers to carry out their functions."

On Sept. 1, 1945, says Sen. Johnson of Colorado, "there were still 12 million men in the armed forces."

Where is the plan based upon the wishes of the soldier and where is the machine that was set up long ago? Is the war department impressed with Gen. Hershey's plan to keep our boys in the army rather than allowing them to find a job? AN AMERICAN MOTHER

NAVY CONFUSION

New Orleans, La., Sept. 16—We think the public should know certain high pressure methods employed by the navy. We speak for 1,800 trainees in the radio technician program at Gulfport, Miss. Since Aug. 17 the following directives have been issued to us: [1] Program closed; [2] program reopened; [3] program closed; [4] optional discharges to volunteers now in program; [5] discharges canceled, school to reopen on a war time basis, general services optional.

What we weren't told in directive 4 is that we only had 36 hours to obtain discharges. This 36 hours was liberty time. Only two men, who were put wise by a very high ranking officer at the base, got their discharges. We didn't.

Why should the navy continue the training of men they'll never use. Admittedly the upper 5 per cent of the navy, these men don't want the navy, don't want the program, and would obviously be more useful to the America of tomorrow as students in her universities today. W. E.

ORCHARD SIGN

Goshen, Ind., Sept. 17—1. Is it true that during the days of the pioneers they were allowed by law to partake of the fruit of the first three rows of a farmer's orchard in order to mitigate their hunger? 2. In my travels in some states I have noticed signs at the boundaries of orchards reading: "Please do not go beyond the first three rows." 3. Does a law covering this point exist today and, if so, is it in force thruout the country? G. H.

1. No. 2. Such a sign would not prove that there was a law on the point. 3. No.

DECIDE AGAINST IMPEACHMENT OF TWO JUDGES

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19 (AP)—Congressional investigators decided today there is no basis for seeking impeachment of one Pennsylvania federal jurist and nothing to be gained in impeaching another.

Chairman Kefauver [D., Tenn.] announced after a meeting of a special house judiciary subcommittee that it would not recommend impeachment of Judge Albert I. Watson or former Judge Albert W. Johnson, both of Pennsylvania's middle district.

Kefauver told a reporter that if Johnson were still a judge or collecting a pension the subcommittee would want him impeached. The 72 year old Lewisburg, Pa., jurist, resigned July 3. He surrendered all claim to his $20,000 annual pension 11 days later, and was indicted in Scranton last week in the court where he sat for 20 years.

Watson became presiding judge with Johnson's resignation.

In Watson's case, Kefauver said, the subcommittee found "no actions which would indicate that he is incapable or improper as a judge."

Another Roosevelt Son Ordered to Inactive Duty

San Diego, Cal., Sept. 19 (AP)—John A. Roosevelt, a lieutenant in the United States naval reserve and the youngest son of the late President, has been ordered to inactive duty and is taking terminal leave before returning to civilian life. His older brother, Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., a lieutenant commander in the naval reserve, also is taking terminal leave before returning to civilian life, the navy disclosed.

14,979 ARRIVE FROM EUROPE ON GIANT LINER

New York, Sept. 19 (AP)—The Queen Elizabeth, world's largest ship, tonight slid into her North river pier on her sixth westward crossing since V-E day, bringing to American soil 14,979 service personnel and civilians.

Brilliantly lit from stem to stern, the mammoth British troopship was pinned by swirling tides against the end of her berth for nearly 20 minutes — until tugboats, swarming around her bulk, finally brought her alongside.

Many from 69th

An army band beat out the latest tunes—and radio and stage entertainers improvised on the pier as the task of unloading began.

Most of the passengers were members of the 271st and 272d infantry regiments of the 69th infantry division. Also aboard were other American army units, navy personnel, WACS, and members of the British, French, Dutch, and Canadian fighting forces, and 97 civilians.

The civilians included John M. Erskine, chairman of the Bank of Scotland, war correspondents, OWI, USO, and Red Cross personnel.

The Queen's arrival brought to 23 the day's total of ships coming into three east coast ports and the number of returning troops to over 32,000.

MEDICAL CHIEF FOR VETERANS TO CONFER HERE

Maj. Gen. Paul R. Hawley, acting surgeon general of the veterans administration, will meet today and tomorrow with the board of the American Medical association to discuss plans for improving medical service to veterans. On Saturday he will confer with the A. M. A. post-war planning committee and with the American College of Surgeons.

Altho Gen. Hawley would not reveal the proposals he will submit, it was reported that he and Gen. Omar Bradley, veterans administrator, have several plans with the common feature of emphasizing civilian medical profession.

"We are all anxious to see that veterans get the highest quality of medical service," said Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the Journal of the American Medical association. "Making available the best civilian talent is the biggest step in that direction."

M'KEOUGH IS NOT MY MAN, SAYS MAYOR KELLY

Mayor Kelly yesterday said he did not initiate the appointment of Raymon S. McKeough to the federal maritime commission. A senate committee withheld a recommendation for confirmation after charges were made that McKeough lacks maritime experience, and would be biased in favor of the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

"I didn't put McKeough's name in," said Kelly, who is Democratic national committeeman for Illinois. "The CIO did that—Murray and Hillman [President Philip Murray and Director Sidney Hillman]. He's not my man and shouldn't be charged to me. I accepted him, but I didn't originate him."

McKeough's last job was as regional director of the CIO political action committee. A former congressman, he was defeated when he was the Democratic nominee for United States senator in 1940.

PROPOSE COUNTY BONDS TO SPEED N.W. SUPER-ROAD

Kelly's New Plan Indorsed by Gov. Green

BY GEORGE TAGGE

Speed is possible in building the northwest super-highway to the proposed Douglas airport if the county will issue bonds for its share of the 50 million dollar cost, Mayor Kelly and Gov. Green said yesterday.

Asked about the Douglas site near Park Ridge, Mayor Kelly made his proposal about acquiring a fast route to the airport.

"I've got a revolutionary plan," Kelly said. "I think the northwest super-highway can be built right away if the county will issue bonds and pay interest out of its gasoline tax funds.

Green in on Discussions

"Now is the time to issue bonds, when interest rates are low. There is no use waiting five or six years to do it."

Gov. Green said the plan was discussed last week by officials who had gathered with him to talk about the Congress st. super-highway.

"I see no reason why it couldn't be done with the county's share of state gasoline tax revenue," the governor said. "Similar use of the money has been made by several downstate counties."

County Commissioner William N. Erickson of Evanston said the bond issue, if it can be financed out of gasoline tax and leave money for other road work, should be provided for in a race against time.

Must Act Quickly

"Unless Chicago and the rest of Cook county do something quickly we will lose our chance to get world leadership in aviation," Erickson said. "We have to do something right away in a highly competitive situation. New York is sparing no expense to make its bid for the lion's share of the business."

Commissioner William Busse of Mount Prospect indorsed the bond issue plan as "a good business proposition." However, if both the Congress st. and northwest super-highways are to be built at the same time, the county will need revenue in addition to the gasoline tax, he said.

Immediate Referendum Urged

Commissioner George A. Miller of Oak Park said a referendum must precede the bond issue and that he favors immediate steps to put the plan into action. At 1½ or 2 per cent interest, carrying charges on the suggested 30 million dollar bond issue would be $450,000 or $600,000 a year.

Gov. Green has recommended the Douglas site, which comprises 2,400 acres, compared with 640 acres at the old airport. So have all of the air lines. Mayor Kelly's airport selection committee is not expected to report until about Nov. 15, however.

STATE SUPREME COURT UPHOLDS '45 AIRPORT ACT

BY ROBERT HOWARD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 19—Legal authority for the expansion of downstate aviation facilities was given today when the Illinois Supreme court upheld the constitutionality of the 1945 version of airport authority act, which ultimately can be used by 125 downstate cities.

Justice Clyde Stone

Springfield officials, who lost two test cases under a 1943 law, immediately announced plans to go ahead with construction of a modern airport outside the city limits.

Several other cities of more than 5,000 population were ready to form airport authorities, buy land, float bond issues, levy taxes, and construct landing fields. The law is not applicable to Chicago.

Abandoning previous objections, the Supreme court held that the provisions of the 1945 act were in the interest of public welfare. The opinion by Justice Clyde E. Stone of Peoria said in part:

"The power to operate an airport is vested in the airport authority on the theory that such operation is necessary for public safety in aviation. There is, in principle, no essential difference, so far as the public interest and public safety are concerned, between the operation of a public airport and that of a highway, subway, wharf, public park, and the like. Such airports have been characterized as the 'highways of the air.'

TRIBUNE SURVEY HERALDS RUSH FOR EDUCATION

Colleges, Universities Face Big Problems

(This is the first of a series of articles on post-war higher education summarizing studies made by Dr. Evans for his 1945 revision of The Tribune's booklet, "Higher Education." The booklet will be available at Tribune public service offices in November.)

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS

American colleges and universities are preparing for what will probably be the greatest expansion in their history. By and large, surveys show that they have survived the four war years in good to excellent fiscal condition. Forecasts show that by 1950, one person out of 44 in the country will be a college or university student, or twice the 1940 ratio.

Administrators are pondering with some anxiety the many problems consequent to a growth that will skyrocket the student population from the 1940 all-time high of approximately 2 million to the predicted 4 millions in 1950. The war years halted building programs. Institutions have lost virtually half the time needed to execute the construction plans requisite to meet the demands of just a normal decade.

Veterans Complicate Problems

Now will come the rush, with tens of thousands of war veterans presenting special needs and requirements to complicate the problems. Faculties are depleted and replacements will be hard to find, yet this shortage confronts much greater diversity in the student body. Diversity increases the teaching load. Meanwhile, many professors are still in government or war service, where they may be forced to remain for several years.

In many fields, especially physical and social sciences, there have been so few graduate and research students that the supply of young instructors will be meager—if not wholly inadequate. This will affect the state and municipal college or university more than it will the small liberal arts college or even the privately endowed university. The tax supported institution must accept applicants with proper credits and screen out the poor students after enrollment; the privately operated school can screen out the poor students before they arrive on the campus.

Teaching Needs Analyzed

Moreover, in the liberal arts college [where all departments strive for a level of excellence instead of for the peaks of superiority often found in graduate departments of a great university], the administrators need secure only "all around" men to meet teaching needs; the greater institutions need "specialists" to maintain top rank. The 788 church related colleges of the country are advocating the "all around" type of professor, according to trends.

General forecasts of enrollment now may be made with accuracy on the basis of a percentage of 250 increase for each 20 year period since 1880. The federal office of education's biennial report of 1937 shows an increase of 700 per cent since 1890, and the house of representative report on education [Report No. 214] gives an estimate of 3,400,000 students of the 18-22 year age level for 1950, with war veterans making up the total estimate of 4 millions.

POLICE CAPTAINS LOSE APPEAL IN SUPREME COURT

The Illinois Supreme court in Springfield yesterday refused to order reinstatement of six Chicago police captains and an acting captain while their case is before the first district Appellate court. They are Captains Thomas Harrison, John T. Cartan, Walter F. Healy, Louis Klatzco, Eugene Barry, Thomas Connelly, and Lt. William J. Drury.

Removed on charges they failed to suppress gambling, they won an order for reinstatement from Judge Graber in Superior court. The civil service commission appealed and the police officers asked the Supreme court to compel the city to comply with Graber's order.

Here's a Film You May or May Not Like

"LOVE LETTERS"

Produced by Paramount, directed by William Dieterle, featuring Jennifer Jones, Joseph Cotten, Ann Richards, Cecil Kellaway, Gladys Cooper, Anita Louise, and Robert Sully. Presented at the State-Lake.

By Mae Tinée

This is one of those "depends" pictures—meaning that liking it is a matter of personal taste. Incurable romantics will probably eat it up; others may have a very different reaction.

It opens innocently enough, with Joseph Cotten as a British soldier writing love letters for a rakish army friend. He's quite a boy with words, and I think the average girl would have been a bit suspicious from the start, but the recipient is a foundling, sheltered from the world by a doting guardian, and doesn't suspect that the dashing lad she knew would be quite incapable of writing so much about "beauty," "life," and so on.

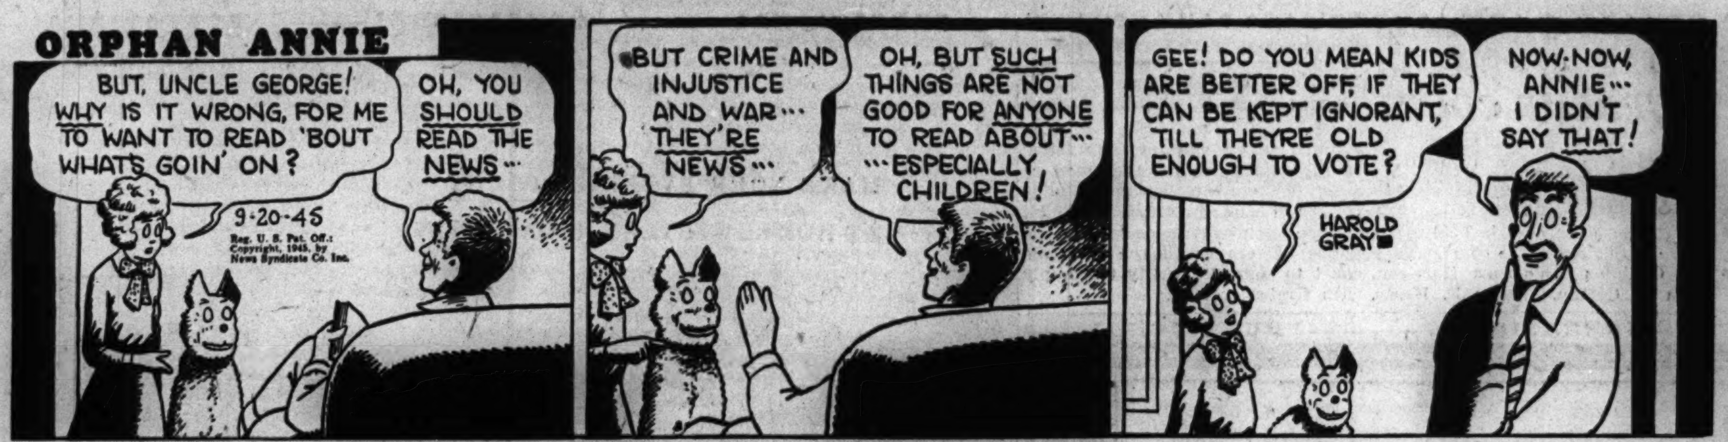
Mr. Cotten is talked into perpetrating this hoax but falls in love with this exchange of soulful messages. He never saw the girl, whom he describes as his "pinup of the spirit" [and he doesn't smile when he says that, either], and is shocked when his friend gets back to England and marries the lady. The letter writer isn't doing so well in his own love life, and, after being injured, decorated, and sent home, breaks up with his fiancee, a worldly miss who wants to parade him as a hero.

Just before leaving to meditate in a country house left to him by an aunt, he goes to a party at which he meets two girls. One, known only as Singleton, is definitely the pixie type; the other [first name Dilly] greets him enthusiastically, leads him to a chair, and gushes, "Do sit down and tell us about yourself—men love to talk about themselves!" In spite of that charming remark, he stays; in fact, he gets drunk.

Dilly behaves in a most mysterious fashion and tells him ominously to remember her, and sure enough, when he starts hunting for his mail order love, he does. Singleton gets to him first and, after a short interval of mind reading, falls in love with him, whereupon Dilly reveals the girl's identity and tells a story of murder, followed by amnesia. If this all sounds a little confusing, don't blame me—it's the plot, but only a small part of it. I couldn't possibly go into the whole thing without crowding every one else right off this page.

There are some dramatic and moving scenes, particularly when things move out of the ethereal world and get down to brass tacks. Miss Jones does some fine acting in the last half of the film, but seems just plain silly, with affectation extending even to the way she walked, in the beginning. Mr. Cotten, as always, gives a solid and talented performance, but even he almost sinks in the morass of melodramatic verbiage and situations. No one in the film talks like a human being—every one philosophizes all over the place, even the old handyman, coyly known as "the gargoyle."

Maybe I just ain't erudite, and don't appreciate that life isn't a burden, etc., but except for rare moments, I found "Love Letters" a distinct bore.



Dainty Frock

A dainty house dress, which can be made with short or the elbow length sleeves, is inexpensive to make. Style No. 2524 is designed for sizes 12 to 44. Size 36 requires 4⅛ yards of 35 inch material and 1¼ yards of trimming.

Faultfinding Negative Way to Guide Child

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

It's just been one of those days! The man came to clean the cellar; he couldn't come the day I had planned the grand clearing-out, rearranging, throwing-away orgy. I had to superintend it in person. Who else could decide that the old black suitcase wasn't even good enough for storing things, the old broken beach umbrella couldn't be mended, and all the baby clothes wouldn't stand another winter in the ancient leather trunk?

Then a series of miscellaneous interruptions: "Here's a field mouse I caught for the rattler"; "Got any old rags, Mom? I'm painting"; "The coal company says do you want to order before the week-end?" "The vegetable man says he hasn't any broccoli today," on and on it went.

It surely was one of those days! And I thought to myself, How can I ever get my work done? I wish I could write in a padded cell with the door locked.

And then, I knew that I didn't wish it. Fine as it might be for my concentration, I know that it wouldn't be so fine for the parents who read this column. I know that advice which gets itself written by hook or crook from the thick of everyday living in an everyday home has a special working value for other parents in other everyday homes.

So, writing in the "smoke of battle," I know how easy it is to feel irritable, impatient, edgy—and then to find fault, sometimes with good reason, but quite as often without.

The longer I live and the more I see of children, the more convinced I am of the futility of faultfinding as a means of getting results. The unpleasantness of it I'm not mentioning now. Just the inefficiency of it.

Having, I regret to say, practiced it myself in mistaken moments and having seen others do so, I'd like to show up the habit to those who have fallen into the way of finding fault with their children under the delusion that it corrects their failings.

Faultfinding really is an unpleasant way of dealing with children. All it does is to point out to a child how awful he is, to make him see himself as in some way objectionable. Faultfinding hasn't a constructive thread in it. It nearly always takes the tones of, "See what you've done; isn't it dreadful," annoying, inconsiderate, or disobedient? It is negative in a pecking sort of way.

The actual bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 heart	Pass	3 hearts	3 spades
4 hearts	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Three of clubs.

The pass, to many players, has come to denote a confession of weakness. That is only one of its meanings. On the other hand, it may indicate a doubt as to the best procedure and a willingness to let partner decide. It may be the act of one who lies in ambush, waiting for the enemy to make a false step. In some cases it may actually be the strongest bid in contract, as for example, when you have bid a small slam and the opponents have sacrificed by bidding seven of a lower ranking suit. A pass by you is the strongest sort of bid and indicates to partner a willingness to have him contract for a grand slam.

In today's hand South missed a very lucrative bus. He played the hand at game in hearts, handled the dummy very well and succeeded in making five odd, which pleased him no end. Speaking in terms of lost opportunities, he had tossed away the tidy sum of 650 points, for an 1,100 point set was there for the asking. Should South have doubled the three spade bid? Of course not. But he had nothing to gain by bidding four hearts. Since responder had made a jump bid both partners were unconditionally obligated to go game [or collect the equivalent in tariff] South's proper procedure was to pass. This would not be a confession of weakness, it would merely state: "Partner, I am giving you the courtesy of the road. Do what you wish. You may want to bid three no trump, you may think it profitable to double the enemy, or if these two ideas do not appeal to you, I know you will automatically bid four hearts. It counts just the same whether you bid it or I do."

If the three spade bid ever got round to North he would not have had a difficult decision on his hands. A penalty of more than the value of game was clearly in sight and the double would have been routine. Silence is often golden.

The bidding has proceeded:

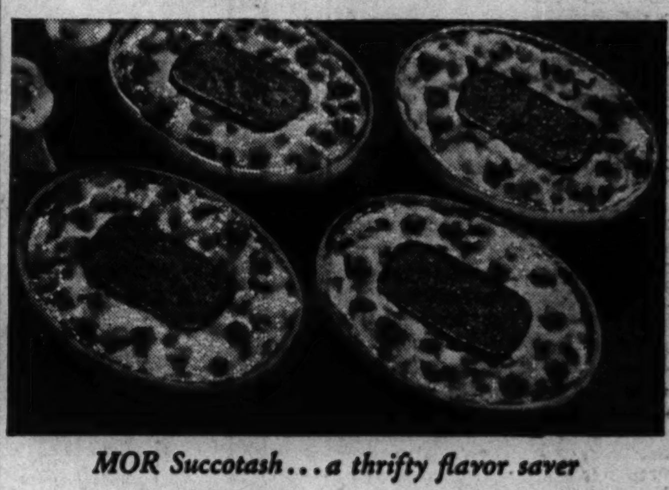
Enjoy Your Victory Garden

To really enjoy your Victory Garden, serve the vegetables in a variety of ways. The main dish shown below makes good use of green lima beans and corn and is flavored with smaller amounts of green pepper and onions, all from your own garden if luck has been with you.



MOR Succotash ... a thrifty flavor saver

Cut 1 can MOR into 8 slices (reserve 4 slices for top, dice remainder)
Make a white sauce of
2 tbsp. CERTIFIED MARGARINE
3 tbsp. flour
2 cups milk
⅛ tsp. pepper
Add 1¼ cups green lima beans, cooked
(add) 1 cup sweet corn (scrape the cob)
¼ cup diced green pepper
2 tbsp. minced onion
diced MOR

Mix well, pour into individual greased casseroles, top each with a slice of MOR and bake in a moderate oven, 375° F., 30 to 35 minutes. Serves 4.

— Clip Recipe Here —

Committee Meeting Special

No reason for missing that important afternoon committee meeting if you plan your dinner around MOR Succotash. You can prepare it in the morning, cover and store in the refrigerator ready to pop into the oven when you return home.

This delicious main dish will require no attention while you pretty up the table, pour the milk and make a refreshing lettuce, tomato and cucumber salad.

You may re-heat rolls in a paper bag ... allow them 10 to 15 minutes in the oven.

Serve fresh fruit for dessert and you have a dinner that is delicious and includes foods from each of the Basic Seven food groups.

Had You Noticed?

In spite of many difficulties, all of Wilson's products today are kept to their high pre-war quality...all must live up to the ideal Thos. E. Wilson wrote over 25 years ago:

OUR IDEAL

"To make well and to trade fairly ... To profit not alone in dollars but in the good will of those with whom we deal ... To correct our errors ... To improve our opportunities and to rear from the daily work a structure which shall be known for all that is best in business." Thos. E. Wilson

Timely Topics

Store left overs in pint jars or custard cups. Heat in a pan of boiling water to serve. Makes dishwashing easier. Several jars of left overs may be reheated in one pan.

When clearing the dinner table, fill a B-V jar with pickle relish or what have you. It's all ready to go in tomorrow's lunch box.

Yours for Time Savers,
George Rector

FOR DISSOLVING AND CLEANING AWAY GREASE, Old Dutch Cleanser is way ahead, These Women Report To You

*These impartial women witnessed scientific cleaning tests on soiled, greasy porcelain and saw Old Dutch outclean every other cleanser popular throughout this country. Left to right:
MRS. H. V. CLARKE, St. Elizabeth's Guild, Western Springs, Ill.
MRS. WM. ADELSPERGER, P. T. A., South Bend, Ind.
MISS LUCILE LANGDON, Junior Woman's Club, Waukesha, Wis.

THEY SAW IT PROVED!

Old Dutch Cleanser took LESS TIME, LESS RUBBING than any other leading cleanser in actual tests*

THE reason for Old Dutch's amazing superiority is Seismotite. Old Dutch not only dissolves grease—Seismotite gives Old Dutch a special cleaning action no other material possesses.

Didn't Scratch At All! In other scientific tests to make results visible to the naked eye, transparent glass surfaces were used; and in one thousand rubbings only Old Dutch in these tests did not dull the surface at all.

Hunting Season Is Beckoning Chicagoans to North Woods

BY JUDITH CASS

WITH the present ration limit of two boxes of shotgun shells per hunter for the season, sportsmen are selecting their fall hunting grounds this year with extra care so that none of the shells will be wasted. Saturday Dr. Lloyd A. Schipfer, Col. W. W. Yaschenko, Eugene G. Fauntleroy, Jack Jeucks, and William Sherman Ruxton will board the northbound Hiawatha en route to two weeks of shooting in what sounds like a huntsman's paradise. Their first destination will be Dauphin, Canada, 450 miles beyond Winnipeg, where they will attempt to bag their quotas of canvas back ducks.

After a week in Canada they will go to Aberdeen, S. D., for the opening Sept. 29 of the pheasant season there. Altho Mr. Ruxton never has shot a gun, he hopes to take a few lessons on the trip from his more experienced companions. Mrs. Schipfer will join the party in South Dakota.

Comdr. Thorne Donnelley and his family have left for a 10 day fishing trip to Minnesota, his first leave since entering the naval reserve. Since the duck and pheasant seasons open in the northern tier of states, including Minnesota, South Dakota, Wisconsin, and North Dakota, well in advance of Illinois, Comdr. Donnelley also hopes to get in some shooting.

The northern duck season will start today, and by the time the birds migrate to Illinois on their flight south the James Simpsons hope to have good hunting on their own property 10 miles west of Waukegan. This week the Simpsons completed an eight acre lake on their estate which they hope will lure the passing echelons of ducks.

The Simpsons, confirmed field trial fans, are luckier than most hunters as their shooting in that connection may be done out of season and still be legal. The springers competing in the country-wide trials, which started last week-end, usually flush banded domestic pheasants, for which there is no closed season. Last week-end Mr. Simpson was a judge at the American Kennel club's licensed retriever trials at Eagle, Wis., sponsored by the Wisconsin Amateur Field Trial club, and week-end after next he and his wife will go to Nebraska for another meet.

Here and There

Chicago friends of Mme. Augusto Rosso who wondered how she and her husband endured the rigors of war time Italy now can hear of their adventures in her own words, for Mme. Rosso arrived in the Evanston home of her parents, the George L. Wilkinsons, 10 days ago and is enjoying her first visit here since early in the war. During the German occupation the Rossos were in hiding in Rome. Their villa in Florence, where Ambassador Rosso, who formerly represented Italy in Russia, now is staying, served as headquarters first for the Germans and later for the allies. Most of the villa's valuables they found remained intact, hidden away by family servants who had stayed on during the war years.

Mme. Rosso spent four days in Paris with her brother, Col. Lawrence Wilkinson, before boarding a plane for this country. Waiting to greet her in Evanston was another brother, Enloe Wilkinson, recently discharged from the army, in which he served as a sergeant. He just has returned from Washington, D. C., which will be Mme. Rosso's destination when she leaves Evanston on the 29th. Living in Washington now are Mme. Rosso's daughter, Mrs. James Hynes; Lt. [j. g.] Hynes, and their baby daughter, Frances; Col. Wilkinson's wife, and another brother, Lt. [j. g.] Lucian Wilkinson, and his wife.

Mme. Rosso's son, George Bunker, who served in Africa and Italy with the American field services and later was rejected by the army, is completing his studies at Yale university.

Mrs. Clarence Englund has arrived in Stockholm, Sweden, to lecture in Sweden, Finland, Norway, and Denmark under the auspices of the Sweden-American foundation. She will speak on current conditions in the United States. Mrs. Englund will return in November by way of Iceland, bringing with her government documents from the Scandinavian countries to go to the Library of International Relations.

News of Births

A little boy who will bear the name of his father and great-grandfather, John J. Borland, arrived yesterday in the Michael Reese hospital, the third child of Lt. and Mrs. John J. Borland II. [Barbara Hutchins]. John Jr. has a little sister, Barbara, and a brother, Bruce, named for his grandfather, Bruce Borland. Mr. and Mrs. James C. Hutchins and Mrs. Bruce Borland are the children's other grandparents. Lt. Borland is stationed at Great Lakes.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawler Joyce [Majella Mannebach] of Evanston, became the parents of a daughter, Mary Virginia, Sept. 4 in St. Francis hospital, Evanston. The baby, their first child, is a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Mannebach of Kenilworth and of Mrs. Martin J. Joyce of Fresno, Cal., who is on her way to Chicago to see her new grandchild.

Popular New Short Coat in Bold Checks

One of the season's smartest short coats in bold black and white checked soft wool, cut and fashioned in distinctive lines of youth and snap. The belt is detachable and the coat is as smart without the belt as it it belted. Coat and hat available in a Chicago shop. [TRIBUNE Studio Photo]

BY REA SEEGER

Jaunty short coats, belted or unbelted, continue to be headliners of fall and winter collections. They're short enough to be breezy and young, yet assure needed warmth, except in the coldest winter weather. They're designed with the right lines to be smart with suits, dresses, or with either straight line skirts or those having more fullness. These are ideal all-purpose coats for any wardrobe, but particularly best for the career girl's. Many are collarless and cuffless and some luxurious creations boast wide fur trim around the lower edge. The effect of this fur band is very dramatic when the fullness of the same coat is held in place with a tight belt, as the belt causes the lower half to swirl both the fabric and fur.

Short coats of brilliant color are not only eye-catching but sure indication that dull or drab shades are out. Such unusual colors as lime, pale gold, scarlet, and tangerine, together with suave neutrals, honey beige and silver gray, play a most important part in the fall fashion parade. Then, if trimmed or accented with honey beige colored furs, cross fox, or red fox, they mark the return of color as a relief from too much black, brown, or navy.

One of the surprise fashions is the collection of coats in bold, big checks. Since checks in former seasons have heralded a fresh spring season, fall checks are somewhat of a sartorial surprise to shoppers. These fall and winter checks are decidedly large and sharp, and tho the best combinations are black and white, the coats are warm looking and smart enough to wear as a contrast topper for winter suits and clothes. They are tailored precisely in some models and fashioned like a dress coat in others, so the choice is ample.

White Collar GIRL

Double Indemnity

Joyce hastens to report on the ingenuity of Nancy, the office girl who solved the stocking problem when we had a sudden cold snap. She paints two coats of makeup on her shivery legs.

Girls the World Over Note

WCGs are no different in Milwaukee than in Chicago. During my stay there I rode the same bus each morning. A certain beauteous WCG fed the bus driver vitamin pills every morning! [Said driver was handsome but a little on the anemic side.] NOSEY PARKER II.

On Being Friendly

They say that what every one likes about a small town is that "everybody knows everybody." But an office building, or a street of employment in a large city, can be transformed into something similar to a small town—by just being friendly.

For instance, stopping for occasional chats. If you were to talk to the elevator operators in our building you would find each one an interesting person. The daughter of one of these operators [Charley Palmer] was secretary to Clare Luce. And he, at one time, was a circus performer. Another operator [Kibby] loves to talk about his dogs and his talented little granddaughter.

Joe, the newspaper man at Adams and La Salle sts., is proud of his family . . . his son wrote an outstanding article on "Private Enterprise" . . . and having a son in service is another reason for Joe's glow of pride.

Being friendly means being interested and concerned about people! If it seems natural to smile at the people in the building across the street, do so! It is a pleasant gesture. Maybe your cross-the-street neighbors, like ours, will invite you over on Christmas and other holidays! CIL.

Short Short Story (Chapter 2)

As she goes strolling by;
I married her some years ago. . . .
Now need I tell you why?

Chilly Career

"If you are a young woman and wish to make a place for yourself in the chilly world of refrigeration, there are unlimited opportunities. You might combine training in writing advertising with a course in home economics. The refrigeration industry will hire women to write food copy for magazines and papers. Some women will be hired to travel about the country demonstrating the use of refrigerators and freezers. They will conduct classes and clubs in cooking and food preserving. Other women may lecture to audiences wishing to learn the advantages of air-conditioning baby's nursery or the kitchen. You will need ability to write well, speak well, and use your personality. . . . You may need a technical course on the uses of the equipment you are demonstrating." — From "Twenty Careers of Tomorrow."

Shubert Opens Amid Plenty of Funny Business

"LAFFING ROOM ONLY"

Musical revue with book by Olsen and Johnson and Eugene Conrad; music and lyrics by Burton Lane. Staged by John Murray Anderson; dances by Robert Alton; costumes by Billy Livingston; production designed by Stewart Chaney; comedy directed by Edward Cline. Presented by the Messrs. Schubert at the opening of the new Schubert theater, Wednesday evening, Sept. 18, 1945, with a large company headed by:

Ole Olsen and Chic Johnson
Frank Libuse — Willie West and McGinty
Betty Garrett — Mata and Hari

BY ALBERT GOLDBERG

Everybody who is anybody, his uncles and his aunts, piled into the handsome new Shubert theater last night for the official christening by way of "Laffing Room Only," which under any other name would still spell Olsen and Johnson. The somebodys—like Gov. Green and Mayor Kelly—were escorted to their seats by the newspaper photographers and columnists; the lesser bodies, as is the custom at these shindigs, fell into the foul clutches of Frank Libuse, who may be a comedian but certainly is no usher.

Take Olsen and Johnson or leave them, it was fun to be there to help put the old Majestic—which you would scarcely recognize in its new frock of rose and old gold—back in theatrical circulation. It is a show house in the grand manner of an earlier and more commodious era, and while maybe it deserved a more dignified re-baptism than it got last night, there was no lack of joy apparent among the celebrants.

For a little time it looked as if we might have to report that an Olsen and Johnson show had gone refined on us. That was during the first episode of the Russian Art Players and the Boston tea party ballet sequence. But it wasn't long before we were dispossessed of that idea. "Laffing Room Only" is in the strict genealogical line—out of "Helzapoppin" by "Sons o' Fun."

Some of the weariest of the old devices have disappeared, but not so many you can't recognize the species. The abandoned female no longer calls for Oscar; instead a taxi driver seeks the customer who left a rabbit in his cab, and each time there's one more. Stooges are planted all over the place, as you would expect, the most insistent being a censor; and as time went on there were moments when in the interests of good taste you wished he could exercise a legal influence.

There are enough gadgets to start a Smithsonian Jr. institution. We didn't keep a catalog, but there is the atomic blast that blows Olsen and Johnson thru a brick wall; the locomotive spitting steam and clanging bells that rushes pell-mell upon a cowering audience; the cable that hoists the terrible coloratura into the flies along with her high note; the telephone that disgorges peanuts instead of nickels; the Drinkaphone which dispenses liquid refreshments out of the mouthpiece; carpenter's tools with malevolent inclinations. It's like a trip thru the patent office.

But you can't say it isn't fun, and now and then there's a good new joke to laugh at, like the Bourbon who says, "We, we the people," meaning little boy talk, and Ole Olsen—or was it Chic Johnson?—playing the fiddle and denying that he is Highfits, only Low Convulsions. There is also some good dancing by a plenteous company, some pretty good ballet parody by Mata and Hari, some fresh and colorful costumes, some languid singing by Betty Garrett, and a lot, lot more that can't be described in this paper—for space and other reasons.

Give Birthday Gift to Your Steady Beau

BY SHEILA DALY

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune]

ON the SOLID side

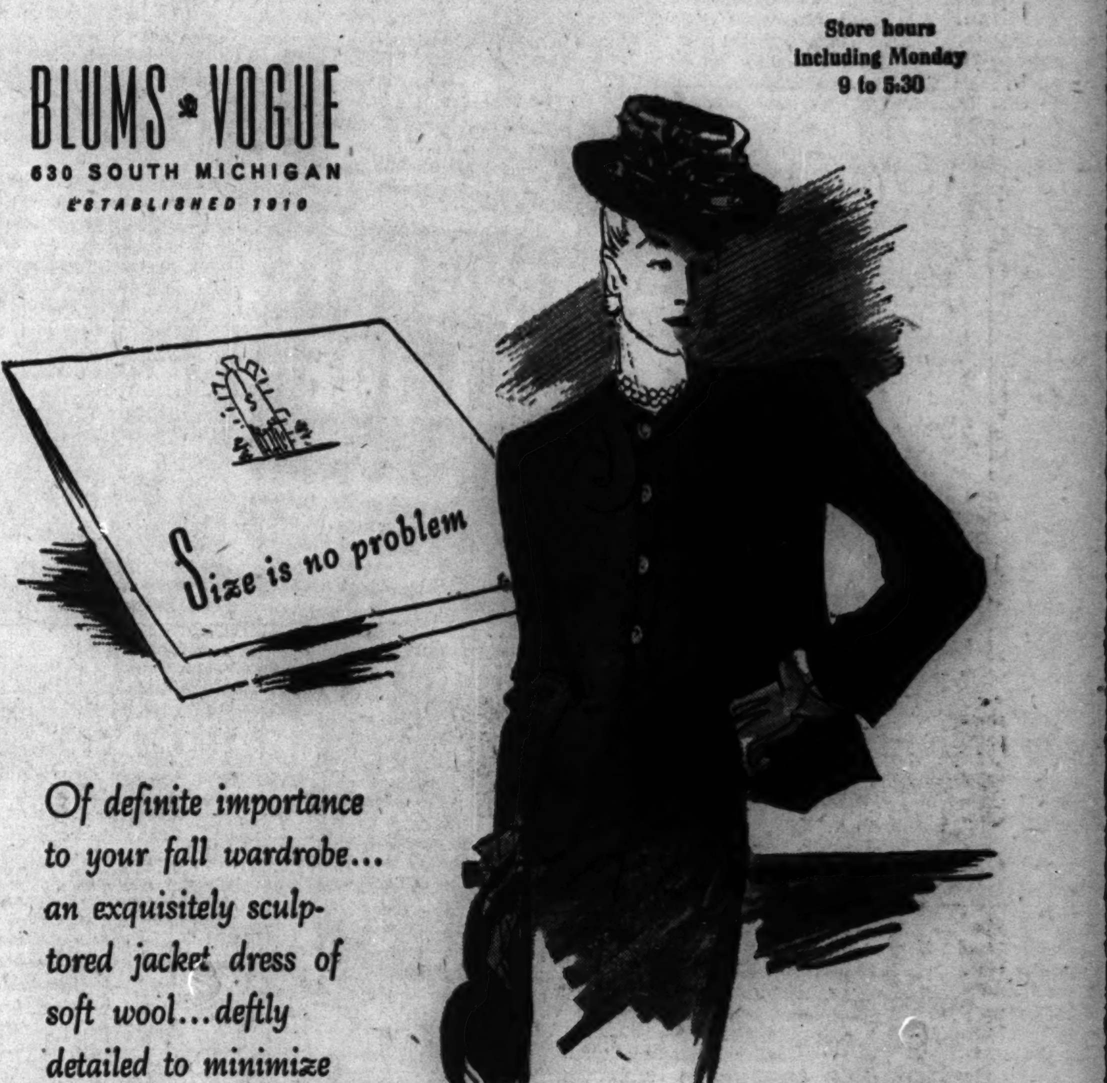
I've been going steady with a fellow my own age for about three months. His birthday is coming up soon and I'd love to give him a present, but am not sure whether it would be considered all right to do. If it is, what can I get him?"

When a gal has been going steady with a fellow it's customary, tho not necessary, to remember his birthday with more than a card or a mumbled "Happy birthday." So take stock of his personality and your bale of folding lettuce, and make the decision accordingly. If he's the rugged, Walter Pidgeon type, he might like a pipe, which you could have initialed to make more special. If he's expecting to go into the army or navy, a wallet with his name stamped inside or an identification bracelet with his name engraved, but leaving space for his serial number to be added, will get rousing cheers.

If you don't want to go into such an expensive gift bracket, get him a book you know he'll like [perhaps he's particularly interested in a technical book, if jet propulsion or the plastic industry is his first love], or you might furnish him with some masculine cologne or lotion. Of course, it really doesn't make too much difference what you get him—he'll be flattered enough to know that you even remembered. But if he knows that you took time out to consider his personality and then picked a gift to match it, he'll be even more thrilled.

"A few weeks ago a 16 year-old fellow whom I've been dating asked me to wear his identification bracelet but made no mention of going steady. I don't believe in going steady when we're so young, but have begun to wonder if we're automatically one of those gruesome twosomes since I accepted the bracelet."

Going steady has always been a mutual agreement between a fellow and girl in which each agrees not to go out with anyone else, and often the agreement is sealed by an exchange of class rings, pins, or a fellow's identification bracelet. But unless the fellow mentions that this is to be a permanent, moonlight-and-roses arrangement, you aren't going steady even if he gives you his ring, his bracelet, and his last red ration points!



Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Sept. 19—Metro has canceled "The Belle of New York," in which Fred Astaire and George Murphy were to co-star. I believe Fred is doing his last dancing in "Blue Skies." If he takes my advice he'll wait until a good acting part comes along. As I've said before, there isn't anything Clifton Webb can do that Fred Astaire can't. Only our big boys haven't found it out yet. . . . Paramount bought "Golden Earrings," by Yolanda Foldes, which Helen Deutsch is putting into screen form. It's a romantic adventure with a European background. . . . Lucille Bremer goes into "Till the Clouds Roll By," for which Judy Garland and Bob Walker are already set. . . . Poni Adams, a Conover model, plays a hunchback girl in "House of Dracula." No, I wouldn't call that type casting. . . . Marshall Thompson gets the part slated for Peter Lawford in "Angel from Heaven," which Andrew Marton directs for Metro.

Bob Gets the Last Laugh

So you want to be a movie star? Well, here's what happened to Bob Paige when Universal gave him a six week vacation. He and his wife decided to motor to British Columbia. They started blithely off up the coast, not knowing the studio had changed its mind. Universal sent out an S. O. S. but missed them all the way. Officials had orders to stop Bob at the Canadian border, but he traveled under his real name, John A. Page, and got thru. Finally they caught him at Vancouver, told him to return immediately. He was ill and had to stay in Seattle one day, then motored 1,280 miles nonstop to Los Angeles. He was rushed over to the studio for a fitting. It was Yom Kippur and the tailor didn't work that day. Then he learned the picture wouldn't begin for ten days. And whatta you think the picture is? "Tangiers"—and he'll play opposite Maria Montez. I think when this is finished he and his wife deserve a New York vacation with all expenses paid—don't you?

More Changes in Schedules

Irene Dunne does "Anna and the King of Siam" instead of "Lady in Ermine." I'm told "Anna" will now be a comedy. . . . Fritz Lang's last German picture, "The Last Will of Dr. Mabuse," wasn't popular with the nazis six years ago. He barely got out of Germany with his skin and the film. Now the Museum of Modern Arts has added the picture to its collection. . . . Rosalind Ivan does another one of her famous characterizations in "The Verdict." . . . Orson Welles is lucky in having the clever Morrison [first name Denny] thinking up ideas and putting them to words for him. . . . Comedian Jack Douglas has an idea which will get him nowhere. He's thinking of organizing a "Stay-in-Your-Own-Lane-While-Motoring club." . . . Looks as tho Sonja Henie, who's skated all over town—you know, at 20th Century and International—might do her next skating at Metro. Her husband, Dan Topping, will be here in two weeks.

Getting Into the Swim

Jimmy McHugh, who has sponsored so many swimming meets, decided now is the time to own a pool of his own. Bing Crosby made a record of a song Jimmy wrote 18 years ago—"Can't believe That You're in Love with Me." That long ago Jimmy couldn't believe what a success he'd be in 1945. . . . Since "Duffy's Tavern" has clicked, Ed Gardner is being asked by Paramount for another. He owns the title. . . . Hope you didn't miss Arthur Blake on the Hoagy Carmichael radio show. His imitations were sharp and to the point.

corps. The wedding probably was held in the chapel of the hospital near Paris where both are stationed, but Dr. and Mrs. Talbot know no details. They expect their son and his bride to return from Europe next month.

On the Calendar

Mrs. Ronald J. Chinnock, whose interest in Fellowship House dates back to her days in the Faulkner school, is chairman of a three day 50th anniversary celebration of the founding of the settlement, Chicago's fifth oldest, to be held today thru Saturday. Mrs. Chinnock's husband, Capt. Chinnock, stationed in Washington, D. C., with the naval reserve, is president of Fellowship House. During her early school years Mrs. Chinnock and other pupils of the Faulkner school provided a Christmas tree, clothing, and gifts for the settlement, a tradition the school has continued since its founding in 1909.

The house is newly decorated to celebrate its first half century of service to Chicago. The celebration will open with a party today to be given by the settlement's board of managers for the Fellowship House Woman's club. Miss Herma Clark, Chicago Tribune columnist, and Miss Eleanor Perkins, whose grandmother was an early head resident of the settlement, will give a short program reminiscent of the settlement's early days. An exhibit of the work done by the settlement's various clubs will be on view tomorrow, and a street dance, with 33d pl. closed off, under colored lights and amid carnival booths, will climax the celebration on Saturday night.

Announcement is made of the marriage last Saturday of Margaret Stainsby Morrison, daughter of Mrs. George W. Stainsby of Glens Falls, N. Y., to Lt. Nelson Raymond Clark Jr. of the army air forces, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clark of La Grange. The wedding took place in the Clark home, with the Rev. Thomas L. Crosby of the La Grange Congregational church officiating. Lt. Clark has returned from 18 months in England and is on 30 day leave. He will report to Camp Drew, Tampa, Fla.

The meeting, at 1:30 p. m. in the school, will open with songs by the children and presentation of war garden awards to youngsters who occupy cottages on the Parental campus. Joseph J. Bannick, guidance counselor for the Parental school, will speak.

THE QUESTION

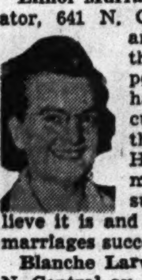
Do you think it is more difficult to make a success of marriage now than it used to be?

WHERE ASKED

Century building, 202 S. State st.

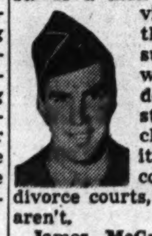
THE ANSWERS

Dorothy Millen, housewife, 4855 Adams st.—Making a success of marriage takes effort regardless of when the marriage took place. If neither party cooperates it's bound to be a failure. Just because two persons are living together and are not divorced I don't believe that necessarily means that their marriage is a success.



Elinor Murray, comptometer operator, 641 N. Central av.—It's not any more difficult now than ever. Too many persons thru the ages have married for security or merely for the sake of marrying. How could an arrangement of that kind be successful? I don't believe it is and I don't believe most marriages succeed.

Blanche Larvin, hair dresser, 158 N. Central av.—I think the present age, with education and modern conveniences, comfortable homes, and more leisure, should have more happily married couples. Years ago there were many more hardships. Marital happiness shouldn't be difficult in these times.



Sgt. Alfred Urasky, 538 W. 37th st.—If a man loves his wife and vice versa I would say their marriage is a success. Material wealth has nothing to do with this understanding nor does the change of times affect it. While thousands of couples are running to divorce courts, there are more who aren't.

James McGuire, express driver, 1516 Wieland st.—Marriage certainly is more difficult today. Divorce used to be considered more disgraceful and people didn't think of such a solution. Women stayed in the home instead of falling in love with their seemingly important bosses. They have too many outside interests now.

SYNOPSIS: Erica Pomeroy, whose parents had died and left her a fortune, returns from Boston, bringing a fiance. It was expected Erica would marry Huntley Price, whom she had known all her life. Huntley appeals to Mr. Izenga to help him win back Erica. Mr. Izenga had been in love with Erica's mother and had shared with her grandmother the upbringing of the girl. He dislikes Toby Newcomb's mocking air. Erica confides they would have been married in Boston but she couldn't hurt him and her grandmother. Ridge Dawson, Mrs. Pomeroy's brother, drops in at Mr. Izenga's for cocktails before his sister's birthday dinner. Ridge is charming, unreliable, has had several wives and is always in debt. He is about to ask Letty for a loan and wants Mr. Izenga to put in a good word for him. Ridge and Letty had shared equally in their father's fortune. Arriving at Pomeroys, they find Hester Pomeroy Duke and her husband, Harry, Erica, Toby,—and Huntley. Bennet Pomeroy, her son, arrives after dinner with Lucianna Duprez whom he refuses to marry. Lucianna is bleeding Mrs. Pomeroy, as she has just cause for a breach of promise suit. Mrs. Pomeroy's threat to cut Erica off without a cent if she marries against her wishes falls on deaf ears, but Letty agrees to take care of Ridge. Late that night she is strangled, and insists Toby tried to kill her. She felt the ring on his finger. Bennet is found in a drunken sleep. Toby moves to the inn. Ridge telephones, the news of the strangling is all over town. A second attempt to strangle Mrs. Pomeroy is successful. Police are notified, and the doctor is called for Bennet.

INSTALMENT X.

DRUGGED

A man in uniform came out of the door and Mr. Izenga steered Erica toward it. In the hall, Toby Newcomb stepped forward and drew Erica aside with a possessive, almost defiant air.

Newcomb himself, was as coldly self-assured as ever. Huntley, on the contrary, was dazed by the blow. Huntley had lost his best friend, his champion, in Mrs. Pomeroy, and lost Erica too, irrevocably, now.

Across the hall, Mr. Izenga saw Ridge Dawson looking his full age. All his dapper gaiety was gone. He was haggard and frightened.

He pushed his way thru the crowd of police and reporters to Mr. Izenga's side. His voice was hoarse.

"I'd give my right arm for a drink. D'y' think Huntley'd have anything to save an old man's life? Have you seen her? She looks ghastly. They made me look at her. To identify her, they said. Now I've got to remember her like that. Blast 'n' blazes, somebody's going to sweat for this."

"What do you know about Bennet?" Mr. Izenga whispered.

"Looks drunk to me. Letty's doctor is here. That stuffed stethoscope Harmon. Thinks Bennet is drugged. The whole thing's a foul mess. How she'd have hated it."

Mr. Izenga hated it for her, Poor, dear Letitia, so immaculate, so shielded. This was out of character for her. She should have died gracefully.

And with a stab of horror, Mr. Izenga remembered the condition of that sanctuary, smelling of paint, shrouded in canvas, and the workmen told to make the job last as long as possible.

Another car roared up the drive to the door. Hester Duke flung herself out, followed by her husband.

Erica hurried to meet her at the door but Mrs. Duke shoved her aside. Her voice was pure hysteria.

"I'm thru with you, Erica. I wonder how you dare face the rest of the family after bringing home that stranger to murder your own grandmother."

"Aunt Hester!"

"Get away, I tell you," Mrs. Duke was in a frenzy. "I am going to tell the police the truth." She whirled and directed her fire toward Newcomb, "and as for you . . . how can you have the gall to come into this house again after being ordered out."

"I invited him in," Erica blazed.

"And you can just send him packing, too."

"You seem to forget, Aunt Hester, this isn't your house."

"You don't think it's yours, now, do you?"

Mrs. Duke, swelling with rage was going on to develop her retort, but Mr. Izenga moved to her side. He laid a hand on her arm. When she flung it off, he gripped her with his steely claw He looked into her eyes. It was a strange sight to see her deflate.

"I'd go easy, Hester," he said.

She cringed away and pulled her arm from his grasp. As Mr. Izenga looked up, he saw a man coming slowly down the stairs, watching him.

He was a young man with smooth, light brown hair and dark blue eyes. There was authority and discipline in every inch of him.

This, Mr. Izenga divined, must be the celebrated Lt. French of the state police. He had heard a good deal about French whose father owned great tracts of forest in the upper peninsula. French was one of those career cops.

The lieutenant paused on the next to the bottom step and said: "The sheriff and your village chief have asked me to take charge of this investigation. Who is the head of the house here . . . while Mrs. Pomeroy's son is . . . incapacitated?"

That's a good question all right, thought Mr. Izenga.

Ridge Dawson cleared his throat, stepped forward. "I am Mrs. Pomeroy's brother, Ridge Dawson, lieutenant. I'm pretty well knocked out by this blow, but if I can help . . ."

"O, don't stick your neck out, Uncle Ridge," Hester Duke cried shrilly. "Erica doesn't need you. She will settle everything. She thinks it's all hers now. So lucky mother's new will wasn't signed yet."

Erica turned rather white but she said quietly, "I'm sure we all want to help all we can, lieutenant. But we're so dazed by this, why don't you let our dear friend, Mr. Cornelius Izenga, represent us. He's really almost one of the family."

The lieutenant inspected the small, dignified man beside her. There was a sort of sinister competence about him which commanded respect. Izenga! Cornelius Izenga! French wondered where he had heard that name before. In a moment it came to him. This was the noted curator of Lawnsdale's private life. What luck!

"Mr. Cornelius Izenga?" French put out a cordial hand. "Mrs. Lawson Leeds' friend? I've wanted to meet you for years."

"I've heard of you, too, lieutenant."

"I think we could work together, well, Mr. Izenga."

Mr. Izenga gave an affable but noncommittal smile.

"First," French said, "I want everyone to come upstairs and look at the body before it is removed."

Ridge Dawson groaned. "Must I go thru that again, lieutenant? I've had all the look I need."

"O, I guess we won't need you this time," French agreed. "But please don't leave the house. I want to talk to everyone later."

"I think it's your duty to come upstairs again. Uncle Ridge," Hester said spitefully. "We all have to take it."

"Sorry to disappoint you, my dear Hester, but I know nothing whatever about this nasty business. I was not even called into the family conclave the first night when she was hit on the head."

"She wasn't hit. Some one tried to strangle her. You saw mother at the Jones' dinner. Didn't she tell you about it?"

Ridge's lip curled. "You knew your mother. One waited for her to introduce the topics to be discussed. We had a pleasant little chat, suitable for the occasion. If she had wished to discuss her experience she'd have mentioned it. And after all, is it any of your little business?"

In the upper hall troopers were bustling in and out of bedrooms.

A small, dignified man who did not need the black bag he carried to proclaim he was a doctor, spoke to French.

"We're thru what we can do here. We'll take the body with us as soon as you've finished, Bill."

"Okay, I shan't be long. How about Pomeroy?" He jerked his head toward Bennet's bedroom.

"He'll come out of it all right, I've left a man with him to report any change."

Nora W., Peoria, Ill.—When I receive choice chrysanthemums I drop a scant half cup of sugar into each quart of water which holds them. It is a big help in keeping them fresh—if you can spare the sugar!

Mrs. Harold S., Chicago—If you are using a paint remover don't begrudge the time it may take for it to do its work. Wait until the paint really begins to curl before you start using your putty knife for removal.

Thru the Looking Glass

The working woman without an abundance of either time or money is the one for whom the Y. W. C. A.'s classes in health education are something of a Godsend.

The classes offer deliverance from a wide assortment of purely personal problems. We are a discontented lot, we working women, and with good reason. Our lives are much too one-sided, as a rule. We wish we could be smarter, perhaps, or more fit physically, or more graceful, or more rounded in our abilities as individuals. But we don't DO anything about it, on the grounds that we haven't the time or the money.

And that's utter nonsense. The Y centers are accessible, their classes are timed for our special after-a-day's-work requirements, and the fees are low.

This fall, we are sure, hundreds of business girls will investigate what the Y offers in the way of physical fitness education. Wouldn't you like, for instance, to do some work on posture and relaxation? Or take some tailor-made gym classes—corrective instruction for definite postural or physiological disorders? Or study weight normalizing for yourself, and accomplish it, with the aid of exercise and nutrition counseling, whether you're too fat or too thin? You can solve the personal problem that is your great handicap, physically and psychologically, more easily than you might believe.

These are only a few of the courses offered. There is another we heartily recommend to the discontented and the unpoised. This is designed simply to help you be more personable—a study of appearance, manners, coiffure, make-up, posture, personality, and voice. There are also classes in effective speaking and diction and voice. Who among us wouldn't be better for working along these lines?

The Y's program is well worth looking into.

Is Janie Getting A Better Break Than Your Child?

Right from the start, Janie's mother has made sure that her daughter gets plenty of sunshine, and a diet adequate in bone-building minerals. Janie's legs will be as strong, straight, and her teeth as sound, as sufficient calcium can make them.

Will your child have these assets? While even sufficient calcium cannot correct bowed legs after a child is three, an adequate supply is important right through life to keep bones sturdy and help the child look his best. That's one of the main reasons why doctors advise that children get plenty of milk...the best food source of calcium.

However, as children get older, they are often reluctant to drink all the milk they should have.

That's where Cocomalt can prove invaluable. For Cocomalt gives milk a delicious chocolaty flavor that children love. And Cocomalt* is so rich in calcium, it makes 3 glasses of milk equal to a whole quart in calcium value. (Also supplies the day's entire minimum requirements for iron, phosphorus, Vitamins B_1 and D.)

Start your children on Cocomalt today. Save this as a reminder to order from your grocer.

CUBS WIN IN 10TH, 4 TO 1; LEAD BY 3 GAMES

9 ALLEYS OPEN CITY ALL-STAR TRIALS NOV. 3

2 Day Meet Leads to Big Show

BY CHARLES BARTLETT

The fifth annual All-Star individual match game bowling tournament, No. 1 competition of the tenpin sport sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., and the Bowling Proprietors' Association of America, swings into the first phase of its local program this morning, with the announcement of the sites and dates of the Chicago preliminary trials.

The big show proper will be conducted, as it has been for the last three years, over the 12 handsomely kept lanes of the Auditorium Service Men's center, Congress st. and Wabash av., from Dec. 1 thru 9. This world series of pin tumbling again will enlist the game's most gifted artists, including Champion Buddy Bomar, Joe Wilman, Ned Day, Joe Sinke, and Paul Krumske.

Alleys, Proprietors Listed

The nine establishments selected for Chicago qualifying sessions, together with the names of their operators, follow:

BOWLING LANES—5221 Broadway, Ralph Olsen and Jack Samuelson.
CASCADES BOWLING CENTER—3825 W. Madison st., Lloyd Wevang.
GARDEN RECREATION—4047 Milwaukee av., Lyman Bolger and Michael Hechinger.
GATEWAY RECREATION—6432 W. North av., Joe Gratz.
HOWARD BOWL—1777 W. Howard, Marks and Rosenfield.
PARK MANOR BOWLING CENTER—100 E. 75th st., Dominic De Vito.
PILSEN RECREATION—1509 W. 18th st., Jack Whitehead Jr. and Arnold Podzimek.
PLA-MOR BOWLING LANES—1935 E. 79th st., Eddie Costello, Jerry Skovie, and Art Swanson.
ROSE BOWL—11517 S. Michigan av., Paul Young.

The above operators are prepared from today on to welcome any ambitious sharpshooter who aims to join the big party in the Auditorium center on Dec. 1. Five of the centers are veteran trial sites, and the addition of the newcomers—Gateway, Howard Bowl, Pilsen, and Pla-Mor—makes for a more thoro geographical coverage of the entire city.

The entry fee for the qualifying tests at each of the nine centers is $2 with bowling extra. An entrant who is not satisfied with his first three game effort may bowl as many similar series as he wishes by paying the $2, with bowling extra, for each.

At the conclusion of the trials, the eight highest scorers, based on their best three-game totals in any single performance, will assemble for a round robin match game final at each of the nine aforementioned establishments. The deadline for three-game series bowling will be 11:55 p. m. Wednesday, Oct. 31. No bowler may try to gain the top eight at any house after that time. The round robin battles will be decided at each of the nine centers on Nov. 3 and 4, with each qualifier meeting his rivals in seven four-game duels, all based on the Petersen point system.

Scoreboards on Display

All of the nine qualifying centers will maintain permanent scoreboards from today until the Oct. 31 deadline. These boards will carry the names of the top eight bowlers who have compiled the highest three game totals to date. If a bowler wishes to roll more than one series, he may enter again for the aforesaid fee, but must bowl his three games on alleys other than those on which he made his first attempt.

Each of the nine proprietors has agreed to use league pins for the trials and to set aside eight alleys for the total pin rolling, the same octet to be used for the round robins. If a bowler tries alleys 1 and 2, he must bowl following series on the other six lanes before returning to 1 and 2.

The 28 game round robin pattern will be divided into two blocks on Saturday afternoon, Nov. 3, two more on the night of the 3d, two on the afternoon of Sunday, Nov. 4, and the seventh and final block on Sunday night, Nov. 4. The two leaders in each of these round robins will gain places in the All-Star party opening Dec. 1.

Seed 24 Low Scorers

The 24 low scorers in the 1944 All-Star tournament proper have been seeded into the main event without the necessity of local qualifications, in addition to Bomar, Wilman, Day, Sinke and Krumske, who have been seeded into the finals of the 1945 tourney. The remaining 91 bowlers must earn their berths thru sectional trials.

If a Chicago bowler was among the first 24 last winter, the only way he can gain entrance is thru the medium of the trials in the nine local establishments announced today.

Each of the nine operators will charge admissions for the round robins. These will be added to the entry fees to make up the prize fund at each establishment, of which 25 per cent will be awarded to the winner. Only deductions will be for the proprietors' franchise fees and the entry fees of the two representatives of each plant. The breakdown of the remainder of the prize fund calls for a percentage distribution of 20, 15, 12, 10, 8, 5 and 5 for the other seven places.

EAGLES TROUNCE BEARS, 38 TO 21, IN EXHIBITION

Bethlehem, Pa., Sept. 19 [Special]—The Philadelphia Eagles, for the first time in history, tonight defeated the Chicago Bears, 38 to 21, in a National Football league exhibition game played as a benefit for the Bethlehem Tobacco club.

A crowd of 19,726 saw the Eagles come from behind to win after the Bears had taken a 7 to 0 lead on the fourth play of the second quarter. The score was tied three times at 7, 14, and 21, before the Philadelphians clicked with a 63 yard pass from Al Sherman to Steve Van Buren to assume final command.

Kavanaugh Scores 3 Times

Van Buren scored three touchdowns, the first on a 43 yard dash around left end, the second on 17 yard burst thru guard, and the third with Sherman's pass. Sherman, 150 pound substitute, accounted for one of his team's other two touchdowns with a five yard sneak thru the middle and Sonny Karnofsky made the other with a 17 yard run around left end.

Ken Kavanaugh, playing his first game since being discharged from service, scored all three Chicago touchdowns on passes from Sid Luckman. One pass was for five yards, the second on a 43-yard pass run and the third on a 12-yard pitch into the end zone.

Zimmerman, who place-kicked all the extra points for the Eagles, made a 30-yard field goal in the final quarter.

Luckman completed 12 out of 18 passing attempts and had only one intercepted but the Eagles outgained the Bears on the ground, 281 yards to 81. Lineup:

PACKERS WIN, 38-12

Hershey, Pa., Sept. 19 (AP)—The Green Bay Packers unleashed a passing attack tonight that netted them five touchdowns and a 38 to 12 victory over the Pittsburgh Steelers before a crowd of 14,521.

With Roy McKay and Irv Comp taking turns in doing the passing, and with Clyde Goodnight on the receiving end for most of the plays, the Packers were always masters of the situation.

Twice the Steelers broke the monotony of the Packer attack by going into the air themselves, once for a 45 yard touchdown run and later in the second period for an 80 yard advance, the most spectacular play of the game.

McSpaden's 64 Ties Spokane Course Record

Spokane, Wash., Sept. 19 (AP)—Harold [Jug] McSpaden, Sanford, Me., shooting a practice 64, today tied the course record at Indian Canyon Golf club where the nation's top professionals will open the $10,000 Esmeralda open tournament tomorrow.

Caravan Will Face Bowen's Team Tonight

The Mount Carmel Caravan, disappointing in the Catholic league football race last season after an impressive start, meets Bowen of the City league tonight in Shrewbridge field in a practice game at 8 o'clock.

Caravan Coach Earl Walsh, in his second season at the south side school after serving as head coach at Fordham university, has hopes of winning the section title—a feat the Mount Carmel eleven last accomplished in 1943. The first obstacle will be Fenwick, 1944 north section champion, which this season will campaign in the south section. The Caravan meets the Friars in Hanson park on Sunday, Sept. 30, as each school opens its league schedule.

Friars Will Be Tough

The Friars, paced by Veterans Roger Brown and Dick Martin, two of the best rated backs in the parochial league, will be tough opposition for Mount Carmel, and Walsh plans to use tonight's game for experimenting with the Caravan offense and defense.

Mount Carmel was impressive in its first practice game, scoring a 53 to 0 victory over St. Patrick's. Last week it lost to a strong St. Philip eleven, 14 to 13, after leading, 13 to 0.

"The St. Patrick game was too easy," Walsh said, "and we didn't learn anything from it. Against the Gaels, it was different. Our line looked weak and we didn't have good head work. Those things will have to be corrected."

The Mount Carmel line is inexperienced with John Bergamini, 160 pound center, the only regular returning from last year. John Fidel, 170 pound guard, played last season but was not a regular. The line will average about 180 pounds, Walsh said, and he believes it will shape up altho replacements are lacking.

Backs Not Big

The Mount Carmel backs are not big, with Full Back Dell Gander, 175 pound sophomore, the heaviest. Capt. Bill Trendell, a 155 quarter back, is the only regular returning. At left half back, Ted Mullen, a 160 pound passer who won a letter in 1944, has won the assignment. Walsh still is undecided whether to use George Tasker, 155 pounds, or Pat Rocco, also 155 pounds, in the right half spot.

Bowen will go into the game with a single practice contest, a scoreless tie against Gage Park, behind it, and will be handicapped by injuries to Co-Capt. Bob Sadzak, 160 pound left half, and Right End Frank Chorak, 175 pounds. Both are seniors and returning lettermen. Coach Mike Dluhy said he expects to start them at their regular positions but added that Clifford D'Arcy, 150, might replace Sadzak.

Bowen Corrects Timing

Bowen's game with Gage Park was played in the rain. Since that contest, the eleven has been working toward correcting mistakes in timing.

MARQUETTE'S YOUTH WORRIES COACH STIDHAM

BY WILFRID SMITH
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 19—Football prospects at Marquette university fit snugly into the over-all picture in the midwest. The Hilltoppers have 14 letter men, seven of whom are expected to start the game against Purdue Saturday in Lafayette. Replacements are inexperienced.

This contradicts the impression gained in recent weeks, and in particular at Purdue where Cecil Isbell and the Boilermakers are looking to a hard assignment despite victories the last two seasons over Marquette. Since Purdue also has several established veterans, who will be supported by inexperienced youngsters, the comparison is excellent save that Marquette won only one game last season and lost to Purdue, 40 to 7.

Purdue's De Moss Worries Stidham

"Tell Cecil Isbell for me," Tom Stidham, Marquette head coach, said this afternoon, "that he can save Ed Cody for some one else."

Cody is Purdue's rugged full back, who compiled a splendid record last season until injured.

"We know all we want to know about Cody," Stidham continued. "I'd like to know more about Bob De Moss, Purdue's freshman quarter back."

"About our team?" Stidham repeated the question. "The line is our problem, especially the tackles. Marquette has an experienced back field and we will shape up well at several spots in front, but many of these boys are youngsters and they will make mistakes."

"Marquette should be able to score better than last year. The kids have a lot of peppe.. The squad's enthusiasm and desire to play are excellent. We're going to Purdue to give everything we've got."

Chicago Boy May Start

Incidentally, the Hilltoppers will not make the trip to Lafayette under the same handicaps as last year when they arrived 50 minutes before the kick-off. The team will leave here Friday morning and will drill that afternoon at Purdue.

Quarter Back Bob Lodde is the only one of Marquette's lettermen previously assigned to the varsity eleven who may not start at Purdue. Lodde underwent a minor operation

Cleveland, O., Sept. 19—The Tigers, pace setters in the American league race, were slowed down today by the mound wizardry of Bob Feller, alumnus of the U. S. S. Alabama, in the opener of a two game series here. With all his pre-war flourish, the Indians' star reeled off a one hitter to win, 2 to 0, and drag the Tigers down to within one game of the second place Washington Senators who were enjoying a day of rest before defying the Yankees tomorrow in the latter's stronghold.

Bob Feller, left, who yielded one hit and Jeff Heath, whose two run homer in the third inning helped to beat the Tigers, 2 to 0, in Cleveland yesterday, cross fingers in dressing room after game to represent the "X" they dealt American league leaders.

With his pitching staff fairly threadbare as the result of the Washington series, especially yesterday's final when six different fellows struggled more or less hopelessly on the mound, Steve O'Neill, the boss of the first placers, summoned the spectacled Les Mueller and followed with two others, the sum of the Indians' hitting being a skimpy total of three. But one was a Jeff Heath homer with a mate aboard.

Greenberg Fails to Help

The O'Neill desperation wasn't limited to his pitching department. In hopes that it would pep up the boys or even produce a bit of extra base hitting, the manager returned Hank Greenberg to left field for the first time since he suffered an ankle injury at Boston a week ago. Thanks to the way in which Feller conducted the party for his fourth victory since he was placed on the inactive list by the navy, Greenberg was of no help.

Mueller, who yielded all of Cleveland's three hits, nobody getting to base off George Caster or Tommy Bridges, got by easily despite a single and double in the first two innings and as proof that he had something, he fanned Feller, Dutch Meyer, and Les Fleming in the third. But between the Meyer and Fleming whiffs the decisive maneuvers took place. Mickey Rocco drew a pass and Heath arched his drive over the wall in right center.

Tigers Suspect the Worst

Feller's first inning was enough to make the Tigers suspect that the Indians' jinx over them was still in force. He set down three in a row but there were at least moments in the second inning when they saw a possibility of getting a jump on the curve ball expert. This was where he walked Greenberg, and also Roy Cullenbine, before anybody was retired, bringing up the more or less dangerous Rudy York. Rudy proved so impotent that he grounded into an easy double play by way of short and Jimmy Outlaw, the man who later collected the long hit, flied to Pat Seerey.

What's wrong with this tun—this coat, I mean,
It feels sort o' loose, and I'm no string bean,
These trousers feel floppy, are they all right?
I guess I've been used to 'em rather tight;
This tie, on the level, is it too loud?
Will they razz it, you think, when I'm out with the crowd?
Well, maybe you're right and I am wrong,
But you see I've been wearing plain brown for so long.

You really mean it, you like this hat?
Do you think it will ever get by?
You see I'm so used to that little 'skiff'
Cocked just over one eye;
This new pair o' shoes feel like dancing pumps,
I can't hear myself make a sound,
Those GI brogans sure weighed a ton
And kept you right close to the ground.

Okay, if you say so, I'm ready,
Come on, then, baby, let's go,
But I never dreamed that "civvies"
Would feel this funny, you know?

BY EDWARD BURNS
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 19—The Cubs tonight were within one putout of a 1 to 0 defeat at the hands of the Cardinals—and a probable skid that would have landed them in second place before their momentum could be halted.

Then those dashing defending champions broke under the strain—the Cubs tied the score on Andy Pafko's third hit for a 1 to 1 tie in the ninth. The real blow up was reserved for the 10th in which the Cubs made three runs before the second putout, on only one hit, a pinch single by Bill Nicholson. Final score: Cubs, 4; St. Louis, 1.

The grand result gave the Cubs a three game lead over the Cards with only nine to go—three with the Cardinals who tonight showed they have fluttering Adam's apples, an affliction which has been a long time showing up in their 1945 competition with the Cubs. The victory tonight was the leaders' fifth in 19 tries against the champs.

Borowy's Ninth Victory

Hank Borowy was the winning pitcher—the only Cub who has beaten the Cards since June 24. Hank won tonight under circumstances strikingly similar to his triumph here on Sept. 2. In that game it was the Cards who tied the score at 1 to 1 in the ninth, and in that game, too, the Cubs made three runs in the tenth to win 4 to 1.

In achieving his ninth victory as a Cub against two defeats Borowy did not suffer a runner to get on base in the first four innings. A single by Ray Sanders caused no distress in the fifth, but in the sixth a double play wiped out the Cards after they had loaded the bases with one out.

The Cards scored in the eighth. Borowy committed the sin of walking Pitcher George Dockins with one out. Red Schoendienst and Johnny Hopp followed with singles

If—

The Cubs now lead the Cardinals by three games, with nine games left for each team to play. If the Cubs take five of their remaining contests, the Cardinals would have to win eight to tie and sweep all nine to win the National league pennant.

The pennant rivals have three more games with each other. If the Cubs take only one of these and split their remaining eight contests the Cardinals would have to win all of their games to tie. The standings then would be:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Chicago	96	58	.623
St. Louis	96	58	.623

Their remaining games:
Cubs—Agains St. Louis, 3; Pittsburgh, 4; Cincinnati, 2.
Cards—Against Chicago, 3; Pittsburgh, 1; Cincinnati, 5.

The Detroit Tigers, leading the Washington Senators in the American league race by one game, have seven more games to play, three with Cleveland and four with St. Louis, while Washington has only five, two with New York and three with Philadelphia. If Detroit wins four of its remaining games, Washington would have to sweep its five to win. If the Tigers win five of their remaining contests, Washington would have to win all its remaining games to tie. Six Detroit victories would eliminate the Senators.

HAWTHORNE'S MUTUELS PASS MILLION A DAY

Record Breaking Pace Shows No Slowup

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN

Hawthorne is making plenty of hay, and it matters not one bit whether the sun turns out or not.

The first 10 days of the 32 day meeting at the Stickney plant, during which there have been as many dismal afternoons as pleasant ones, show a record pari-mutuel handle in excess of a million dollars a day—$10,659,625, to be exact.

During the last three seasons betting and attendance records have fallen at each of the five Chicago tracks, tho the Arlington Park meetings have been held at Washington Park and the Lincoln Fields sessions at Hawthorne. The increases have been consistent at each, including the half mile Sportsman's Park establishment.

When the coördinated Arlington-Washington Park meeting closed on Sept. 6 and Hawthorne opened the following day, many of the name horses were shipped to the east and the west to continue the brilliant programs provided at Washington Park. Nevertheless, Hawthorne held on to many of the better thorobreds and its barns are filled to the point where each day's card has carried large fields.

Yesterday's betting totaled $1,156,334 and a crowd of 14,206 watched a program featured by the $3,500 Forest Park handicap, which went to Ruth Sidell's Burgoo Maid, ridden by J. W. Martin. The Utopia stable's Valdina Lamar was second and Bryan Wise's Bushwhacker was third in a 10 horse field. The winner paid $4.40.

The daily double was worth $86.80 on victories by Miss Tullahoma in the first race and Hearth Broom in the second. Miss Tullahoma, with N. L. Pierson up, paid $12.40. Bobby Campbell brought in Hearth Broom at $11.20.

Charles T. Fischer's Sensational Spy Song, an early nominee for the $10,000 Hawthorne Juvenile handicap Saturday, was declared out yesterday.

NAVY PRE-FLIGHT STARS ENROLL AT MARYLAND

College Park, Md., Sept. 19 (AP)—Football fortunes at the University of Maryland skyrocketed today after a score of players of the disbanded North Carolina Pre-Flight school moved onto the campus, following their old coach, Paul Bryant.

Maryland athletic officials declined to discuss this sudden upturn of luck in the absence of Bryant, a navy lieutenant commander, who received his discharge today at Camp Shelton. He was to have coached the pre-flight school at Chapel Hill this fall.

RAIN POSTPONES SOFTBALL

Rain last night postponed play in the series to determine the finalists in the Shaughnessy play-offs for the National Girls' Softball league.

MORRIS NAMED WILDCAT LEADER AGAINST IOWANS

Max Morris, veteran end from West Frankfort, Ill., yesterday was appointed acting captain of Northwestern university's football team for Saturday's opening game with Iowa State in Dyche stadium. Morris, voted the most valuable player on the team last fall, is one of five returning letter men.

The Wildcats' small turnout of veterans was further reduced yesterday when it was learned that Steve Bennett, first string tackle and a regular on the 1944 team, will be lost for the season due to an aggravation of a head injury suffered last year. Bennett will be replaced by Chuck Hagmann, 180 pound freshman from Erie, Pa.

Defensive tactics were stressed in yesterday's practice as Coach Lynn Waldorf sought to prepare the team for Iowa State's two highly touted backs, Dick Howard and Gene Phelps, key men on last year's eleven which placed second in the Big Six conference.

READY HOOSIER LINEUP

Bloomington, Ind., Sept. 19 [Special]—Indiana's starting lineup for Saturday's opening game against Michigan began to take shape today as Coach Bo McMillin sent his Hoosiers thru a stiff drill on offensive maneuvers to be used against the Wolverines.

Sure to start at the Indiana ends are Letterman Bob Ravensberg and Ted Kluszewski, while Russ Deal junior, and John Goldsberry, freshman, are the best bets to get the starting tackle spots. Junior Joe Sowinski and Frank Ciolli have the inside track on the guard positions, Bo said, while the starting center is still in doubt. In the back field, only Dick Deranek, sophomore, at right half, and George Taliaferro, frosh, at either left half or full back, are definite starters.

ILLINI TO START SPRAGUE

Champaign, Sept. 19 [Special]—Stanley Sprague of Belleville, a V-12 student, was installed at right end today in the Illinois starting lineup for the game with Pittsburgh here Saturday.

Sprague and the veteran Ray Ciszek of Hobart, Ind., previously had alternated at this post. Sprague is the only man in the starting lineup who has not won a letter. He was a member of the squad last year, playing center and full back, but injuries prevented his appearing often enough to win an award.

IOWA STRESSES DEFENSE

Iowa City, Sept. 19 [Special]—Intensive work on defense, especially against forward passes, is planned for the University of Iowa football squad by Coach Clem Crowe after hearing reports on the air attack being set up by Bergstrom field for the football opener here Sept. 29. He also said that the line must develop faster if it is to cope with the troop carrier forwards, who average 205 pounds per man. Meanwhile, the Hawkeyes Wednesday worked on their own passing game with Jerry Niles, Jim Harding, Wendell Weller and Gus Di Marco doing the throwing.

HACKETT TO MISS OPENER

Columbus, O., Sept. 19 [Special]—Captain and Right Guard Bill Hackett will not play in the season's opener Sept. 29 with Missouri and possibly will miss the Iowa game, it was announced today by Ohio state athletic officials.

Following consultation with Dr. Harry E. Secrest, brain specialist, Hackett and Dr. Secrest decided to delay actual participation in contact work for another two weeks when another spinal test will be made, the result of which will determine his participation.

According to Dr. Secrest, Hackett is suffering from an inner cerebral pressure, the result of an automobile accident. He has been working out with the squad in all but scrimmages until Monday.

BADGERS LOSE END

Madison, Sept. 19 [Special]—Left End Ray Mals may be lost to the Wisconsin football team when the Badgers open the season at Great Lakes Saturday. Mals, who last fall played with the North Carolina Pre-Flight eleven, has a minor leg injury.

Bob Hanley, the promising Ohio youngster, has been filling in for Mals. Walter West and Bill Destiche, a pair of second string half backs, also will be out of the game with the sailors due to injuries.

NUSSBAUMER HELPS OUT

Ann Arbor, Sept. 19 [Special]—Additional back field experience in Bob Nussbaumer of Oak Park, wing back, may soon add up to additional experience in the line for Michigan's football team. Nussbaumer, who reported for Wolverine workouts yesterday following his discharge from the marines, is expected to be groomed for the starting right half back position.

PURDUE USES FROSH

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 19 [Special]—Purdue's starting back field against Marquette on Saturday will be divided between freshmen and lettermen, it was indicated here this afternoon as Coach Cecil Isbell sent the Boilermakers thru their last hard drill in preparation for the season's opener.

Isbell indicated that only light drills will be on tap tomorrow and Friday, altho he plans some intensive skull sessions on defensive tactics.

IRISH SEEK FULL BACKS

Notre Dame, Ind., Sept. 19 [Special]—Coach Hugh Devore today continued his search for capable full back prospects among Irish squad members to fill the spot vacated by the transfer this week of No. 1 Full Back Marty Wendell to Great Lakes by the navy.

Frank Ruggerio currently is holding down the position on the first string eleven.

CHICAGO CARDS WAIT RETURN OF PAUL CHRISTMAN

But Pass Star Will Not Face Lions Sunday

BY EDWARD PRELL

Paul Christman, the football pitching man from Missouri, may join the Chicago Cardinals before the week is over, it was learned yesterday. This won't help the Cardinals for their National Football league opener Sunday against the Detroit Lions in West Allis, Wis., but in all likelihood Paul will be ready for his professional debut a week from Sunday in Cleveland against the Rams.

Christman reported to the Cardinals in 1942, threw a few passes, then told the boys good-by when the navy called. He is on the west coast and his honorable discharge is said to be imminent.

He May Be Key

They called him Pitchin' Paul down in the Big Six country where the St. Louis youngster flourished in the 1939-'40-'41 seasons. Christman has played a little football here and there since entering service. He will play at quarter back in the Card's T formation system, where his passing skill will be utilized. If Paul shows his college form with the Cardinals, the league's doormat team may start the long, laborious post-war climb it has been talking about.

Meanwhile the Cards labored under a boiling sun yesterday morning in the 83d st. and Yates av. stadium, with Coach Phil Handler welcoming a few newcomers. One of them was Ernie Bonelli, a staff sergeant who served two years overseas with the 3d air force and who was a member of the 1945 College All-Star team. Ernie was given his discharge from the army Tuesday night in Florida, arrived in Chicago by plane at 8 o'clock yesterday morning, and three hours later was getting his forehead stitched.

The backs were maneuvering on plays and Bonelli went the wrong way. Going full speed he collided head on with Chester Maeda, who was knocked unconscious. Maeda was taken to the Jackson Park hospital for observation. Bonelli returned to the field muttering about the perils of peace time life. Maeda is a half back from Colorado State, who recently was bought from the Detroit Lions.

Get Another Newcomer

Another newcomer is Lt. Les Bruckner, who was honorably discharged from the navy at Great Lakes Tuesday—50 months to the day he entered service. Les had a year on an assault transport in the Pacific. He played at Michigan State in 1938-'39-'40 and is a full back, with place kicking skill. Last season he played for the Fort Pierce [Fla.] amphibious base eleven. He's 6 feet 1 inch tall, weighs 210 pounds.

The Cards also welcomed Bill Ford, 28 year old 220 pound center claimed from the Lions on waivers. Ford is from Hardin-Simmons university and has had no previous pro experience. Marshall Foch Robnett is the Cards' first string center at the moment. Failure of Jack Tavener, former Indiana center, to report, halted the Cardinals more than a little.

Marquette's Team Young but Scrappy

a few days ago but may be able to play. He is understudied by William Hickey of St. Ignatius High school, Chicago, who is regarded as a fine prospect. Hickey is 18, weighs 180 pounds, and is 6 feet 1 inch tall.

The freshmen starting in Marquette's line are Bob Wessenberg, right end, Neenah, Wis.; Eddie Castans right tackle, Fenwick High school; Jerome Worcester, left guard, navy man with an overseas record, and Jerome Kwilosz, right guard, 17 year old graduate from De La Salle High school in Chicago.

While this is the youngest squad in Marquette football history, the pendulum is swinging definitely toward normal times. Fritz, 24, the varsity center, played in 1941 and 1942. He is a veteran army air corps bomber pilot who served in England. The other air corps pilot is Orlando Palesse, 22, who served in Italy. Until last week he held the regular left end assignment. He was threatened with appendicitis and forced to stop practice temporarily. Palsse may play part of the time at Purdue.

Two Are Only 16

Twenty-nine members of the squad were graduated from high school last spring. Two are 16 years old, including Alidore Jancauskas, a guard from Cicero.

Marquette, without experienced line strength, probably will use the T formation more than in any season during Stidham's tenure. The Hilltoppers also are expected to use a wide open style where their experienced backs can take care of themselves if they reach open field.

Saturday's result will be closely watched by Wisconsin, Marquette's opponent in Madison, Wis., Sept. 29. Villanova, which will be met Oct. 7 in Buffalo, N. Y.; Michigan State, Oct. 27, and University of Kentucky, Nov. 17, are the other games away from home. Teams playing in Milwaukee are Kansas State, Great Lakes, Detroit, and University of Kansas. The first two are at night.

THEY'LL BEARD THE LIONS SUNDAY

The Forest Park recreation bowling team last night won three games from the Labich Furriers in the Congress Ladies' Classic league bowling on the Congress recreation alleys. Cubs Defeat Cards, 4-1, in Tenth Inning which put Dockins home with the first run of the game.

Then came the ninth. Don Johnson's hot roller got away from Whitey Kurowski for the first error of the game. Harry Lowrey laid down a perfect sacrifice to put Eddie Sauer, running for Johnson, on second. Phil Cavarretta fouled Dockins' first pitch to Del Rice for the second out and another apparent sorrowful and demoralizing Cub defeat.

Up came Pafko. To this point the Cubs had been held to four hits. Wisconsin Andy made two of them after having been robbed by Hopp his first time up. Andy lined a single to right center. Sauer sped home and the Cubs were back in the ball game.

Borowy took care of the Cards in order in the home ninth.

Next—the explosion. Mickey Livingston walked. Bill Schuster bunted and when Dockins fumbled, Livingston reached second and Schuster first. After Johnny Ostrowski went to second to run for Livingston, Borowy sacrificed and when Dockins threw late to third in a panicky effort to force Ostrowski, the bases were loaded with nobody out.

Bill Nicholson Delivers

Manager Billy Southworth called in Ken Burkhardt to replace Dockins, and Manager Charley Grimm sent up Bill Nicholson, whom he had benched along with Stan Hack in a program in which all Cubs facing Dockins were right handed hitters, excepting Cavarretta.

Nicholson slashed a single to right, scoring Ostrowski and Schuster, Borowy stopping at second. Hack, who had gone into the lineup in the home ninth, flied to Hopp, Borowy taking third. Burkhardt threw to the boxes trying to catch Borowy off third, Borowy scoring, and Nicholson racing from first to third.

Art Lopatka replaced Burkhardt and Cavarretta, who struck out three times in a row last night, remained hitless in the series by again fanning. Pafko was given an intentional pass. Then Heinz Becker, batting for Frank Secory, lined to Emil Verban.

Len Merullo retired Debs Garms, Schoendienst fanned, and Hopp flied to Lowrey to end the game.

Prim vs. Brecheen Tonight

The teams will play the final of the series here tomorrow night with Ray Prim pitching for the Cubs and Harry Brecheen for the Cards. Both are left handers.

If the Cubs win tomorrow night they will leave for home with a four game lead and eight games to go—one Saturday and two Sunday with the Pirates in Wrigley field, Tuesday and Wednesday with the Cards in Wrigley field, Thursday and Friday with the Reds in Cincinnati, and Sunday the season wind up with a single game against the Pirates in Pittsburgh.

WENDELL TURNS UP FOR PRACTICE AT GREAT LAKES

Lt. [j. g.] Paul Brown, football coach at the Great Lakes Naval Training center, received some encouragement yesterday as he tried to step up practice for the Bluejackets' game with Wisconsin Saturday when Full Back Marty Wendell of Notre Dame, who won his monogram with the Irish last year, reported for practice.

Altho Coach Brown was not too optimistic over the value that Wendell might be in Saturday's game because he will have only two days of drill with the team, the former Notre Dame star will see extensive service because of the Bluejackets' lack of replacements.

DYKES SELECTS LEE AND GROVE TO FACE INDIANS

Nothing but leisure is on the training program of the White Sox as they wait for the opening of their two game series with the Indians in Cleveland Saturday.

DODGERS WHIP GIANTS, 5-4, ON 2 RUN SEVENTH

Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 19 (AP)—The Dodgers strengthened their hold on third place today by coming from behind in the seventh inning to beat their arch rivals, the Giants, 5 to 4.

Going into the seventh the Giants held a one run lead, but Goody Rosen squared matters by plastering a homer over the right field wall. Augie Galan and Ed Stevens followed with singles, bringing Jack Brewer to the rescue of Ace Adams. Galan was nipped at third as a double steal failed, but Frenchy Bordagaray singled Stevens home with the winning run.

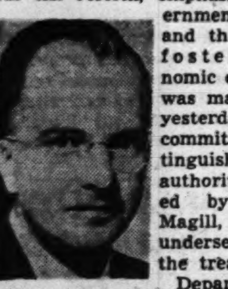
NEW PROGRAM OF TAX REFORM IS SUGGESTED

Estate, Gift Levies Would Go to States

BY THOMAS FURLONG

A comprehensive program of federal tax reform, emphasizing government economy and the need of fostering economic enterprise, was made public yesterday by a committee of distinguished fiscal authorities, headed by Roswell Magill, former undersecretary of the treasury.



Roswell Magill

Departing from the recommendations made by other groups in recent months the Magill committee urged that the federal government abandon taxation of estates and gifts, returning these levies, as well as gasoline taxes, to the exclusive use of the states. This recommendation goes counter to the trend of federal tax policy of the last decade.

Predicts Big Reduction

By returning estate and gift taxes to the state, a major reduction in the current rates would result, Magill predicted. In suggesting the change the committee made clear that it had in mind the destructive effects which the present levies have on independently owned business enterprises.

The rate schedule should be such, the committee said, "as to permit the ordinary estate to meet its tax obligation without serious effects upon the continuity of going business concerns or the continuation of ownership and control in the hands of those designated by the former owner. This consideration applies principally, of course, to the small and moderate sized concerns which are family owned and otherwise closely held businesses."

In its other recommendations the Magill report differed mainly from other programs of tax reform in its emphasis on the necessity for severe economy in government as a means of bringing the federal budget into balance.

Policies Held Unsupportable

"In our opinion, it is not an overstatement to say that irresponsible fiscal policies after the war, with the federal budget at four or five times the level of the '30s, would prove not merely costly, but unsupportable," the committee said.

The committee emphasized that individual tax rates will depend on the size of the federal budget and that real tax relief can come only from reduction in federal expenditures.

The committee did not attempt to fix a level for post-war government expenditures, but its calculations were based on a maximum national income of 125 billion dollars. Others who have made tax recommendations have started with the assumption that the national income would of necessity be higher if the government is to suport its present debt.

Rejects Indefinite Spending

Accepting the fact that the government's post-war expenditures will exceed those of the pre-war period the committee said the only relatively inflexible item in the budget will be interest on the debt. The committee rejected emphatically the idea that the government can afford to continue its deficit financing habit for an indefinite period.

"Deficit spending," it said, "is not only a habit forming fiscal narcotic, but so long as human nature remains what it is, and so long as such spending can be used to provide patronage and obtain votes, it must be regarded as a dangerous threat to the corruption of the electorate and to the democratic system of government."

The committee made several specific recommendations for tax changes, among them the repeal now of the excess profits tax on corporations. Another was the immediate elimination of the present 3 per cent normal tax on individual incomes which would free from taxes an estimated 9 million individuals in the low income bracket. Also urged was the adoption of a single tax rate to apply to both individuals and corporations and the elimination of the present system of surtaxes.

Provide Individual Cut

Under the latter recommendations individuals would get a cut eventually in initial income tax rates to between 15 and 20 per cent as compared with the present initial rate of 23 per cent which includes the 3 per cent normal tax. Corporations would be cut from the present 40 per cent rate [normal and surtax] to about the same figure as the initial individual rate.

Individual rates would progress

Bond Cashing Shifts Widely Since Jap Fall

Need Bond Stub Space

Requiring space for the storage of bond stubs, the bureau of public debt of the United States treasury yesterday leased the four story former Bastian Blessing building, 240 E. Ontario st., containing more than 100,000 square feet of floor space. The lease is for one year with option to renew for five years.

Redemption of war bonds in Chicago and Cook county has shifted widely since Japan's surrender Aug. 14, banking and other financial sources disclosed yesterday. A substantial increase in redemptions in the first 10 days after the surrender was followed by a decline in the last week of August. Heavier bond cashing followed in the first five days of September.

Bank spokesmen attributed the first wave of redemptions to persons who bought bonds under pressure for purely patriotic reasons in the belief that the military forces were running short of munitions. With the end of the war these persons could see no reason for holding their bonds, it was said.

Return to Normal

After these were cashed, largely between Aug. 15 and Aug. 25, redemptions beg n to approach the normal rate of 15 to 17 per cent of sales. This was true of the last week in August, bankers said.

The early September redemptions were described as "sky-high" and were said to be caused by various factors of undetermined weight. Some interests said the first of the month cashing is usually heavy, and at this time more so because many persons were returning home from vacations short of cash. Many persons also were said to need money for clothes for school children and for other school expenses.

Accelerated redemptions will be accompanied by reduced purchases as large war plants close down and other war workers are laid off, observers said. Bond purchases thru pay roll savings plans accounted for an estimated 1 billion 250 million dollars of series E bonds in Chicago and Cook county, it was estimated.

Pay Roll Plans Dwindle

These purchases are expected to show a large drop in the Chicago area. Since September, 1941, 6,000 pay roll savings plans have been installed in local business and industrial enterprises employing 100 or more employes. However, the number has dwindled to 1,700.

Continuation of these plans was urged as the war finance committee of Chicago and Cook county prepared for the Victory loan drive beginning late in October.

Altho the Victory loan will be the last great public drive, the savings bond program will continue.

PROFIT CASHING HALTS RISE IN GRAIN MARKETS

September wheat and rye advanced more than 2 cents a bushel in the early trading yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade and with the December deliveries set seasonal peaks.

Profit taking attracted by the advance of 5¾ cents in wheat and 8½ in rye from the low of last week caused a reaction and the close was irregular. Wheat finished 1⅛ higher to ⅛ lower, rye 1 higher to ⅝ lower, corn ⅛ to ½ higher, oats unchanged to ½ higher, and barley unchanged to ⅝ higher.

Short covering and consideration of inflationary wage increases in industry gave the market much of its early strength. Commission houses, mills, and cash grain interests bought wheat futures on reports of sales of flour to the government.

OPA'S RETAIL PRICE RULE HELD BLOW TO SMALL MERCHANTS

Price Administrator Bowles' ruling that retail merchants must absorb price increases the OPA grants manufacturers strikes at thousands of small merchants, Roscoe R. Rau, executive vice president of the National Retail Furniture association, said yesterday.

The OPA bases its decision on alleged "enormous war time profits in the retail industry even tho one-third of retail stores operated at a loss," Rau said. Specific provisions were made to permit higher prices for manufacturers that could not operate under ceilings adjusted for industry-wide cost increases. No such provision was made for the small retailer, he asserted.

"The program of the OPA for relieving hardship cases is vague and the machinery to handle such cases is so cumbersome retail failures could be numbered in the multiplied thousands before adequate relief measures could be set in motion," Rau said.

AMER. AIRLINES, MID-CONTINENT PLAN TO MERGE

Proposal Is Subject to CAB Approval

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19—Completion of plans for the consolidation of the Mid-Continent Airlines and American Airlines, Inc., into a single carrier system was announced jointly today by the heads of the two companies. The merger is contingent on approval by the civil aeronautics board.

Mid-Continent presently operates routes in the Mississippi valley, serving Rochester, Minneapolis and St. Paul, Minn.; Sioux City and Des Moines, Ia.; St. Louis and Kansas City, Mo.; Omaha Neb.; Tulsa, Okla., and Shreveport and New Orleans, La.

Would Add 2,510 Route Miles

American operates a transcontinental route from Boston, Mass., New York, and Washington, D. C., to Los Angeles, Cal., thru the southern part of the country, an extensive system of routes thruout the east and middle west, and routes to Canada and to Mexico.

The proposal would add 2,510 route miles to the American system, which is already the leader in the domestic field with 8,125 miles. In international aviation American will continue to rank third by virtue of its recently having taken over the 12,669 miles of foreign travel routes of American Export Airlines. Pan American Airways is first internationally with 115,000 miles and Transcontinental and Western Air is second with 16,324 miles of foreign routes, plus 7,589 domestic miles.

Predicts Better Service

C. R. Smith, board chairman of American, said the proposed consolidation would join systems which logically fit together, permitting integration of equipment, economy of operation, and better service.

The plans include provision for American to absorb all Mid-Continent personnel and guarantee existing pay and seniority rights.

Stockholders of Mid-Continent would receive one share of American for four Mid-Continent shares. Joseph A. Zock, chairman of Mid-Continent, representing interests controling more than 50 per cent of the Mid-Continent stock, said the plan will be accepted by those he represents and their stock exchanged.

PRICES OF LIVE STOCK ADVANCE IN LIVELY TRADE

The liveliest competition in many months marked the trade for live stock yesterday as buyers in all divisions bid for volume. Many classes of cattle, and nearly all hogs, sold at price ceilings. Lambs, on which there is no ceiling, soared 25 to 50 cents a hundred pounds.

Pressure against ceiling prices for both cattle and hogs was the strongest since limits were established on cattle last January and on hogs in October, 1943. About 40 carloads of steers averaging 1,113 to 1,401 pounds reached the $18 ceiling, the largest number on record to sell at the top in one session.

The top in the lamb market rose 50 cents to $14.25, highest in a month and 90 cents above the low of $13.35 two weeks ago.

Nearly all barrows and gilts sold at the $14.75 hog ceiling, and most buyers showed no regard for quality, weights, or sorting in their eagerness for tonnage. All packing sows and stags were bought at $14, the ceiling for these.

C. & O. Net Income Dips in August, Eight Months

August net income of the Chesapeake and Ohio railway was $2,239,197, compared with $2,382,689 a year ago, the road reported yesterday. For the first eight months of this year net income totaled $17,460,768, against $18,557,189 for the corresponding 1944 period.

Fewer Appeal Rights Urged in Patent Suits

The patent system should be revised to reduce the number of appeals from patent office actions, improve the standard of inventions, and provide a wider spread of technological information, Casper W. Ooms, commissioner of the United States patent office, said yesterday.

Ooms, who until recently was a Chicago patent attorney, told a luncheon group of the Illinois Manufacturers' association in the Hotel Sherman changes to assure respect for the validity of patents and provide speedy issuance at lowest cost are needed. One of the first steps he recommended was improved appeal procedures.

Litigation Too Lengthy

"Something must be done to cut down the available appeals upon patent office actions," he said. "In some instances it is possible for an issue to be tried first in the patent office, then in the court of customs and patent appeals, then in the United States District court, and then in the Circuit Court of Appeals—an intolerable complex, expensive and protracted litigation.

"The entire question needs serious attention. I examined the records in the 50 cases next to be held in the patent office and found that the average earliest day of invention asserted was 9⅝ years old at the times the cases are to be held. This means that before the patents issue from those disputes the inventions will average in age in excess of 10 years."

Urges Stricter Policy

The standard of inventions depends on whether patents are granted freely or issued after rigorous or critical examination, he said. He urged the latter as the most satisfactory practice.

"What must be sought is a standard of invention that men will understand, and which assures the patent measured against it of going out into the world attended by some assurance of validity," he said.

Discussing how technical information can be spread widely thru the operation of the patent system, he said several large companies are considering offering their patents for licensing to others immediately upon issuance or a few years later when tooling costs are recovered and markets established.

"This will have a very wholesome effect on industry because it will answer the whole complaint against suppression of patents by big companies," he said.

SEEK NONFOOD USES TO REDUCE POTATO SURPLUS

Many of the potatoes from this year's crop, the second largest in history, may have to be diverted to nonfood uses unless they are exported, Chicago potato dealers said yesterday. The crop is estimated at 433 million bushels, 54 million more than last year.

Because producers may not be able to dispose of the large crop, the department of agriculture announced a broadened purchase and loan program this week. The program also is designed to support prices in accordance with government war time commitments.

The high yield and reduced military requirements have created "a real potato marketing problem," said department of agriculture officials.

Chicago Ford Dealers Get Preview of 1946 Models

Chicago area dealers yesterday obtained their first view of the 1946 Ford automobiles at a dealer showing in the Hotel Sherman. The cars were produced on the assembly line at the Rouge plant of the Ford Motor company, Detroit, before strikes in suppliers' plants stopped work.

People and Events

Frank L. Moran, an assistant cashier of the South East National bank, 1180 E. 63d st., has been named cashier, C. A. Beutel, president, said yesterday. Henry J. Beutel was advanced from assistant cashier to assistant vice president and five new assistant cashiers were elected. They are Ernest L. Kilgore, William C. Kassube, Bernard L. Weber, Oliver Reese, and Fred T. Rogers.

C. L. McCuen, General Motors corporation vice president in charge of engineering, announced the appointments of W. J. Davidson as administrative engineer of the new General Motors technical center in Detroit, Mich., and Col. A. J. Schamehorn as assistant administrative engineer.

B. Henry Sincere has resumed active interest as a partner of Sincere & Co., member of the New York stock exchange. For the last 1½ years he has served overseas with the army psychological warfare division.

Central Electric and Gas company announced the board of directors has been enlarged from five to seven members. The new ones are R. A. Phillips, vice president and general manager, and Judson Large, secretary-treasurer.

Louis S. Anderson, executive vice president and general manager of Reid Murdoch & Co., wholesale grocer, has resigned after 35 years with the company.

DENIES A. & P. LET STORES LOSE TO HIT COMPETITORS

Danville, Ill., Sept. 19 (AP)—Charles Staufenberg, Glen Ellyn, Ill., sales director for the middle western division of the New York Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company, today denied government allegations that some A. & P. units operated at a loss under instructions from New York headquarters in order to restrain competition. The company and 28 officers and subsidiaries are on trial on anti-trust charges before Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley.

Staufenberg said predictions that certain areas would operate in the red did not come from A. & P. headquarters in New York, but from the units and divisions themselves, "based entirely on past experience and what they believed to be expected in the future."

Questioned regarding varying gross profits rates in different A. & P. units, Staufenberg said many factors influenced profits and because a store was operating at a loss it did not necessarily follow that it was operating at a lower rate of gross profit.

CONS. GROCERS VOTES DEBT AND STOCK FINANCING

Consolidated Grocers corporation, Chicago, has been authorized by its stockholders to issue 6 million dollars of debentures, 40,000 shares of cumulative preferred stock, and 50,000 additional shares of common stock, Col. A. A. Sprague, chairman, announced yesterday. Proceeds will be used to retire funded debt, pay the short term loan incurred in the purchase of all common and substantially all preferred stock of Reid, Murdoch & Co., and retire the 15,000 shares of 6 per cent preferred.

Halsey, Stuart & Co. and associates were high bidders for 48 millions of Public Service Company of Indiana first mortgage bonds, offering 101.90 for a 3⅛ per cent rate. A banking group headed by Kuhn, Loeb & Co. bid 101.81. Public offering is expected Friday at 102.46. The utility's 150,000 shares of preferred stock went to Glore, Forgan & Co. on a bid of 101.55 for a 4.40 per cent dividend. Reoffering is planned at $103.50 a share.

TESTIFIES B. & O. DID NOT TRY TO KEEP RFC LOAN

Attorney Who Quit Road on Stand

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 19 (AP)—The Baltimore and Ohio railroad did not genuinly seek a renewal in 1944 of an 80 million dollar Reconstruction Finance corporation loan which would have avoided dept adjustment operations, Cassius M. Clay, former B. & O. general solicitor, told a federal court today.

The court is considering a half billion dollar debt adjustment plan proposed by the railroad.

Clay testified that from the inception of a 1938 debt adjustment plan there existed a "gentleman's agreement" between Jesse Jones, then RFC director, and B. & O. executives that the RFC would extend the railroad's loan in 1944.

Shocked by Jones' Action

When, at a conference with B. & O. officials, Jones said there would be no extension, Clay reported, "I was shocked and appalled." The railroad, subsequently, asked court approval for the new 500 million dollar debt adjustment plan, and three days ago Clay resigned saying he believed the plan "unsound."

Called to the stand by Randolph Phillips of New York, B. & O. bondholder objecting to the plan, Clay asked the court to be allowed to clarify his position since "I have serious questions as to the good faith of the debt adjustment plan proceedings."

The court repeatedly pressed for detailed facts on the accusations proffered by the witness. Following Clay's testimony, Judge Morris Soper directed counsel to produce in court "anyone and everyone who knows anything about it"—referring to the question of good faith raised by Clay. He particularly mentioned Jones, and also directed that two memoranda which Clay said were submitted by him on his resignation should be filed in court.

No Written RFC Refusal

Clay said he did not wish to take advantage of anything he learned while general solicitor of the railroad, but told the court he based his opinion of lack of good faith on a number of conferences in past years. He emphasized that there was no written refusal by Jones to extend the RFC loans in 1944.

Clay testified that when he later expressed disapproval of an adjustment plan, the B. & O. board agreed to seek the opinion of John Foster Dulles, New York attorney, as to whether the plan could be filed in good faith. The opinion was received in evidence by the court but its contents were not disclosed, except one paragraph which Clay read, purportedly supporting Clay's own position.

The court also received in evidence the railroad's assents to the adjustment plan. Company officials told the court about 81 per cent of its bondholders had approved.

La Roche Quits Executive Post with ABC Network

New York, Sept. 19 (AP)—The American Broadcasting company announced today that Chester J. La Roche, the network's vice chairman and executive head, would "no longer continue to be active in an executive capacity." Mark Woods, president, will take over La Roche's duties as vice chairman, in addition to continuing his present work. La Roche will "devote increasing attention to other business interests and public service." He will continue as a stockholder, director, and adviser to ABC.

Surface Lines Groups Agree on Price Split

BY WILLIAM SHINNICK

Representatives of six investor groups of the Chicago Surface Lines companies yesterday informed the governing board of the Chicago Metropolitan Transit authority that they had worked out an agreed distribution of proceeds from the proposed sale of the lines' property and were willing to recommend, on this basis, that the investors accept the authority's price.

The six groups were designated by the securities and exchange commission, in an advisory report to the federal District court, as eligible to participate in the distribution. The authority offer is 75 million dollars for the lines, plus retention of certain cash sums in their treasury.

Would Keep City's Fund

Atty. William J. Friedman, who spoke for all the investor groups, said the agreement was contingent on the investors getting company earnings until the sale is completed and on the city of Chicago foregoing a claim to a 5¼ million compensation fund held in escrow. The SEC said the city claim is "tenuous."

In general, the changes in distribution percentages were not large, Friedman said, and the Chicago City first mortgage holders, whom he represented, would not be brought up to par [the SEC recommended they get about 3 million less than the 27 million face value of their paper]. Only the Chicago Railways company first mortgage and Calumet and South Chicago firsts would be paid in full.

Argue SEC Report Monday

The authority board, of which Philip Harrington is chairman, and the investors will meet Sept. 28 and draw up an amended plan of distribution. On Monday objections to the SEC report will be argued in the court of Judge Michael L. Igoe.

Mayor Kelly made public a letter from Joshua D'Esposito, government subway engineer, opposing the spending of 22 millions by the surface lines for new equipment unless cash is held out for buying equipment for the State st. subway and the incomplete Dearborn-Milwaukee av. subway. The 22 millions would nearly exhaust the surface lines renewals fund.

DODGE-CHICAGO PLANT OFFERED FOR SALE, LEASE

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19 (AP)—The Reconstruction Finance corporation today offered for sale or lease 18 government owned plants in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Virginia, Alabama, Michigan, New York, New Jersey, Tennessee, and Texas.

They included the Chrysler corporation's big Dodge-Chicago plant with 14 steel and concrete buildings on 475 acre site for airplane engine production and four miles of rail siding.

STOCKS EXTEND BROAD RISE IN HEAVIER TRADE

Industrial Shares Lead Advance

New York, Sept. 19 (AP)—Stocks advanced on a broad scale in today's market. Gains of 1 to 3 points again were posted for steels, motors, rubbers, and other selected issues in the light of an improved labor situation.

Hints that labor unions in the automobile industry may be willing to compromise wage demands provided the principal stimulus for buyers. Most investors took the view that reconversion would not be slowed.

Government dropping of construction controls continued a factor among building shares. Gains were recorded by United States Gypsum, Owens-Illinois Glass and Johns-Manville, the latter at a new 1945 high on a 5 point rise.

Index Sets High Since 1937

The Associated Press 60 stock composite rose 0.9 to 69.9, highest since April 27, 1937. Stocks were transferred in blocks of 1,000 to 17,000 and turnover totaled 1,690,000, the biggest since Aug. 10 and compared with 1,160,000 yesterday. Of 982 issues traded 698 advanced, 136 declined, and 148 closed unchanged.

Biggest gainers included Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet, General Motors, Chrysler, Goodyear, United States Rubber, Sears Roebuck, Caterpillar Tractor, Douglas Aircraft, American Telephone, North American, Kennecott, American Can, du Pont, Allied Chemical, Southern Pacific, Baltimore and Ohio, and Certain-teed.

The short interest in listed stocks totaled 1,327,109 shares on Sept. 14, an increase of 21,329 over 1,305,780 on Aug. 14. Largest increases were in aircraft company stocks. Short interests decreased in some rails, motors, and miscellaneous industrials.

RAIL LOANS ACTIVE

New York, Sept. 19 (AP)—Strength in numerous medium priced rails kept the bond market at mostly higher levels in relatively active dealings today. Gains ranged to about 2 points and in most cases held up to the close despite increased offerings in some bonds in the last hour. Sales were $5,810,000, compared with $6,090,000 yesterday.

CHICAGO PRICES HIGHER

Prices advanced again on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday and turnover increased to 51,000 shares. Volume leaders included Armour and Consolidated Biscuit, each up ⅜, and Chicago corporation, Nash Kelvinator, and Sinclair, each up ¼.

Money when you need it most
Have you ever discovered that just when you needed it most you were out of ready cash? It is impossible to foresee every emergency, but you can prepare for them by always keeping a substantial cash reserve in a savings account. Many have found it a wise precaution never to let their savings balances fall below an amount equal to two or three months' income. Start a systematic savings account and learn to make regular deposits every week or every month.

EXPERTS OFFER BROAD PROGRAM OF TAX REFORM

Estate and Gift Levies Would Go to States

upward to 25 to 30 per cent for the $8,000-$10,000 bracket; 40 to 45 per cent for the $25,000-$50,000 bracket; 49 to 54 per cent at the $75,000-$100,000 bracket, with a 67 to 72 per cent maximum for million dollar incomes. The proposed top rate compares with the 91 per cent maximum now levied on incomes above $200,000.

Partial elimination of the present "double" taxation of corporate dividends also was recommended. This would be effected by giving individuals credit on dividend income on which the corporation had already paid a tax.

Reduce Rates Gradually

The reductions in individual rates would not come immediately under the program, but would be the culmination of a gradual reduction over a period of two to three years. The committee cautioned that immediate relief for taxpayers is limited by the revenue needs of the government and reductions in taxes should not run ahead of cuts in expenditures.

The committee foresaw eventual reduction in federal expenditures to between 15 and 22 billion dollars from the war peak of 47 billion reached in the fiscal year ended last June.

Among its other recommendations were the elimination of the so-called nuisance taxes on corporations, the capital stock tax, and the declared value excess profits tax. The committee would retain broad excise taxes to give "diversity" to the tax structure and make it less subject to the fluctuations of business profits and individual incomes. This provision would provide greater stability in revenues, said the committee.

Treasury Service Long

The committee's chairman is rated as one of the country's outstanding tax authorities. He served as undersecretary of the treasury in 1937-'38 at the insistence of Secretary Morgenthau. He had served the treasury earlier in various capacities beginning in 1923. Much of the work of the committee was done by Harley L. Lutz, Princeton university professor of public finance, who acted as the group's director of research and wrote much of the report.

The committee's study, which began 16 months ago, was financed by a special grant from the Maurice and Laura Falk Foundation. Committee members included Fred R. Fairchild, Yale university professor of economics; Rowland R. Hughes, controler of the National City Bank of New York; Victor H. Stempf, president of the American Institute of Accountants, and Thomas N. Tarleau, New York lawyer and former tax legislative counsel of the treasury department. A predecessor committee which sponsored the study was headed by Dr. Henry M. Wriston, president of Brown university.

Electricity Output Falls 7 Pct. Below Year Ago

Chicago area electricity output of the Commonwealth Edison group of companies, excluding sales to other utilities, last week showed a decrease of 7.2 per cent to 176,550,000 kilowatt hours from 190,308,000 kilowatt hours a year ago, the company said yesterday. Power output thruout the country fell to 4,106,187,000 kilowatt hours, compared with 4,394,839,000 in the corresponding week last year, the Edison Electric Institute reported.

COURT APPROVES MOVE TO ISSUE RAIL SECURITIES

Milwaukee Will Seek ICC Authority

Another step toward completion of the reorganization of the Milwaukee road was approved yesterday by Judge Michael L. Igoe in United States District court. The court gave the reorganization committee permission to apply to the interstate commerce commission for authority to issue new securities and list them on the New York and Chicago stock exchanges for trading on a "when issued" basis.

The committee proposes to list three bond issues on the New York exchange only. They are $59,515,000 of first mortgage 4 per cent bonds, series A, due Jan. 1, 1994; $57,256,000 of general mortgage 4½ per cent income bonds, series A, due Jan. 1, 2019, and $51,422,100 of general mortgage 4½ per cent convertible income bonds, series B, due Jan. 1, 2044.

Stocks on Both Exchanges

Securities to be issued by the voting trustees under the voting trust agreement and listed on both the New York and Chicago exchanges are: Preferred voting trust certificates, representing 1,127,740 shares of series A preferred stock of the reorganized company, and common stock voting trust certificates representing 2,123,214 shares of new common stock.

The committee said the securities would be listed at $100 par.

Vote to Modify Mortgage

With approval of the reorganization committee, bondholders of the Chicago, Terre Haute, and Southeastern railroad, operated under lease by the Milwaukee, voted to permit the reorganization committee to modify mortgages on the Terre Haute line. Judge Igoe also issued an order permitting the committee to make these modifications.

HANDLES FEWER CARS

The Baltimore and Ohio Railway company reported that last week 69,032 carloads were handled by the road, with 45,766 loaded on the line and 23,266 received from connections. A year ago 72,684 carloads were handled.

W. A. SHEAFFER PEN

Please give me a report on W. A. Sheaffer Pen company.—C. P.

A large increase in sales reported by Sheaffer Pen in recent years was the result of its activity in war production, including Autotune controls for aircraft radio transmitters. Only limited amounts of its regular products could be produced. These include fountain pens, pencils, desk sets, leads, and ink.

The volume rose to $19,612,000 in the fiscal year ended last February, compared with $5,596,000 in the 1940 fiscal period. Net income also increased substantially after heavy excess profits taxes. Earnings per share on 156,212 shares in 1945 and a larger number in earlier years were: 1945, $7.07; 1944, $7.10; 1943, $5.06; 1942, $5.90; 1941, $5.13; 1940, $4.66; 1939, $4.30; 1938, $4.19.

Concerning the peace time outlook, C. R. Sheaffer, president, said in the latest annual report that indications based on sample shipments of products improved in appearance and function were that the products would be well received when the company was in a position to supply them in quantities.

The present dividend rate of $3 yearly, including extras, has been paid from 1942 on. Payments at varying rates were made each year since 1922, except 1933 and 1934. With no funded debt or preferred stock outstanding, net working capital as of last Feb. 28 was $4,271,531.

ORE USE DECREASES

The Lake Superior Iron Ore association reported blast furnaces in the United States consumed 5,472,296 tons of ore in August, compared with 7,137,316 in August, 1944. Consumption for the first eight months was 50,867,692 tons, compared with 57,275,631.

MANY REFUSING JOBS REMOVED FROM AID ROLLS

Unemployed war workers who insist they be offered jobs which do not exist except in war time are being lopped from the unemployment compensation rolls as rapidly as possible, Samuel G. Bernstein, unemployment compensation commissioner, said yesterday.

A displaced war worker must take any job offered at similar rates of pay, if his war time job has been eliminated, and at the end of a period of grace must accept a job at the prevailing rate of pay, it was explained. If he does not accept the prevailing rate, his unemployment compensation will be ended, Bernstein said.

How Process Works

Bernstein gave this example of how the process works: If a man who worked as a shell loader during the war insists he will accept work only as a shell loader, his unemployment benefits will be rescinded at once. If he will take another type of work, he has several weeks in which to find a job at a similar rate of pay. At the end of that time, he must accept the prevailing rate in the area for the type of work he can perform.

If the United States employment service sends an unemployed person to an employer who seeks help and the job seeker refuses work, the employer should report him so his unemployment benefits can be halted, said Bernstein.

A survey completed yesterday by the war man power commission disclosed shortages of male workers for specific jobs and of women for all types of jobs thruout the state except in southern Illinois, Charles P. Casey, state WMC director, reported.

Unfilled Jobs Listed

Between Aug. 15 and Sept. 8, 161,700 workers were laid off in the 10 major employment areas in the state. The lay-offs were divided about equally between men and women. The USES offices in these areas listed 72,360 unfilled job openings on Sept. 15.

Casey said the survey showed that many employers now are hiring one skilled worker to replace several semi-skilled workers, many persons employed during the war are not seeking work now, and many persons who left jobs in heavy industry for lighter jobs during the war now are seeking jobs similar to the ones they held in war time.

Chicago had the highest percentage of jobs for women of any of the areas included in the survey.

DAY by DAY on the FARM

By BEN MARKLAND

Sept. 19, 1945

A HALF day visit on the Wheaton farm provides abundant evidence that summer is almost ready to abdicate for autumn.

The most obvious signal of autumn's approach each year is the change in leaf coloration; altho city maples and elms retain their summer hues, at least two species of rural trees are in the first stages of autumnal retirement. Sumacs are starting to turn red and the shagbark hickory leaves are changing from summer's green to the tawny yellow hues characteristic of this species in fall.

Fall Jobs Under Way

In the fields the farmers have started what they consider "fall jobs," the filling of silos, fall plowing, and planting of winter wheat. The farm gardeners have cleaned out the root cellar for the winter storage of carrots, beets, squash, pumpkins, and other garden produce.

Grapes are turning ripe, and boys returning from school turn their bicycles up the lane that leads to the vineyard.

Cardinal Flowers Fading

In both fields and woodlots, evidence of autumn is provided by the decline of summer wildflowers and the maturity of wild fruits. Cardinal flowers, which provided brilliant coloring for the woodlot creekbed during August, are almost gone, with only 10 to 15 specimens still showing their bright red florets. The dominant species now is the wild asters, with the blue Drummond's aster and the larger purple New England aster leading the display. The supply of thorn apples is low this season, but the fruits of the hawthorn trees on the branches are red ripe.

The fox squirrels and gray squirrels seem to recognize the cool nights as evidence of approaching autumn, because they are participating in a feeding spree that is not appreciated by the farm residents. Several rows of field corn at the south edge of the farm, across the road from a heavy woodlot, have been seriously damaged by the bushtails.

The main farm garden is bordered by heavy woods on the south and east, and the squirrels have feasted on sweet corn and pumpkins in this plot. The gardener believes the squirrels were aided by groundhogs in their attack on the pumpkins, the larger animals penetrating the rind and the squirrels following in their path to feast on the soft centers.

★ The GARDEN ★

[This is the fourth of a series of articles on fall harvesting methods.]

GARDENERS who plan to store beets, carrots, celeriac, kohlrabi, radishes, and other hard root crops in basement sand boxes or root cellars need not be in a hurry to harvest the roots for storage. All these vegetables will withstand light frosts, therefore can await forecasts of killing frosts. The roots will be preserved better in their growing space than in any artificial container provided.

The gardener on the Wheaton farm considers beets and carrots two of the most important vegetables for winter storage, and if the autumn weather is normal he does not harvest these roots until mid-October. Last week-end he examined Detroit Dark Red beets, which were harvested last October and stored in sand in the cellar. These roots, in storage 11 months, were almost as firm as when harvested.

ARMY DECLARES CAMPS ELLIS AND SKOKIE SURPLUS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19 (AP)—Seventeen military installations were declared surplus today by the war department. They will be turned over to the surplus property board for disposal. Among them were the following, with their location, size, use, and date on which they become surplus:

Fort Brady, Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., 3,021 acres, security camp, Oct. 1.

Camp Ellis, Table Grove, Ill., 52,882 acres, army service forces training center, Oct. 1.

Camp River Rouge, Detroit, 22 acres, security military police post, Nov. 15.

Camp Thomas A. Scott, Fort Wayne, Ind., 79 acres, prisoner of war camp, Nov. 15.

Camp Skokie, Glen View, Ill., 150 acres, military police and prisoner of war camp, Nov. 15.

The surplus property board will refer the army owned property to one or more of the disposal agencies—the departments of agriculture or interior, the national housing agency, and the federal works agency.

PULLMAN PUTS LAP BOARDS ON SERVICE TRAINS

Lap boards for card playing and letter writing are being placed by the Pullman company on the 1,325 troop sleepers and three-tier tourist sleepers used in moving service men across country, the company said yesterday.

"When we took the first model to a railroad yard to try it out for size on a troop car, the boys were so enthusiastic that we almost didn't get the model back," J. P. Leach, assistant vice president of Pullman, said.

The boards, 26 by 20 inches, are metal faced. Standard card and writing tables for use between seats are available in 4,150 other Pullman sleepers. An average of 700,000 service men a month travel in Pullman cars in organized troop movements.
